JAMES HARRIS FRENCH, Returning-Officer.
Council-chambers, North Sydney.
September 7, 1870.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE BOROUGH OF NORTH WILLOUGHBY.—GENTLEMEN,—As there appeared to be some doubts as to the legality of my recent Election as Alderman of your Council, and legal proceedings having been taken about it by the other candidate, I have, after mature consideration, thought it advisable to relinquish my seat, which I have accordingly done. Having been obliged to take this step, through no fault of my own, I trust you will, at the approaching Election, show that I have not forfeited your good opinion, by again electing me as one of your Aldermen. I have the honour to be, Gentlemen, your faithful servant, JAMES PETER BEST.

JUDSON'S SIMPLE DYES FOR THE PEOPLE (registered) are undoubtedly the most useful articles ever offered to the public. Anyone can use them. Anything can be dyed with them in a few minutes, without soiling the hands. In England "Judson's Dyes" are as "Household Words." Articles of clothing that have been put aside as faded and useless may be made nearly equal to new by merely following the simple directions appended to each bottle of dye.
Names of Colours:—
Magenta Mauve Violet Scarlet
Green Blue Purple Pink
Crimson Brown Canary Orange
Black Puce Lavender Slate.
Price, 6d per bottle.
May be had of druggists and storekeepers throughout the world; or wholesale of DANIEL JUDSON and SON, Southwark-street, London.
A small bottle of colour will dye twelve yards of bonnet ribbon. See that you get "Judson's" Simple Dyes, the wonderful popularity of which has caused numerous inferior imitations, which are calculated to injure both buyers and sellers. Ask for Judson's Catalogue of Instructions how to use the Dyes for twenty different purposes.

PODOPHYLLIN.—New discovery for Indigestion, Bile, Sick Headache, Flatulence, Loss of Appetite, 6d and 2s 6d; by post, 2s and 3s.
W. LARMER, 323, George-street.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the Inventor of Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—TIMES, July 13, 1864.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—The Right Hon. Earl RUSSELL communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in cholera was Chlorodyne.—See LANCET, December 31, 1864.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, "Is prescribed by scores of orthodox practitioners. Of course, it would not be thus singularly popular did it not 'supply a want and fill a place.'"—MEDICAL TIMES, January 12, 1866.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is the best and most certain remedy in coughs, colds, asthma, consumption, neuralgia, rheumatism, &c.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is a certain cure in cholera, dysentery, diarrhœa, colics, &c.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—Caution.—None genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle. Sole manufacturer, J. T. Davenport, 33, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury, London. The immense demand enables the proprietors to reduce the price; it is now sold in bottles, 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, and 11s, containing double quantity hitherto.
Agents: Sydney, Messrs. ELLIOTT BROTHERS.
Agents: Melbourne, Messrs. FELTON, GRIMWADE, and CO.

RATS, MICE, BEETLES, COCKROACHES, &c., what nasty things they are.—Buy HUNTER'S INFALLIBLE VERMIN DESTROYER. Testimonial from James Froud, chemist, Dorchester:—"Your poison succeeds to admiration. It is as effective as an infernal machine." Sold in packets at 3d, 6d, and 1s each, by most chemists and apothecaries, and wholesale by Messrs. Graham, Thacker, and Hoffe, wholesale druggists, Dublin. Wholesale agents—EDWARD ROW and CO., 219, Pitt-street; and by all chemists and druggists.

A CARD FOR THE DRESSING-ROOM.
Caution to the public, beware of spurious imitations, and ask for
MURRAY and LANMAN'S FLORIDA WATER.
Ladies, your attention is invited to the especial advantages of
over every other perfume.
It is manufactured from fresh floral extracts, not from unwholesome chemical combinations intended to counterfeit their odours. Besides being the most delicate and delightful of floral waters, it has important sanitary recommendations. Its aroma relieves headache, prevents fainting fits, promotes sleep, and soothes the nerves. Infused into the bath, it renders it more invigorating and refreshing. Combined with water, it imparts whiteness to the teeth, preserves the enamel, and renders the gums hard and rosy. No other toilet water retains its fragrance so long after contact with the atmosphere.
Beware of counterfeits; always ask for the legitimate Murray and Lanman's Florida Water, prepared only by LANMAN and KEMP, New York. All others are worthless.
Wholesale Agents:
EDWARD ROW and COMPANY,

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS
of this medicine, and to observe, in every case, that the words
"JOHN STEEDMAN, Chemist, Walworth, Surrey," are engraved on the Government Stamp affixed to each packet, without which none are genuine. Sold by all Chemists and Druggists in Australasia in packets.

PIONEER KEROSENE OIL.—This superior Illuminating Oil obtained the first Prize Medal at the Melbourne Exhibition of 1867, and a Silver Medal from the Paris Exhibition of 1868. It burns with a clear light, free from smoke or smell. It is offered to the colonial public upon its merits, seeks only an unprejudiced trial. It should be popular because it is GOOD and CHEAP. Oil dealers and country storekeepers can save money by purchasing the Pioneer Kerosene instead of American—the oil is quite as good, and terms as liberal may be had. Buyers of large parcels especially should call at the "Pioneer Kerosene Oil Depot, King-street West, Sydney."
JOHN GRAHAM.
N.B.—Orders by post promptly attended to.

which may be obtained at the office of the treasurer; of Mr. Moffitt, stationer, Pitt-street, and at the office on the course.
Gentlemen's tickets for the last three days, 21s.
SMOKING is strictly prohibited on the Grand Stand. Any person disregarding this regulation will be ejected from the Saddling Paddock, forfeiting charge for admission.
TRAINERS and PROFESSIONAL JOCKEYS will receive tickets of admission to the saddling paddock on application to the Secretary previous to 10 a.m.
ONE GROOM will be admitted in charge of each racehorse.
NO HORSE whatever will be admitted into the Saddling Paddock on the plea of coming in with a racehorse.
RACEHORSES will enter the Saddling Paddock by the door at the west end.
NO EQUIPAGES or horses (racers excepted) will be admitted to the Saddling Paddock on any pretence whatever.
MEMBERS' HORSES and CARRIAGES will be admitted to the yard erected specially for them on PRODUCTION OF MEMBERS' TICKETS.
NO OMNIBUS will be admitted inside the gate of the Course grounds.
NO PERSON shall be allowed to have gambling implements in his possession or to use them on the course.
THE ADMITTANCE to the course is subject to the regulations being complied with. Any person infringing them or any of them will be liable to be ejected from the course.
OWING to the great inconvenience arising from owners or trainers failing to give notice of the withdrawal of horses in proper time, their attention is particularly requested to the following rule of the A. J. C., which will be rigidly enforced during the forthcoming meeting:—
"VI. All persons intending to draw horses, are required to give notice to that effect to the Secretary or Clerk of the Scales, at least half-an-hour before starting. Any person neglecting or refusing to comply with this rule shall pay a fine, to be imposed by the Stewards, not exceeding 25 sovereigns, to the race fund, and no horse shall be considered struck out of his engagements unless such notice shall have been given, but shall be liable for his whole stake."
THE START for each race during the forthcoming meeting will take place punctually at the advertised time, and in order that there may be no misunderstanding, the warning bell will be rung four minutes previous to the saddling bell; the saddling bell seven minutes previous to the go to the post bell, and the go to the post bell will be rung in time for horses leaving the saddling paddock to reach the starting post.
THE TIME on all occasions to be indicated by the weighing-room clock.
THE BELL LAST rung will be shown by the signal post, to which TRAINERS and JOCKEYS are enjoined to pay particular attention, in order that they with the horse may be ready to leave the paddock on ringing of the "GO TO THE POST" bell; for in all cases of their failing to be at the post at the specified time of starting, the start will take place without them, and the TRAINER and JOCKEY WILL BE SUBJECT TO A FINE OF FIVE POUNDS (vide Rule V.), which will be rigidly enforced.

TO JOCKEYS.—XVI. The Stewards shall have power to impose a fine, not exceeding £5 on any jockey not appearing, in their opinion, in a thoroughly clean and appropriate dress. The owner of the horse on which he may be engaged to ride shall nevertheless be held responsible for the proper condition of the colours; and any jockey who shall be fined in respect thereof shall be entitled to recover the amount from such owner; and any such owner refusing to indemnify such jockey shall be disqualified from entering or starting a horse until such fine shall have been paid.

BUCHAN THOMSON,
Secretary and Treasurer.

CARTER'S FURNITURE WAREHOUSE,
No. 404, George-street, opposite Telegraph Office.
R. T. CARTER,
formerly of John Hill and Company, and late
LAWSON and CARTER,
begs to return sincere thanks to his customers who have so kindly supported him during the time he has been in business, and now desires to inform them and the public generally that he has removed from Jamison-street to No. 404, GEORGE-STREET, opposite Telegraph Office.

THE LABOUR BAZAAR, 285, 287, 289, 291, 293, and 295, Pitt-street, was established 30 years ago, on the principle of buying and selling for cash. The proprietors still adhere to the same rule, and are always better satisfied with a very light profit and quick return than hold their goods for the market value.
They have now on view an enormous stock of new and second-hand dining-room, drawing-room, bedroom, library, hall, and kitchen requisites of every description, which they want to dispose of to make room for several houses of furniture which they have purchased, and have not room to stow away until they make a clearance.
The following is a very brief outline of some of the goods now on view:—
Hall tables, chairs, and umbrella stands
Square and round-end telescope dining tables, from 5 to 15 feet, with and without screws
Cedar and mahogany sofas
Couches and chairs, in leather and haircloth
Sets of first-class oak furniture, each comprising couch, beautifully carved; 2 easy chairs, and 12 chairs with stuffed backs, and covered with dead grain morocco
Mahogany and cedar chiffonieres and sideboards, with and without glass backs, from £3 to £50
Dining-room, bedroom, library, and fancy cane chairs, of every description
Bookcases, whatnots, library tables, office furniture, maps, globes, chronometers, aneroids, ships' clocks, and medicine chests
Billiard-bagatelle tables, and folding bagatelle boards, with stands
Gilt sofas and chairs, covered in satin
Rosewood and walnut drawing-room suites, in rich satin, damask, tabaret, and rep, from £15 to £50
Solid walnut and rosewood loo, card, occasional, and work tables
Grover and Baker's and Singer's sewing-machines
Pier, chimney, girandole, cheval, and toilet glasses
Valuable oil paintings and engravings
Brass and mahogany curtain poles, rings, bands, &c.
Damask and lace curtains
Pianofortes by Erard, Collard and Collard, Cadby, Broadwood, and other makers, from 10 to 100 guineas
Organs, silver-mounted flutes, concertinas, and violins
Brussels tapestry, patent felt, and Kidderminster carpets in great variety
Hearthrugs, doormats and slips, every size
Old seasoned floorcloth, various widths and patterns
2000 rolls of white and coloured best China matting
Glass and china in endless variety
Table cutlery and every description of platedware
Brass and iron tube and solid post bedsteads, from £35 to 20s.
Swing cots, cradles, and bassinettes
Hair, fibre, and flock mattresses
Feather and air beds, bolsters, and pillows
Marble and cedar top washstands, with toilet tables, to match.
Blankets, quilts, bed and table linen
Mahogany, walnut, cedar, and pine wardrobes, with and without glass doors
Chests of drawers and secretaries, from 50s upwards
Cut-glass chandeliers and lustres
Cooking stoves, English grates, and patent mangles
Kitchen ironmongery and utensils
Jenny Lind buggies, to carry four, new and second-hand
Carriages, park phaetons, and light spring-carts
Gold and silver watches, and chains
Guns, rifles, and revolvers, in cases
Weighing-chairs, striking-buffers, and other curiosities.
First-class second-hand double harness, double buckles, and silver mounted, very little used
Ditto ditto, brass mountings
Single buggy and dogcart ditto, £3 and upwards

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

FROM THE 2ND SEPTEMBER TO THE 9TH SEPTEMBER.

The eighth annual meeting of the Glebe and Parramatta-street Penny Bank was held at St. Barnabas' schoolroom, last Monday week. The statement of accounts proved the institution to be in a flourishing state.

On Saturday last, nine tons of quartz, at Adelong, crushed by Wellington's machine, yielded eighteen ounces of gold.

A new wine company is about to be formed at Albury, for the south-western district.

On the 1st instant, at Newcastle, Miss Rosa Cooper, the well-known and popular actress, met with a very severe accident, but is now progressing favourably.

On the 2nd instant, the Matrimonial Causes Bill was read in the Legislative Assembly a second time; the majority in favour of the measure being 27 to 17. The debate was an acrimonious one.

Saturday, the 3rd instant, was the "Derby Day" of the Randwick Spring Meeting. The Earl of Belmore and Viscount Canterbury were present.

A complimentary concert to Mr. Fisher, junior, was given at Christ Church school-room last Monday night.

It is stated that recently, in consequence of the overflow of the river M'Intyre, Mr. Jenkins, of Callandoon, has lost 3000 sheep.

Delegates from the Friendly and Benefit Societies have waited upon the Hon. John Sutherland, asking him to reintroduce a new Bill for the regulation of those Societies.

A large number of stock were sold at good prices at the Prince Alfred Park on Monday last.

On Monday last, Lord Belmore, Lord Canterbury, and a large party of ladies and gentlemen visited the Zigzag.

On Tuesday evening last, the annual Masonic ball took place at the Hall, in York-street.

The Intercolonial Exhibition continues daily to attract a large number of visitors.

On Tuesday morning last, their Excellencies the Earl of Belmore and Viscount Canterbury inspected various points of the Sydney harbour, with a view to ascertain the best sites for fortifications.

Mr. John Bushelle, the New South Wales rifleman, has made some very successful shooting in England.

A seaman belonging to Sichellealion barque, at Newcastle, fell from the rigging of that vessel and was killed on Tuesday last.

Our French friends at Noumea kept up the Fête Napoleon with the usual festivities. A gentleman belonging to the scientific staff of that colony (M. Douay) is now in Sydney drawing up a report of the Intercolonial Exhibition.

A man named John Tracy was recently drowned in the Gostwick Creek in New England.

A man named Thomas Bragg committed suicide, at Ryde, on Friday last, by hanging himself. He was of unsound mind at the time.

An unfortunate woman, named Ann Doroney, committed suicide in Dixon-street, last Tuesday afternoon, by cutting her throat, she being in a fit of temporary insanity.

Viscount and Viscountess Canterbury inspected Fort-street school on Monday last, and visited Sydney University afterwards.

On Wednesday last the Herald published a very voluminous description of this colony for transmission to England by the out-going mail.

The Hon. E. Deas Thomson and the Hon. John O'Shanassy have entered on the inquiry referred to them respecting Pental Island. They have proceeded to Victoria to continue their investigations.

On Wednesday last, at the St. Leonards School of Arts, the Rev. Dr. Steel delivered an interesting lecture on the Bible and the world.

Last Tuesday evening an entertainment was given by the Morton Dramatic Club, at the School of Arts, Balmain.

James Morris, a seaman, belonging to the ship Fairfield, was drowned at Newcastle, last Tuesday night.

A conference of the Sons of Temperance was held at the Temperance Hall on Thursday last, the subject being the new Permissive Liquor Bill.

It is understood that Mr. A. O. Moriarty has ceased to be a member of the Civil Service of this colony.

A special general meeting of the parishioners of St. Peter's, Woolloomooloo, was held on Thursday evening last, when arrangements were agreed upon for defraying all expenses consequent upon the departure of the Rev. G. H. Moreton to England for his health. The parishioners intend to pay their pastor's salary whilst he is away.

On Thursday evening last, a meeting of Germans took place at the Masonic Hall, for the relief of wounded German soldiers in the present war.

There has been a long debate in the Legislative Council on the proposition, by Mr. A. Campbell, that commissioners should be appointed for the management of the public debt. The House counted out on the motion on Thursday evening last.

Viscount and Viscountess Canterbury and suite have returned to Victoria in the Avoca. Major Blackall and Mrs. Blackall are still in Sydney.

NEW SOUTH WALES PARLIAMENT.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9TH.

The SPEAKER took the chair at twenty-five minutes past 7 o'clock.

THE POLICE FORCE.

Mr. M. H. STEPHEN asked the Colonial Secretary,—"1. Have the constables of the police force any and what opportunity of attending Divine Service at least once on Sundays? 2. If not, can arrangements be made for affording them such opportunity; and if so, will such arrangements be made?"

Mr. COWPER, in reply, said he concluded that the questions had reference more particularly to the Sydney police, as in the country the duties can usually be arranged without difficulty, so as to allow of any of the police who desire it regularly attending places of worship, when there are such in the neighbourhood. In Sydney the duties of the police were even more arduous on Sundays than on other days, in preserving order in the parks and other places of public resort. Besides which, police are required for attendance at places of public worship, to prevent disturbance and annoyance in the neighbourhood; and as there are five times as many churches as police constables available for duty, it is difficult to provide for the efficient performance of that duty. The police, however, who perform night duty can, if they desire it, attend Divine service on Sundays, and the day duty men relieved at 6 p.m., can attend evening service. For the above reasons, and considering the very limited force available for duty in the city and suburbs, the Inspector-General found it impracticable to make arrangements for allowing the police more leisure on Sundays, consistent with the due protection of life and property, and the preservation of order.

VOTE FOR REPAIR OF ROADS AND BRIDGES.

Mr. BAKER asked the Colonial Secretary,—"What proportion of the £5000, which was voted last session for the repair of Bridges and Roads injured by the recent floods, was expended in the Braidwood District?"

Mr. COWPER replied, that £10 had been expended in the repair of the bridge on the Nowra and Braidwood Road; £60 for the repair of the road from Braidwood to Moruya, and the road via Kiora to Moruya; £20 for repairing causeway on road from Braidwood to Sergeant's Point; £100 on the road from Moruya to Major's Creek; £140 for road from Braidwood to Araluen; £20 for repair of bridges on road from Nowra to Braidwood. Total, £350.

THE ULUMBIE RUN.

Mr. DANGAR asked the Secretary for Lands,—"1. Is it true that Messrs. Doyle's Ulumbie Run, in the district of Liverpool Plains, was appraised according to law, and when a refund was applied for it was refused? 2. Did the Chief Commissioner of Crown Lands refuse to accept the appraisement of such run? 3. Did this officer, in so refusing to reject the appraisement of this run, do so with the sanction and under the advice of the Minister for Lands, or on his own responsibility?"

Mr. ROBERTSON, in reply to the first question, said that the run was appraised recently under a description which was grossly inaccurate, and therefore when a refund was applied for it was refused. In answer to the second question, he said that the Chief Commissioner refused to take any action in the appraisement, because it was based on erroneous representations of the run and its boundaries as exhibited on a plan placed before the Appraisement Court by the lessees. In answer to the third question, he said it did not appear that the Chief Commissioner sought or obtained the sanction of the Secretary for Lands, but seemed to have acted under the tenth chapter of the regulations under the Crown Lands' Occupation Act. He was informed that the lessees had a personal interview with the chief clerk of the Crown Lands' Occupation Office, and so far as he understood them, they concurred with him, and were satisfied that they had no claim to any refund.

SNEIDER RIFLES.

Mr. WILSON, for Mr. Parkes, asked the Colonial Treasurer,—"Whether he is in a position to explain to the House why the Colonial Agent in London did not carry out the instructions of the late Government, conveyed to him by the Colonial Secretary's letter of September 16th, 1868, to purchase 2500 Sneider or other improved rifles, for arming the Volunteer force; and whether the letter of credit for this purpose, remitted to the Colonial Agent on the same date, has been operated upon for any other service, or has remained unexpended in London without the knowledge of the Government, as would appear to be the case, by the statement made to the House, in answer to a question, on the 2nd instant?"

Mr. COWPER said that the late Government first asked for the presentation of the rifles, and wrote to Captain Mayne, instructing him to ascertain if the request of this Government would be complied with, and in case of refusal to purchase the required arms. The reply of Captain Mayne was to the effect that a despatch had been sent to the colony referring to the rules laid down some years since for the supply of arms to the colonies, and that there was no reason to doubt that they would be supplied under those rules which provide for arms being furnished on loan, and ammunition on payment. No letter of credit was sent by the late Government; but there was a minute of Mr. Eagar to the Colonial Treasurer as follows:—"Finding, since my minute of 16th August, 1868, that there is no parliamentary provision for the purchase of these rifles, I considered it right to take the opinion of the Cabinet as to whether a vote of the Assembly should be anticipated, and it was decided that the credit applied for should not be issued until a vote be taken for this service." The present Government accepted the offer made of the loan under the regulations referred to, but the matter was kept in abeyance by the Imperial Government until September, 1869, when a despatch was received notifying that they would not be issued to the colony without payment. The present Government then sent instructions to Captain Mayne to purchase the most improved rifles without delay, and funds were at the same time placed at his disposal for that purpose. The papers will all be laid on the table.

THE EUROKA RUN.

Mr. BUCHANAN asked the Colonial Treasurer,—"If he will state the name of the occupier of the Euroka Run, to whom £1200 was paid back?"

Mr. COWPER said that the occupiers of the Euroka Run were Messrs. W. W. and Edward Brocklehurst.

HARBOUR DEFENCES.

Mr. FARNELL asked the Colonial Secretary,—"Is it the intention of the Government to adopt the elaborate scheme of harbour defence proposed by Mr. Cracknell?"

Mr. COWPER said he was not aware that Mr. Cracknell had proposed any scheme of harbour defence.

PAPERS.

Mr. COWPER laid on the table a copy of a despatch from the Secretary of State relating to Imperial stores; a return moved for in August last, in reference to the Burrowa District Court; and the report of Messrs. C. Rolleston, M. B. Pell, G. P. Slade, and T. J. Jaques, on the working of the Land Titles Branch of the Registrar-General's department.

It was ordered that the documents be printed.

PETITION.

Mr. LACKEY presented a petition from Lieutenant Sadleir, in favour of the Matrimonial Causes Bill.

The petition was read to the house and received.

PRINTING OF PETITIONS.

The following petitions against the Matrimonial Causes bill were ordered to be printed:—The petition presented by Mr. M. H. Stephen on the 6th September, from certain Roman Catholics and others of the town and district of Mudgee; the petition presented by Mr. Byrnes on the 7th September, from the clergyman, churchwardens, and certain of the laity of the Church of England, at Denham Court.

CATHEDRAL CLOSE BILL.

Mr. COWPER moved,—"That leave be given to bring in a bill to amend an Act intituled an Act to authorise the appropriation of the Old Burial Ground or Cathedral Close, in Sydney, to certain municipal and other public purposes."

The motion was agreed to, and the bill was subsequently brought in, read a first time, and ordered to be printed.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS BILL OF 1870.

Mr. COWPER moved,—"That the Industrial Schools Bill of 1870 be read a third time."

Carried.

The bill was then passed, and ordered to be transmitted to the Legislative Council for its concurrence.

UNCLAIMED SUITORS' FUND APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. COWPER moved,—"That the Unclaimed Suitors' Fund Appropriation Bill be read a third time."

Carried.

The bill was then passed, and ordered to be transmitted to the Legislative Council for its concurrence.

ADJOURNMENT—ELECTIONS AND QUALIFICATIONS COMMITTEE.

Mr. WILSON moved the adjournment of the House, in order to call attention to a matter relating to the Elections and Qualifications Committee. He did not say that any gentlemen of the committee were to blame, but there were many parties in Sydney who were waiting to appear before the committee, and who, in consequence of the delay in obtaining a quorum, had been put to a good deal of expense and inconvenience. There were a number of witnesses down from Braidwood, in reference to the disturbance which took place during the election of the hon. member who represented that constituency, and these persons were waiting until a quorum was formed, so that they might give their evidence, and return to their homes. He had no other opportunity of bringing this matter under the notice of the committee; and from what he knew of the members who composed it, he felt quite sure they would form a quorum, in order to allow these people to return.

Mr. GARRETT thought the course taken by the hon. member was unwarranted, because he had referred to matters with which the committee were at present dealing. He thought the committee might safely be left to themselves.

Mr. BUCHANAN considered that, before talking of allowing the committee to take their own course, it would be well to consider the expenses which the parties concerned were put to when there was no quorum. The committee had sat for several days over a matter which need only have occupied six hours, but on an important matter they could not get a quorum, when witnesses who had their private business to attend to were waiting to give evidence. He thought that the only tribunal which should deal with the matter was the Supreme Court.

Mr. PIDDINGTON regretted that another failure in the performance of their responsible duties should have to be mentioned, and he regretted that Mr. Speaker felt it to be his duty to disband the old Elections and Qualifications Committee elected at the beginning of the session. There might have been very satisfactory reasons why Mr. Speaker should have considered it necessary to take this course, but he (Mr. Piddington) should like to know what those reasons were. He knew that of the new Elections and Qualifications Committee one had already declined to act, and another had gone out of the country. He did not wonder, therefore, that there was a difficulty in finding five gentlemen to make a quorum, and therefore there was a failure of justice.

Mr. ROBERTSON said that he did not think there was a single member of that Chamber who did not sympathise with Mr. Speaker in the most ungracious and unwarranted attack of the hon. gentleman. The conduct of the hon. member in taking exception to the appointment of the committee was the most extraordinary exhibition they had ever seen. The members on that side of the table had accepted the choice made by Mr. Speaker with every reliance.

Mr. M. C. STEPHEN, as one of the members of the committee which had been assailed, wished to state that no one could feel more strongly the inconvenience to which suitors before that tribunal must be put than its members. It was, however, fair to observe that no witnesses had been summoned to attend, so that the inconvenience was not so great as hon. members supposed. There was no quorum of the committee yesterday, nor was there to-day, but that arose from purely accidental circumstances. There were only seven members on the committee, and there must be five to form a quorum. One of these gentlemen was out of the colony, and another was at present absent on circuit, but would soon return. To-day another gentleman had been prevented from attending the committee by reason of urgent private business. Under these circumstances they had been unable to form a quorum, but he assured the House that the committee were very sensible of the inconvenience to which suitors were subjected, and wished to get on with the business as soon as possible.

Mr. LACKEY thought the Minister for Lands had rather overstepped his duty when he accused the hon. member for the Hawkesbury of not having objected to the appointment of the committee previously. As a member of the old committee, it would have been ungracious in the hon. member to have objected to the new committee at the time it was appointed; but he was now justified in pointing out their failure. He himself, as a member of the old committee, felt glad to be released from a very irksome duty; but at the same time he could not help saying that the new committee had been the cause of considerable inconvenience both to witnesses who were waiting to give evidence, and to barristers who were to appear as advocates before the committee. Without taking exception to the Speaker's appointment of the committee—which would be very improper—he thought it unfortunate that gentlemen who had accepted this duty should not contrive to discharge it. The seats of three or four members depended on the results of this committee's deliberations, and it should take their cases into consideration without delay.

Mr. LLOYD thought that the course taken by the hon. member for the Hawkesbury was rather ungracious, but considered it unfortunate that the committee had not succeeded in forming a quorum and doing some business. If the number of the committee had been reduced to six he saw no hope of their forming a quorum this session; and if it was possible to put some other members on the committee, something of the kind should be done.

Mr. WILSON, in reply, disclaimed any intention of assailing the committee, and said his sole desire was to call attention to the inconvenience to which witnesses and suitors were subjected.

The question of adjournment was then put and negatived.

MATRIMONIAL CAUSES BILL.

On the motion of Mr. BUCHANAN, the House went into Committee of the Whole to consider this bill in detail.

Clause 1. "Commencement of Act." Clause 2. "Jurisdiction over causes matrimonial to be exercised by the Supreme Court." Clause 3. "No decree for divorce a mensa et thoro to be made hereafter, but a judicial separation." Clause 4. "Powers of Judges." Clause 5. "Petitions for dissolution or nullity to be heard before three Judges." Clause 6. "Judicial separation." Clause 7. "Application for restitution of conjugal rights or judicial separation may be made by husband or wife by petition to court, &c." Clause 8. "Court to act on principles of the Ecclesiastical Courts." Clause 9. "Decree of separation obtained during absence may be reversed." Clause 10. "Alimony may be paid to the wife or her trustee." Clause 11. "In every case of judicial separation wife to be considered as a femme sole with respect to after acquired property." Clause 12. "By judicial separation wife becomes a femme sole as regards contracts, and suing husbands shall not be liable." These clauses were agreed to without amendment.

Clause 13. "It shall be lawful for any husband to present a petition to the Court praying that his marriage may be dissolved on the ground that his wife has since the celebration thereof been guilty of adultery, and it shall be lawful for any wife to present a petition to the Court, praying that her marriage may be dissolved, on the ground that, since the celebration thereof, her husband has been guilty of adultery. And every such petition shall state as distinctly as the nature of the case permits the facts on which the claim to have such marriage dissolved is founded."

Mr. BAKER said he could not give a silent vote upon this clause, the principle of which he was strongly opposed to, and which he contended was contrary to the views held by the most enlightened people in all countries. He could not see why New South Wales should take upon itself to lead mankind in a matter of this kind. The English law was entirely against this principle. The principle contained in this bill was endeavoured to be introduced into the bill before the House of Lords, a committee investigated the matter, and the sense of the most enlightened assembly in the world had declared against it. Surely we might follow the English custom. Mankind had decreed by almost universal practice that there was a difference between the offence of adultery as committed by the sexes; and the facility of divorce given by this clause would tend to produce immorality. He should vote against this clause, and if it were carried he should then vote against the third reading.

Mr. ROBERTSON could never see the slightest reason to doubt on which way he should vote on this clause. If we were to have a divorce bill, for heaven's sake, let us see that it was framed on the most equitable principles. He had no great desire to see this bill passed into law; but if we were to pass it, we ought to make it as perfect as possible. The hon. member had told us what mankind had done in reference to this question; but that was precisely the argument that had been advanced in favour of slavery. The hon. member had also referred to the action of the House of Lords; but we had in several matters, such as vote by ballot and the abolition of imprisonment for debt, been in advance of the House of Lords, and the hon. member in appealing to the example of that House was behind the age. There was nothing in the clause to compel the wife to proceed against the husband; but, if she felt so horrified at his conduct, she would have the power to obtain a divorce. Some women felt an outrage of this kind more keenly than any other injury, and were they to be bound to a husband for life whose conduct they loathed? The husband and the wife were married on equal terms, in precisely the same form of words, and how then could we dissolve the contract in regard to one of the contracting parties and not in regard to the other? He was shocked at the speech of the hon. gentleman who had last spoken. He hoped the House would stand by the bill and not make it a disgrace to the country. Hon. members were entrusted by the State with the duty of legislating for women; the women were not present and hon. members had better err in the direction of seeing that the weaker vessel had fair play than on the side of giving the strong more strength than they already possessed. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. BAKER moved that after the word "of" in the 37th line of the 13th clause the words of the English Act relating to the same subject be added. [The hon. member read the words.]

Mr. RYAN rose to explain his views on this matter. He stood there to contend for equal rights to the woman as well as to the man. He would give the woman fair play under all circumstances. (Laughter.) He believed that in 99 cases of adultery out of 100 the fault was the man's and not the woman's—as far as his experience went. (Laughter.) Hon. members might laugh, but he thought he had seen something, at all events. (Laughter.) If the 13th clause were expunged he would not give a penny for the bill. He was glad the hon. member stuck to that clause, and he would stick to him through "thick and hail." He desired to bring to a focus what was right between man and wife, and man and woman. (Laughter.) If he would stand up for the rights of man he would stand up for the rights of woman, four times over and over again. (Cheers and laughter.) An Englishman who would not stand up for the rights of his mother or his sister was not worth a button. (Laughter.) He would kick him out of the House, or out of any society whatever. The wretch did not deserve the name of a man who would not stick up for the femenine gender. (Continued laughter.) If the hon. member did not continue to stick to this clause he would kick him the first time he met him. (Laughter.) He gloried in the hon. member in sticking to this clause.

Mr. BUCHANAN, in reply to Mr. Baker, said the secret of this disability that England inflicted on woman sprang out of the system of vassalage to which woman had been subject in England from time immemorial. The day was when a woman's evidence was not taken in a court of justice—when it required three women's oaths to be equal to the oath of one man.

Mr. M. C. STEPHEN: When was that? Three women required to one man! (Laughter.)

Mr. BUCHANAN: The history of England would tell him that the day existed when a woman's oath was not taken at all because she was a woman.

Mr. M. C. STEPHEN: I do not recollect it.

Mr. BUCHANAN: And then it required three women's oaths to be equal to one man's oath. The whole spirit of English law had gone to the degradation of women. In England a woman had no right to hold property. The genius and spirit of the English law had been to degrade woman, and lower her into the character of a chattel; and it was only now that the spirit of enlightenment was beginning to animate British legislation. The hon. member justified the English law. Under that law a man might take a prostitute to his home, and turn his wife out of bed, and place the prostitute in her place. That was the law which the hon. member upheld. (Hear, hear.) Under this bill no such grievous wrong could be perpetrated by any monster in the shape of man. [Mr. BAKER: If it could be proved that the man was cruel to his wife, the law would interfere.] If the hon. member knew anything of English law, he would know that for a man to take home a prostitute and turn his wife out of bed had been held by the Law Courts not to be cruelty. Such cases had happened, and the law Courts held that it was not cruelty. The hon. member also talked about collusion as likely to arise; and in doing so he displayed a great amount of ignorance of human nature. If a man and woman desired to enter into collusion for the purpose of dissolving marriage, would it not be far more convenient for the woman to admit her paramour into her bedroom, and then for the husband and servants to go in as witnesses? That was a very simple way of doing it, and that was what would be done under the English law. How did the English law preclude the possibility of collusion? The difference between this clause and the English Act was infinitesimal. He maintained that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred a wife would condone the fault of a husband. It would only be those women who had suffered wrong for a length of time, and were driven to distraction and despair from the cruelty of their husbands, who would apply to Courts of law for redress. He defied any hon. member to show that the Almighty had drawn any distinction between the crime of adultery on the part of a man and the crime of adultery on the part of a woman. The principle contained in this thirteenth clause had been upheld by no less an authority than Lord Lyndhurst. All the leading men in the House of Commons advocated the principle of equality between man and woman; and every one of the Bishops supported it. For the last two hundred years the law of Scotland had been the same as that which this House was now asked to pass. Would they not be doing a simple act of justice in affording the aggrieved parties a remedy? No arguments had been advanced on the other side; and all the arguments which might be brought against the bill he would meet with this one observation — equal justice between man and woman. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. LLOYD said it was his intention to vote against the third reading of this bill, for the same reasons which induced him to vote against the second reading. But he agreed with the hon. member for West Sydney when he said that, although we might be opposed to the bill becoming law, it was desirable that, as it passed through committee, it should be made as unobjectionable as possible, so that in case it did become law, it should be as perfect as possible. Under these circumstances, he was prepared to give his consideration to the bill in committee, and he was prepared to vote for the thirteenth clause as it stood. We had been told that the sin of man and the sin of woman was equal in the sight of God, but that in the eyes of society the sin of the woman was looked upon as greater than that of the man. That was certainly drawing a very fine distinction, and one not very much in favour of society. If it was correct, it was so much to the disgrace of society, and he should be glad to see the tone of morals improved. He thought that both man and woman ought to have equal rights. He was glad to see this thirteenth clause recognising that principle, and for that reason he should be prepared to support it.

Mr. ONSLOW said that the hon. member for West Sydney, and the hon. member for Newcastle, were, no doubt, right in saying that this bill should be considered on its merits. If we go into abstract rights, we should often do practical injustice. The hon. mover of the bill, and the hon. member who had just sat down, laid great stress on the assertion that the sin of the man was equal to the sin of the woman in the sight of God. He was reported in one of the newspapers to have said so. He would never venture to express an opinion on such a matter. It seemed to him to be a very arrogant and presumptuous thing. He himself did not think the crime was equal. The hon. member for East Sydney said that 99 women out of 100 would never proceed against the husband. Here it was said the question was simple adultery, and therefore the bill ought to be passed; but he (Mr. Onslow) asked would not 99 men out of 100 proceed against their wives? He thought the hon. member's arguments were strongly against him, for he had a very strong opinion what they would do. And he could not see the force of the hon. member's remarks upon English history, and the state of serfdom and slavery in which woman existed in olden times, for he himself always thought that woman at that time had always been treated with the greatest chivalry. There was no doubt the laws of the colony were superior in some cases to England, but the rules and laws of England were made in very unenlightened ages, and therefore might be considered harsh in some cases. He should certainly support the amendment.

Mr. M. C. STEPHEN said that when the hon. member who proposed the amendment rose to move at once that the clause should be expunged, he (Mr. Stephen) felt exceedingly gratified, because he felt that he could vote with him, because he was entirely opposed to the principle of the bill, of allowing a man or woman to be divorced and to marry again. He did not agree with the hon. member for West Sydney (Mr. Robertson) in saying that they were not to confine themselves to trying to throw out a principle, but should endeavour to make the bill as little objectionable as possible. But there were principles which his conscience would not tolerate. He (Mr. Stephen) considered that the bill would be an exceedingly good one if the 13th clause was left out altogether. The bill embodied a principle in which the present law was defective. He was one of those who were anxious to do equal justice between man and woman. He would never allow them to separate again, for it was a mistake to look upon matrimony as in any way a contract. [Mr. BUCHANAN: It is thoroughly a contract.] He (Mr. Stephen) contended that it was not, for when such a relationship was once entered into, the parties were beyond the reach of contract altogether, and became one person. Part of the law of England, before the late Act, said that the tie of marriage was utterly indissoluble. [Mr. BUCHANAN: No, no.] He said yes; it was utterly indissoluble by law, and he believed one foundation of the social happiness of England was to be traced to that enactment. The contract was with the State, and not between the parties, for the law put them into the condition they were, and it was therefore a contract with the State. It was stated by an hon. member that in all those cases of mere adultery the woman was not likely to proceed against the husband; but he thought that in the case mentioned by the hon. member for West Sydney (Mr. Robertson) of a wretch bringing another woman to his home was the only one in which a woman was likely to proceed. He thought a few words inserted in the clause would remove the objection altogether. He thought that giving the power of obtaining divorce upon mere adultery was likely to do an immense wrong to society. A man during the course of business had frequently to travel into a far country, and considering his nature may or may not fall into temptation, and yet not cease to love his wife; but it was not so with woman, for she never fell until she ceased to love her husband. He contended that if you gave the wife power to divorce her husband you placed a great temptation before her; and that rather than pass an Act containing such a provision it was better to have no Divorce Act at all.

Mr. WILSON said the hon. member for Canterbury had been technically correct in stating that divorce had not been allowed by the law of England; but he was literally wrong, as divorce could be obtained there for years past by Act of Parliament. The hon. member had also said that the indissolubility of marriage in England was a cause of the social happiness existing there; what did the hon. member say of the social happiness of Scotland ——

Mr. M. C. STEPHEN: There is none.

Mr. WILSON: The hon. member states what he knows to be untrue, and I, as a Scotchman, treat his statement with scorn and contempt.

Mr. M. C. STEPHEN: I rise to order. The hon. member has no right to say that I have stated that which I know to be untrue. Perhaps I have used too strong language—(hear, hear)—but I may say that I have read a pamphlet in which it was stated that a certain class of the population in Scotland don't know who are their fathers or mothers, or who is the head of the household.

Mr. WILSON interrupted: The hon. member had no right to insult his country in this way. There was more social happiness in Scotland than in any country in the world. Show him any cases of wife-beating in Scotland? What class did the hon. member allude to? He had been insulted by the hon. member. He was a Scotchman, the son of a Scotch man and a Scotch woman, and he told the hon. member there was no country in the world where the marriage tie was so pure in Scotland. [Mr. M. C. STEPHEN: How do you know?] He blushed for the degradation of the social circle of England and of this colony compared with virtuous Scotland. He would scorn to compare the countries. There was far more virtue in Scotland than in England, and very far more than in this colony.

Mr. ONSLOW: I rise to order. I appeal to every Englishman against the insult the hon. member offers us.

Mr. WILSON knew of instances in this colony in which fathers were living with their own daughters. There was one case in which a man had several children by his own aunt. He knew of a man who had seduced three of his own daughters, and was living with one of them now; and another case of a man who had three children by his own daughter. There were many such cases which had come to his knowledge. If such a thing was known in Scotland, the people would not suffer such men to live. Whatever the hon. member's opinion might be, he asserted that the social happiness of Scotland was entirely attributable to the law of divorce which existed there. With regard to the clause now under consideration, he contended that it should be passed—that the woman should be placed in the same position as the man, and possess equal rights. He believed the bill would be useless without this clause, and he could not bring himself to vote for the measure if that clause were struck out.

Mr. R. FORSTER, though he was opposed to the bill, and should vote against it on the third reading, held that it was the duty of hon. members to render the measure as unobjectionable as possible in committee. He should, therefore, vote for this clause, and against the amendment, as he considered that man and wife should be treated with equal justice. The crime of adultery on the part of the man was quite as great as the crime of adultery on the part of the woman. He did not intend to take part in the debates on this bill in committee, meaning to vote against it on the third reading, but he now felt he would not be doing right if he did not record his vote on this clause.

Mr. PHELPS said that the hon. member for East Sydney (Mr. Wilson) had mentioned certain cases of incest, and he could hardly question the knowledge of the hon. member on such a subject, for he had not the slightest doubt that the hon. member must be aware that he had stated what was true. But what had astonished him was this—that the hon. member, knowing of that infamous state of things, had not apprised the police.

Mr. WILSON: It was from the police I got some of the information.

Mr. PHELPS: Then the hon. member had said something about the virtue of the Scotch over people of other nationalities. Well, now, he would put it to the hon. member whether the cases of incest which the hon. member had related to the House were not committed by Scotchmen. (Laughter.)

Mr. WILSON: No. (Laughter.)

Mr. PHELPS: Was the hon. member perfectly sure upon that point?

Mr. WILSON: Perfectly sure of it. (Laughter.)

Mr. PHELPS: That won't go down, Dr. Wilson. (Great laughter.) The question had been well argued by his hon. friend (Mr. M. C. Stephen), and, in addition to what had fallen from that hon. member, he desired to record his opinion that the positions of the man and the woman in regard to adultery were not the same, and that the consequences were totally different.

Mr. M. H. STEPHEN agreed that the position of the man and the woman were not equal, for in nine cases out of ten the man was the seducer, and the consequences to the women were degradation, infamy, and misery. When the bill was before the House last session, he spoke against it and voted against it; but now, however, whether right or wrong, he was irresistibly compelled to vote for it. (Hear, hear.) He had carefully attended to all the arguments which had been advanced, and his reason and his sentiments brought him to this position that he must either vote for the clause or leave the House feeling that he had inflicted a grievous wrong. (Hear, hear.) We had been talking about this matter as an offence, but he denied that this or any other Legislature dealt with it as an offence at all; nor was this bill passed as a deterrent from crime. The Legislature, in passing a bill of this kind, regarded marriage as a contract, and they said that if either the man or the woman, at least so he desired to say, broke this contract by adultery, that was a proper ground for the dissolution of that contract. He denied that we had any right to legislate with regard to consequences, but if we gave the right of divorce to the man we were, in justice, bound to give the same right to the woman. Instead of lowering the woman to the infirmity of the man, we ought rather to try and raise man to the purity of the woman. He did not ask that woman should have equal rights to the man politically, but he contended that she was entitled to equal social rights. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. ONSLOW desired to explain that what he had wished to impress upon the House was the distinction between crime and sin. The Legislature could not take cognisance of sin without opening the door to persecution of every sort. He had noticed that every one who had spoken on his side of the question had been assailed with abuse; but he thought that hon. members would do well to give credit for right motives to those who differed from them. We had also had a long tirade about the virtue of Scotland, and against every other nation; but it was by no means clear that the cases to which the hon. member (Mr. Wilson) had alluded were not cases in which Scotchmen were concerned. He protested against the constant assumption of superior virtue; and thought that we should do well to differ from each other without that difference provoking us to use words of vituperation and abuse.

The question "that the words proposed to be inserted be so inserted" was then put and agreed to, on the following division:—

Ayes, 18.

Mr. Sutherland, Driver, Weaver, R. Forster, Wilson, Brookes, Mr. Moses, Farnell, Ryan, Clarke, Flood, M. Stephen, Mr. Piddington, Lloyd, Buchanan, Webb, Watson, Church } Tellers.

Noes, 10.

Mr. Cowper, Egan, M. C. Stephen, Dight, Mr. Kelly, W. H. Suttor, Cummings, Onslow, Mr. Bawden, Phelps } Tellers.

The question "that the clause as amended stand part of the bill" was agreed to on a division of 19 to 9. The division was the same as the last, with the exception of Mr. Onslow, who on this occasion voted with the ayes.

The announcement of the result was received with cheers.

The following gentlemen paired off:—

For.	Against.
Mr. Baker	Mr. Robertson
W. Forster	Fraser.

The following clauses were agreed to without comment: Clause 14. Adulterer to be a co-respondent. 15. Court to be satisfied of the absence of collusion. 16. Court may where one party only appears require counsel to be appointed to argue on the other side. 17. When petition shall be dismissed. 18. In what cases the Court shall pronounce a decree for dissolution of marriage. 19. Its discretionary power therein. 19. Decree, collusion. 20. Alimony permanent. 21. Husband may claim damages from adulterer. 22. Adulterer may be condemned in costs. 23. Custody and maintenance of children. 24. The Court may make orders as to custody of children after a final decree of separation; 25. Questions of fact may be tried before the Court. 26. Such questions to be reduced to writing, and a jury to be sworn to try it. 27. Bill of exceptions special verdict and special case; 28. Court may direct issues to try any fact; 29. Affidavit in support of petition; 30. Service of petition; 31. Examination of petitioner. 32. Adjournment. 33. On divorce or separation for the wife's adultery her property may be settled for the benefit of children, &c. 34. As to marriage settlements after final decree of nullity of marriage. 35. Witnesses to be examined orally; affidavits. 36. On a petition by wife &c., husband and wife may give evidence. 37. Court may issue commissions, or give orders for examination of witnesses abroad or unable to attend. 38. Costs. 39. Same power as the Court of Equity to enforce decrees. 40. Power to make rules of practice. 41. Rules for fees—suitors in forma pauperis. 42. Appeal in case of petition for dissolution of marriage. 43. When a marriage is dissolved the parties thereto may marry again as if the prior marriage had been dissolved by death—officiating minister shall not be compelled to solemnise. 44. No action in New South Wales for criminal conversation. 65. Rules &c., to be laid before Parliament. 46. Interpretation. 47. Short title.

The preamble was submitted.

Mr. M. C. STEPHEN moved the omission of all the words after the word "to" in the first line, down to the word "and" in the second line.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. BUCHANAN, in moving that the Chairman leave the chair, asked permission to read a letter which he had received from his Honor the Chief Justice. He thought every one would admit that that gentleman's large experience entitled him to speak with great emphasis upon what he conceived to be the effect of the passing of this bill. He had great pleasure in quoting the opinion of one who had so large an experience of the social condition of the country as his Honor the Chief Justice. He should say that anything coming from that gentleman ought to have great weight, both with that House and the other branch of the Legislature. His Honor's letter was as follows:—

"Orielton, 8th September, 1870.

"My dear Sir,—I sent you a message by Mr. Pattison, on the day after the receipt of your note, that I should lose no time in responding to your call—although quite conscious that you do me too much honour in supposing that anything I can say on the subject referred to would, in any degree, influence the more vehement opponents of the measure.

"I regret much that daily calls on me of more urgent duty have prevented my fulfilling, hitherto, my promise: and I see that I shall be unable to write, as I desire to do, until the fate of the bill has been decided in the Assembly. I must postpone my intention, therefore, if able to write at all, until the measure shall have reached the other House.

"It is proper for me to say at once, that I do not approve of all the details of the bill—as it now stands. But the Divorce Acts of England have my entire and hearty concurrence. I think that the divorce law, as it exists there, is open to none of the objections which have been urged against it in this colony—the only one, in which (as I believe) the principle has not been adopted; and that the like adoption here would materially promote the social and moral well-being of the community—while, to women especially, it would be a measure equally of justice and of mercy.

"I am faithfully and obediently yours,
"ALFRED STEPHEN.

"David Buchanan, Esq., M.L.A."

The motion was agreed to, and the Chairman left the chair, and reported the bill to the House with amendments. On the motion of Mr. BUCHANAN, the adoption of the report was made an order of the day for Tuesday next.

LABOUR BILL OF 1870.

Mr. WILSON moved,—"That the House resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole for the purpose of considering the propriety of bringing in a bill to determine the number of hours which shall constitute a legal day's work."

The motion was carried, and the House having gone into committee,

Mr. WILSON moved,—"That it is desirable to bring in a bill to determine the number of hours which shall constitute a day's work."

Carried.

On the motion of Mr. WILSON, the Chairman left the chair and reported the resolution to the House.

The resolution was adopted, and the bill brought up and read a first time, and ordered to be printed.

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL OF SYDNEY POWERS' EXTENSION BILL.

Mr. DRIVER moved,—"That the House resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole to consider the propriety of bringing in a bill to authorise the Municipal Council of Sydney to make assessments and collect rates, and to provide for the conduct of elections, in accordance with the amended boundaries of the said city and the several wards thereof."

The motion was agreed to, and the House having gone into committee, a resolution affirming the desirability of introducing a bill was carried.

Mr. PIDDINGTON asked whether the hon. member intended to alter the existing law with regard to the periodical assessment of property or to increase the assessment?

Mr. DRIVER replied that it was not proposed to alter the law in any way whatever.

The Chairman left the chair and reported the resolution to the House.

The report was adopted.

The House adjourned at 10 minutes to 11 o'clock, until Tuesday next at 3 o'clock.

NEW NOTICES.

TUESDAY, 14TH SEPTEMBER.

Mr. Buchanan to ask the Colonial Secretary,—Is it true that Miss Osburn, the Superintendent Nurse at the Sydney Infirmary, compelled one of the nurses, commonly called Sister Annie, to attend the worship of the Church of England, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Allworth, in the institution; and that, notwithstanding the nurse Annie stating that she was a Presbyterian, and declining, in consequence, to attend the services of Mr. Allworth, Miss Osburn insisted upon her so doing, and held out a threat of dismissal if she persisted in her refusal?

Mr. Webb to ask the Secretary for Public Works,—1. Has a train of owners' trucks, loaded exclusively with coal, ever been dispatched from Bowenfels to Sydney? 2. If not, upon what experience was that calculation made on which the present tariff for coal in owners' trucks on the Western line is based? 3. What would be the actual expense incurred in hauling a train of owners' trucks loaded with coal from Bowenfels to Sydney? 4. If a ton of coal can be carried thirty-five miles in owners' trucks for 2s. 4d., can it not be carried succeeding distances at the same, or a less, rate? 5. Would not a diminished rate of speed, such as would amply suffice for coal traffic, occasion less wear and tear, and consequently be less expensive, than the present goods trains? 6. Does the cost per train mile run, recently stated in this House, include the expense of maintaining the line, the wear and tear of rolling stock, and the salaries of the whole staff of officials? 7. Would not the same staff of officials suffice for the carrying on of a largely increased traffic? 8. If so, would not an increase of traffic reduce the cost per train mile run? 9. Does the charge for the conveyance of sheep by rail cover the cost incurred in the performance of that service?

Mr. Dangar to ask the Secretary for Lands,—1. How much per run are the Crown appraisers paid for appraising same? 2. Do the Police Magistrates, or Commissioners of Crown Lands, who have been appointed to appraise runs on behalf of the Crown, receive extra pay, or fee, for so doing, or travelling expenses? 3. Has any provision been made for the performance of the police magistrates' duty during their absence appraising runs?

Mr. Dangar to ask the Secretary for Lands,—1. Is the Government aware that the old Namoi Road from the Willow Tree has been sold to, and fenced in by, free selectors and others, notwithstanding, until so closed, this road had been in use for nearly thirty years? 2. That the residents of the North-western districts will be compelled, if this practice continues, eventually to go to Quirindi before they can turn off, thereby causing great inconvenience, and the probability of a large expenditure being required to make the Quirindi Gap passable for drays, &c.? 3. Will any steps be taken to remedy this evil, and to give the public the use of the old road referred to?

Mr. Spring to move,—That an address be presented to the Governor, praying that his Excellency will be pleased to be caused to be laid upon the table of this House, copies of all correspondence relating to the dismissal of Mr. H. W. Wright, Inspector of Telegraph Line at Tenterfield.

Mr. Lackey to move,—That the petition presented by him on the 9th September, from Captain Sadleir, R.N., in favour of the Matrimonial Causes Bill be printed.

Mr. Egan to move—That the petition presented by him on the 8th September, from the Roman Catholic clergymen and laity of the town and district of Cooma, against the Matrimonial Causes Bill, be printed.

THE DUBLIN WESLEYAN CONFERENCE, AND THE PERMISSIVE LIQUOR LAW.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

SIR,—It will interest many of your readers who, like myself, view with delight the fast succeeding adhesions of the great home religious and secular organisations, to the principles of the bill to be read a second time in our Legislature next Friday week, to read the following brought by last mail.

"A meeting of the members of the Wesleyan Conference sitting in Dublin was held on the 17th instant, in the Molesworth Hall, for the purpose of supporting the passing into law of the Permissive Bill, and for the advancement of temperance generally. Mr. Richard E. King occupied the chair. The Rev. John Dwyer proposed the first resolution, to the effect that owing to the many evils arising from the sale of intoxicating drinks they felt bound to support the principle of total abstinence. He expressed pleasure at seeing so many persons present, and that Mr. Downing, the Liberal member for the county of Cork, had put his name on the back of the Permissive Bill, and was an ardent supporter of the temperance movement. The Rev. J. Donnelly seconded the motion, which passed. The Rev. Samuel R. Hall, ex-president of the Conference, moved the second resolution—"That the Permissive Bill is not antagonistic to liberty, and is necessary, owing to the evils of the drink traffic." He thought the people ought to have a right to protect themselves, just as he would give a right to flies to sweep away cobwebs. The Rev. Mr. Cooke, Waterford, seconded the resolution, which was passed and carried. The Rev. Mr. Gorman, Rathmines, moved the adoption of a petition to Parliament in favour of Sir Wilfrid Lawson's bill.

"Mr. George Foley, barrister, seconded the resolution, and explained the principles of the measure. The resolution was adopted."

Another correspondent writes:—"The great meeting in Dublin on the 17th, in connection with the Methodist Conference, was very interesting and influential. A very large number of Wesleyan ministers were present, and many took part. The resolutions and petitions were carried with great unanimity and zest."

You published lately in the Herald a very remarkable statement resting on very high and unquestionable authority, respecting the great reduction of crime in an extensive district of Ireland (Newry), where the magistracy had exercised a power not possessed here,—for our present licensing law I view as an insult to every magistrate in the colony,—and had refused to licence public-houses. I should like, if you will permit me, to supplement that statement with a line respecting the similar case of Bessbrook, now careering in the English papers.

Bessbrook is an Irish manufacturing town near Newry. Its proprietor is Mr. J. G. Richardson, a leading member of the Society of Friends. This gentleman, with one or two other "Friends," founded the Bessbrook Spinning Company, and erected there the Bessbrook Mills. The factory has grown so large that it gives employment to three thousand hands, most of whom reside in the neighbourhood of the works. In Bessbrook there is no licensed public-house, nor is there one on any of its surrounding lands. There are no police in the place. The Irish constabulary, armed, occupy every town in Ireland, and have barracks for half-a-dozen men each along every road-side; but there are no police in Bessbrook. Mr. Richardson alleges that so long as he keeps out the public house they can do without police; but that so soon as the tap-room is introduced they will require the constabulary. There is no drunkenness in Bessbrook; in short, the operatives are models of sobriety and good order.

How true is the statement contained in the following paragraph from a speech lately delivered by the Right Hon. John Bright to the working men of Birmingham: "It is a fact that no Government, that no Administration, that no laws, that no amount of industry or commerce, that no extent of freedom, can give prosperity and solid comfort to the homes of the people, unless there be in those homes, economy, temperance, and the practice of virtue. This which I am preaching is needful for all; but it is especially needful for those whose possessions are the least abundant and the less secure. If we could subtract from the ignorance, the poverty, the suffering, the sickness, and the crime which are now witnessed among us, the ignorance, the poverty, the suffering, the sickness, and the crime which are caused by one single but most prevalent bad habit or vice—the drinking needlessly of that which destroys body and mind, and home and family—do we not feel that this country would be so changed, and so changed for the better, that it would be almost impossible for us to know it?"

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

THE DEFENCE OF THE COLONY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

SIR,—The defence of the colony appears now to have become a question not only of importance to the commercial world, but to the population at large, in not only fearing foreign subjugation but the inevitable consequences of domestic revolution, or the agression of the "great uncivilized;" we might have remarked the immense feeling of the crowd that pressed to view the departure of the Imperial troops. Why was this? It was not any social ties that had been formed (as your columns gave us to understand some days past), nor was it a child's cry for a pet toy, but a feeling (with due deference to the Volunteers) that the community felt they had lost their guard, and may be their prestige. Would not a paterfamilias in England refrain from allowing his wealthy offspring to invest in a country devoid of that military protection which every commercial man ought to demand—the case of the Hon. East India Company proves this, where the merchants raised an army of Sepoys and gave cadetships to gentlemen's sons, subject to certain examinations at Addiscomb. Then, if commerce should be in the balance merely for want of protection and capital unavailable through this requirement, we can but view the necessity of expeditionaly organising a disciplined force—subject to the Articles of War and the Mutiny Act—commanded by officers who have retired from H. M.'s service, having proved themselves in every change of military life, and sought their reputation in the cannon's mouth, obtaining by this the respect of their subordinates and the confidence of the whole population. The Volunteers are, no doubt, men in every sense of the word, and would appear a formidable auxiliary to a force more severely disciplined; but their daily calling must preclude the possibility of their entering on duties in time of peace in town or country, which would demand their whole time and attention. How could men unpaid be placed on such responsible guard as the Mint? They could not succumb to the sentences of courts-martial, and although men of honour we doubt not, yet, like all human nature, liable to err. Their domestic calling even prevents their attendance at Government House. The police are well fitted for the former as paid servants of the Government. As an old soldier, I consider they may be efficient as a guard for simple protection, yet—"Honour where honour is due"—in matters where a guard for her Majesty's representative (or even laying aside that appellation), the residence of his Excellency the Governor is brought in question. The country ought, even in the event of delaying the formation of a regular force, to constitute a body-guard, as in Calcutta, to perform the duties required, and relieve the gates of Government House from the appearance of a criminal gaol. I should suggest that twenty-five men (or a sufficient number) be enrolled and duly sworn in as the soldiers of her Majesty's army, to support a guard regularly relieved every twenty-four hours at Government House; thus allowing the remainder, or rather those off duty, time for drill instruction and attention to their accoutrements. That there should be two officers well versed in military duty, both by experience on active service and in barrack life, one acting as commandant and the other as adjutant, but both co-operating in the more general duties laid down for the better discipline of the body-guard formed. That officers from the Volunteers, under authority from his Excellency, could be called from the Volunteers to form courts-martial, if necessary, pending the formation of a regular force.

I will not further infringe on your valuable space, but trust this may induce some to reflect on the necessity of

SELF-DEFENCE.

OUR HARBOUR DEFENCES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

SIR,—The subject of our defences has become during the last few days a very momentous one, and no doubt your columns will be invaded by numerous projectors of decidedly original and equally impracticable schemes. I have no intention of intruding upon public notice any plan of my own, but propose only in the present instance to commend to the notice of those with whom the power more probably rests the forcible arguments of your correspondent "Quid" in favour of gunboats, as our best means of protection against any enemy that is likely to invade us. Most of your readers will, probably, remember a cartoon in Punch in which Britannia is represented as seated on a cliff and pensively regarding a fleet of gunboats in the sea below, saying, "If you had only been hatched a year ago what might not have come out of your shells." These gunboats were built for the express purpose of reducing Cronstadt; but their services were rendered unnecessary by the fall of Sebastopol, and the consequent termination of the war with Russia. The fact, however, remains that they were intended for a service for which line of battle ships had proved to be wholly incompetent; and surely, if they were deemed sufficient to destroy one of the strongest fortresses in the world, a few such vessels would be able to give a very good account of any enemy which is likely to approach our shores. I do not think that we are in danger of being invaded by ironclads, for England, in the event of war, will probably find such ample employment for them much nearer home, that any continental country would not be able to detach even a single ironclad vessel for a so far distant service. I quite agree with your correspondent "Quid" that efficient gunboats will be our most reliable defence, especially as they would be available for the protection of other ports on our coast, than our own harbour. Any one familiar with the history of the long war, will remember that the French and Spanish gunboats were the greatest source of annoyance to British cruisers whenever they approached the hostile coasts; and that any captain of a frigate would have preferred a fair stand-up fight with an enemy double the size of the vessel under his command to an encounter with half-a-dozen gunboats, which could pepper his ship handsomely, while a stray shot or two was the only retaliation he was capable of bestowing. Our harbour is peculiarly adapted for this particular service. There are many points of land behind which a gunboat might deal out terrible destruction to an enemy, while not one shot in a hundred could possibly touch her in return; and the facility with which the position of gunboats can be shifted is an additional and very strong argument in their favour. I venture to say that, if it were known that our harbour was protected by a dozen efficient gunboats, the fact would deter an enemy from molesting us, much more than any fixed batteries would do. Another consideration which should not be lost sight of, is the comparative cheapness of the proposed means of defence.

HUGH K. WALKER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

SIR,—A trifling mistake into which my friend Dr. J. Bowie Wilson has fallen, upon one point of a conversation I had with him some weeks ago, may as well be corrected at once.

Dr. Wilson is reported to have stated last night in the Assembly that I had told him that I had received instructions to send in the report of the Gold-fields Commission as a whole and not piecemeal. He must have misunderstood, or possibly may have forgotten, the exact nature of my statement to him. It was this:—that while my colleagues and I had considered the advisability of making some immediate suggestions for reform in mining legislation, we deemed it wiser, as then advised, to reserve any recommendations until we sent in the report as a whole.

The Commission have not received any instructions to reserve the sending in of their report; and of course I have had no instructions upon the matter different from those conveyed to the entire Commission.

I remain, Sir, faithfully yours,
J. GEORGE LONG INNES, President G.F.C.

BRADLEY, Newton, and Lamb will hold a sale of household furniture, pianofortes, engravings, books, bedroom furniture, kitchen utensils, and other effects, at their rooms, Pitt-street, this day, commencing at 11 a.m.

MARAVILLA COCOA.—For Breakfast.—The GLOBE says "various importers and manufacturers have attempted to attain a reputation for their prepared cocoas; but we doubt whether any thorough success had been achieved until Messrs. Taylor, Brothers discovered the extraordinary qualities of 'Maravilla' Cocoa. Adapting their perfect system of preparation to this finest of all species of the Theobroma, they have produced an article which supersedes every other cocoa in the market. Entire solubility, a delicate aroma, and a rare concentration of the purest elements of nutrition distinguish the Maravilla cocoa above all others. For homœopaths and invalids we could not recommend a more agreeable or valuable beverage." Sold in packets only by all grocers, of whom also may be had Taylor, Brothers' Original Homœopathic Cocoa and Soluble Chocolate, Steam Mills, Brick-lane, London.—481.

CUSTOM HOUSE.—Entered Outwards, September 9: Gulnare, schooner, 64 tons, Captain Cook, for South Sea Islands.

The Waimea (s.) crossed the Richmond River bar at 7 a.m. on the 8th, with a fresh northerly wind; passed Smoky Cape at 7 p.m. same day, wind at West; Port Stephens at 9 a.m. on the 9th, fresh breeze from the westward, and arrived at Sydney at 7 p.m. same day, making the passage in 36 hours. The following vessels were in the river bar bound when the Waimea left:—Callender, School Boy, J. G. Coleson (s.); loaded and coming down the River were the Alpha and Welcome Home; loading: Commerce, Lookout, Uncle Tom, Mary Campbell, Douglas, and Helen. Captain Turner reports that the bar has been bad, and the river lower than has been seen for some time past. The diggings are going on steadily; all there making fair wages, and some from the New Zealand West Coast are making good wages. The diggers are working both W. and S. of the Heads. The cargo of the Waimea (s.), comprises, 30,000 feet pine, 2000 feet cedar, 545 bags maize, 2 cases eggs, 30 hides, 2 boats, and sundries.

The New England (s.) left Grafton at 8 a.m. on Wednesday, crossed the bar at 6.20 a.m. on Thursday, and arrived in Sydney at 11.20 a.m. on Friday. Experienced northerly winds to Crowdy Head, from thence westerly. Her cargo consists of:—230 bags maize, 8 casks tallow, 267 hides, 4 bags bones, 3 cases eggs, 2 coops fowls, 270 pumpkins, 40 bunches bananas, and sundries. Passed the Helen Macgregor (s.) off Smoky Cape bound north.

The favourite passenger ship Commissary is fast progressing with her loading, and has nearly the whole of her saloon engaged. Amongst the passengers booked are—Rev. G. H. and Mrs. Moreton, Captain Young (18th Royal Irish); Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, family, and nurse; Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Knight (D. A. Commissary of Stores), family, and nurse; Mr. Goodall, Mrs. Fowler, Mrs. Bonnefin and child, Mrs. Bun and child, Mr. Herbert, Mr. Koch, Dr. McKellop (surgeon).

The following vessels are now due, and may be expected to arrive daily:—From London: La Hogue, 95 days; Resolute, 87 days; Zemindar, 91 days; Queen of Nations, 79 days; Sarah Grice, 76 days; Ann Duthie, 74 days. From Liverpool: Cape Clear, 73 days. From Greenock: Abbey Craig, 97 days.

By telegram, we learn that several vessels passed Twofold Bay yesterday, and as the wind is from the S.W., some of the overdue ships are likely to arrive during the day.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

SIR,—During an experience of twenty-five years as a British shipmaster, I know of no case having occurred similar to the one in which I have been the victim at this port, and yet I am told that they are of frequent occurrence in Sydney. I therefore deem it my duty to give publicity to the circumstances, if haply it may be the means of drawing public attention to the Sydney mode of administering law to British shipmasters.

Having made several voyages to this port from England, I, on my last arrival, as usual, advertised that only on my written authority would I recognise debts contracted by my crew; such written authority I have in no case given, yet the other day when nearly ready for sea, a clothier presented himself on board of my vessel, bearing a quantity of clothing, and stating it was for my crew; these I refused to receive, yet were they left on the vessel's deck, and an account amounting to £76 rendered, as for goods supplied, which was soon followed by a lawyer's letter, threatening costs, &c., and within twenty-four hours myself arrested under a legal writ. To detain my vessel for such a paltry sum where there was no probability of indemnity for such detention would have been absurd, and I therefore felt compelled to pay all demands, and find myself mulcted in the sum of £34, my only set-off being a quantity of seamen's clothes, which, so far as I can judge, would be considered dear at half the amount. So far as I remember I have given no verbal order which could possibly be construed as instructions, to supply the goods referred to; but presuming there was a question of doubt on the subject, is it not monstrous that any resident of Sydney should have the power of putting a shipmaster in such a position that he must pay, whether the claim be just or otherwise.

In England, so far as I am aware, the whole practice of law in relation to shipping matters keeps continually in view the necessity of preventing vessels being detained on frivolous charges, and the whole tenor of the Merchant Shipping Act has this end in view, providing for the summary adjudication of cases before two Justices of the Peace, or a stipendiary magistrate; and surely in Sydney it could be made imperative that such a case as the one referred to above should be dealt with in like manner by the Water Police Magistrate, when, if the plaintiff be dissatisfied with his decision, he would be required to find security for the costs and detention before being granted an appeal to a higher Court.

I do hope that before I again visit your port some alteration may be made in the law to afford greater protection to shipmasters. Should such not be the case it will tend to create a prejudice against the port, and militate greatly against its interests.

I am, Sir, yours faithfully,
JOSEPH WELCH.
Master ship James Aikin.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1870.

IN the Legislative Assembly, yesterday,

Ministers, in answer to questions, said: That constables on duty in Sydney on Sunday could, when on night duty, attend church in the morning, and when on day duty, at night; that £375 out of the £5000 voted for repairs of injuries done by floods were expended in the Braidwood district; that the present Government had directed the Colonial Agent to purchase rifles of the best description to arm the volunteers, and had forwarded money for that purpose; that Messrs. W. W. and A. Brocklehurst were the owners of the Euroka run; and that the Government were not aware that Mr. Cracknell had propounded any scheme of harbour defence.

A petition was presented by Mr. LACKEY from R. Sadleir in favour of the Divorce Bill.

The petitions from the Roman Catholics of Mudgee, and from the Church of England parishioners of Denham Court, against the Divorce Bill, were ordered to be printed.

A Cathedral Close Act Amendment Bill was brought in by Mr. COWPER, and was read a first time.

The Industrial Schools Bill of 1870 and the Unclaimed Suitors' Fund Bill were read a third time, and passed.

Mr. WILSON called the attention of the House to the inconvenience which occurred to suitors before the Committee of Elections and Qualifications, through that committee not meeting. There were no less than nine witnesses now in Sydney from Braidwood present, to give evidence in the petition against Mr. Kelly's return, and they had now been a week without being able to give evidence through the committee not having formed a quorum.

Mr. GARRETT thought this reference to the committee uncalled for; and Mr. BUCHANAN considered it necessary, because of the ruinous expense to suitors.

Mr. PIDDINGTON regretted that the Speaker should have changed the committee appointed at the commencement of the Parliament; and Mr. ROBERTSON was surprised that an objection should be taken now when the time for objecting had been allowed to go over.

Mr. CONSETT STEPHEN, as a member of the committee, explained that one of the members of the committee was out of the colony, and another was away on Circuit; so that, as there were only six members in Sydney, and five were required to form a quorum, it was difficult to get a legal meeting. He assured the House that the committee felt deeply the inconvenience suffered by suitors, and would endeavour to prevent it in future.

After a few remarks from Mr. LACKEY, Mr. LLOYD mentioned that he had heard that the committee had been summoned no less than five times, and only once had a quorum.

The matter was then allowed to drop.

The House went into committee on the Divorce Bill.

Clauses 1 to 12 were agreed to without amendments.

On clause 13, Mr. BAKER opposed the clause, because he objected to the wife and the husband being put upon the same footing. It was opposed to the law as adopted by every intellectual country in the world.

Mr. ROBERTSON, though he had doubts as to whether he ought or ought not to support the bill, had no doubts whatever about how he ought to vote on this clause. If they were to have a Divorce Bill, they ought to have one which should do equal justice to all, whether male or female.

Mr. BAKER moved the insertion of words which would make the clause the same as that which was the law in England.

Mr. RYAN spoke very strongly in favour of doing justice to the weaker sex; and Mr. BUCHANAN addressed the House at great length in support of the clause.

Mr. LLOYD, though opposed to the bill, and intending to vote against the third reading, should support this clause, because if the bill was to be made law, it ought to be in as perfect a state as possible.

Commander ONSLOW was in favour of the amendment, and Mr. M. C. STEPHEN went at considerable length into the legal bearings of the question, denouncing the clause as proposed, as utterly adverse to all law.

After some remarks from Mr. WILSON, Mr. R. FORSTER, Mr. PHELPS, and Mr. M. H. STEPHEN, the amendment was put and negatived by 18 to 10. The clause was carried by 19 to 9.

The remaining clauses were agreed to without discussion, and the bill was reported to the House; Mr. BUCHANAN having read to the House a letter from the Chief Justice expressing himself favourable to the bill, but desiring to see it on the same footing as the law of England.

A resolution having been agreed to in committee, a bill to determine the number of hours which shall constitute a legal day's work was brought in by Mr. WILSON, and was read a first time.

In Committee of the Whole, a resolution was agreed to, on the motion of Mr. DRIVER, affirming the desirability of bringing in a bill to extend the powers of the Municipal Council of Sydney.

The House adjourned at eight minutes to 11, until 3 o'clock on Tuesday next.

THE continual recurrence of the word Sadowa, which took place in 1866 in every column of the newspapers, makes it perhaps desirable that we should recall a few military incidents preceding the battle which bears that name.

No one now doubts that Austria entered upon the conflict with reluctance, and that the movements of Prussia were directed to hasten it. Austria had both Italy and Prussia on her hands at the same time; and although by the termination of the war with Italy she obtained the disposal of 150,000 men, they reached Germany too late for the great struggle. The Austrian Empire besides was torn by intestine agitations. No attempt had been made to obtain the sanction of the representative body. Thus the campaign opened inauspiciously for Austria; and when Marshal BENEDEK said that the army was "supported by the spirit of sacrifice and enthusiasm in the people" he said rather what he wished than what was the fact.

Prussia had, however, long prepared for the war. The army had been reorganised and augmented. The invention of the needle-gun had given it a new arm. The telegraphs and railroads were thoroughly completed in view of military operations, and everything was arranged to concentrate the forces. Excellent charts were in the hands of every officer. Companies of workmen accompanied the armies, ready to repair every line of road, and there was in the Government chest a reserve of several millions. Europe was taken by surprise when the organisation was developed, and it became apparent that Prussia had long been looking for the campaign. Thus, the moral conditions of both armies were in contrast, as well as the monetary resources of the two empires.

Prussia accused the Austrians of preparing for a campaign; but this was merely an accusation. The Prussian army could be concentrated by a single order of the day.

In the month of March Austria commenced preparations. On the 19th Field Marshal BENEDEK took the command. The army of the North was about 263,000 men and 752 cannon. The Bavarians and other German troops comprehended 53,000 men and 134 cannon. These were collected about Frankfort. The secondary States had furnished a contingent of 144,000, which raised the allied forces to 400,000 men. But these were not all then ready to enter into line. The total forces of which Marshal BENEDEK had the disposal amounted to 271,000 men and 810 cannon.

Prussia did not show signs of activity until the end of March, having everything in order. On the 4th of May the troops were mobilised, that is, assembled under the flag. The entire Prussian army was thus called under arms. In fourteen days it was complete, and presented an effective force of 226,000 men, equipped, provisioned, furnished with convoys and ambulances, and fit to enter into a campaign. In twenty-one days, 197,000 men, 55,000 horses, and 5000 carriages were transferred to the frontier. On the 1st June, the Guard, consisting of 27,000 men, quitted Berlin, where it was replaced by a corps of reserves of 24,000 men of the Landwehr. When the Guard rejoined the army of Bohemia it amounted to 254,000 men and 900 cannon. The KING took the supreme command. The force was divided into three armies. The first was under the command of Prince FREDERICK, consisting of 93,300 men, which formed the centre of the Prussian position. The second army, or the army of Silesia, was composed of 115,000 men, which formed the left wing, and was cantoned upon the frontier of Silesia. The third army, or army of the Elbe, under the command of General HERWERTH, was composed of a corps coming from the Rhine of about 46,000 men. On the west and in Westphalia and in the provinces of the Rhine, there were about 36,000 men. The division of MANTEUFFEL was 44,000 men, and 78 cannon, with a division of the Landwehr as a reserve. Thus the army of Austria was more numerous on the frontier of Bohemia; but they were inferior in all other respects.

We need not recall the rapid conquest of various principalities and kingdoms by Prussia, or the other actions which rendered the battle of Sadowa decisive. BENEDEK at first seemed to be inactive, and it was supposed that this arose from some profound combination. He was deceived by the supposition that the Prussians were about to open the road to Vienna, and that their principal attack would be upon the frontier of Silesia. This was a capital error, and the principal cause of his reverses. He waited for the Prussians until they should come forth from the defile with part of their forces, and intended to fight them before they were entirely deployed, and, having beaten them, to follow them up. The plan of the Prussians, however, was to invade Bohemia by three armies at a time, and to advance, contracting the space between them until [illegible]. On the 24th of June one of these armies traversed the route without being disturbed. [illegible] division, under Prince FREDERICK, encountered the Austrians on the 25th. A sharp contest took place, and the Austrians had to retire. It was in this combat that the terrible effects of the needle-gun were first seen. It had not been noticed in Denmark, and little importance was attached to it. Nevertheless, it had a great effect in this war. The Austrians, however, did nothing to neutralise it. They attacked in serried masses with an impetuous enthusiasm, and their bravery was fatal to them. In several encounters the Austrians were literally mowed down. The first engagement had on the two armies an enormous moral effect. The Austrians were driven back on their territories, and decimated by a superior arm. BENEDEK, instructed on the position of the two armies, saw that he had been deceived. He resolved to fall back on Bohemia. On the 27th June a combat of a very severe nature took place between the Prussians and Austrians, but it cost the Prussians very dear, although they had the advantage. On the 29th, BENEDEK learnt the entrance into Bohemia of the Prince Royal of PRUSSIA, and comprehended too late what was their plan. The Prince Royal of PRUSSIA remained on the watch, prepared to face the Austrians, or to take them in the rear. The Austrian troops were in face of the defiles, and BENEDEK was there. He then might have delivered battle, and crushed the PRINCE ROYAL, with his forces united, and then have attacked the two other Prussian armies, which would not have had time to succour the army of Silesia. He resolved to wait until the enemy was near in a situation which he believed excellent, and this was the cause of his defeat. The Prussians arrived in force, The Austrians retired after a prolonged struggle.

The Prussians met with a check from an Austrian division on the 27th of June. After a severe struggle they were successful, but their position was unsafe, and it is commonly agreed that BENEDEK lost at this moment the opportunity to conquer. The two Prussian army corps of the West were still two days' march, restrained by an Austrian division. The PRINCE ROYAL was at the foot of the mountains only partially deployed, and with only 67,000 men, and the three Prussian corps did not communicate. Instead of repelling them the Austrian general facilitated the union of the whole Prussian army, and so prepared for the great battle of Sadowa which broke the power of Austria, and changed the balance of Europe.

IN his speech at the Agricultural dinner, in which he gave the result of his personal observations in different parts of the colony, the Earl of BELMORE stated that he did not anticipate that farming could be made to pay here by capitalists employing hired labour. All experience hitherto has certainly tended to confirm this view. The experiment has been tried in various districts and under various auspices, and nearly always with the same result. Many colonists came out with English ideas, and the possession of a fine estate in a fine climate prompted them to try and reproduce English results. But they have all long ago given it up, and have found it much more to their interest to let their land to working tenants than to attempt to farm for themselves on a large scale.

In one respect this result may be considered unfortunate, but in another light it is not without its advantages. It certainly prevents any rapid imitation of the high farming of the mother country; and it is out of that high farming that have come the great improvements in agricultural implements, and the deeper study of agricultural chemistry, which have made farming in Great Britain, at the present day, so different from what it was fifty years ago.

The application of skill is always followed by an application for money. Improved processes always call for a fresh investment of capital. This is quite as true in agriculture as in all other departments of industry, and in England the result of this law is manifesting itself in the gradual extirpation of the class of small farmers. If a man has no money he cannot farm high, and if he does not farm high, he cannot compete with those who do. No amount of industry or of mere unassisted intelligence will compensate for this want of means, and small farms are, therefore, gradually becoming consolidated into the hands of persons possessed of the necessary funds for expensive improvements.

The same law prevails in this colony as well as in the mother country, so far as this, namely, that high farming will require capital. But the similarity holds no further, for out here costly farming has not been made to pay, while the men who make money out of the soil are mostly those who work with their own hands. If in this the colony suffers as to the quality of its tillage, there is a set-off in the fact that this state of things tends to multiply the number of freeholders, and to hold out an inducement to immigration. In England the agricultural labourer can never hope to own a farm of his own. In this colony he cannot fail to do so if he is only steady and frugal. The class of successful farmers has been, and will continue to be, drawn from the superior class of agricultural labourers; and the possibility of farm hands easily making themselves freeholders, constitutes one of the great inducements we can hold out to the peasantry of the old world to cast in their lot with us. This inducement is the greatest help to colonisation, as the desire to be a freeholder is one of the strongest possible incentives to action in the case of those who have worked on land belonging to other people. We must therefore set the advantage against the disadvantage, and be content with some drawbacks to our agriculture in consideration of the collateral benefits.

In America, where a similar state of things exists, great efforts have been made to correct the disadvantage of high wages by the extensive use of machinery, and where the land is clear, and at once fit for the plough, many farmers have made it pay to cultivate on a large scale by a judicious employment of labour-saving implements. But this has mostly been where the farmer was within easy reach of a railway or of river navigation. Still, even in America the greater part of the farming is done on a small scale and in a comparatively rude manner. The ingenuity and versatility of the people, however, have been very largely exercised, and the farmer has become something of a mechanic, and the mechanic has often turned farmer. For many of our most ingenious implements we are indebted to American talent, though the English have often improved on American suggestions, while the Americans have developed English ideas. The two countries have thus mutually assisted each other by the interchange of inventions.

It is by the increased use of improved implements that we must hope in this country to emulate the advances that have been made in agriculture in other parts of the world, nor can we ever hope to keep our markets from being deluged with foreign shipments unless we can keep ourselves on a par with cultivators elsewhere. In nearly every department of industry the rule holds good, that those who employ machinery can beat those who do not, and the farmers of Australia will never hold their own against those of other countries if they place their dependence on rude and unscientific labour.

Although, as a rule, farming, strictly so-called, will in this colony be carried on by small proprietors, still our peculiar circumstances, as a pastoral country, will have the effect of connecting many of our wealthier class with agriculture in some of its forms. All our resident squatters—all who are not mere speculators in sheep-stations—all who have identified themselves with the soil, and have homes in the country—are now more or less proprietors of land. The tendency of our legislation has been to force them into becoming purchasers even where the natural temptation was not strong enough. With the purchase of land comes enclosure, and on enclosure naturally follows some degree of tillage. Without being farmers proper, or dependent for a livelihood on the successful cultivation of the soil, our best squatters are to some extent beginning to farm, and to this fact we may look hopefully as a corrective to some extent of inferior tillage. We may expect them to purchase and employ the most improved implements, and also in many cases to let those implements out for the use of surrounding free selectors; and thus, though we cannot expect at present to see in the colony a class of wealthy farmers, we may have wealthy men who add some farming to their pastoral occupations, and who will both set up a standard of excellence and assist others to reach that standard.

FRIENDLY AND BENEFIT SOCIETIES.—On Wednesday, a deputation, consisting of Mr. G. Bruce, of the Manchester Unity Order of Oddfellows; Mr. John Slade, of the Ancient Order of Foresters; and Mr. James Graham, of the Protestant Alliance Benefit Society, waited upon the Hon. John Sutherland, at his office, to ask him if he would at the earliest opportunity reintroduce the new Friendly Societies' Act. The hon. gentleman promised to reintroduce the bill at once; and he said that he knew that an enormous amount of good was done by the various societies interested in the new bill, and that such societies tended largely to decrease pauperism. Mr. Sutherland also expressed a wish that all friendly, benefit, burial, and provident societies should at once put themselves into communication with Mr. John Slade, Secretary to the Conference of Friendly Societies, so that they may get a form of returns to fill up and return, so that the Ministry and Parliament may see their importance, and be prepared to legislate for them in a liberal spirit.

"BELL'S" GUIDE TO THE AUSTRALIAN TURF.—We have received from the compilers, Messrs. Pickering and Cunningham, a copy of this publication recently issued from Bell's Life Office, Sydney. Commencing with the Randwick Spring Meeting of 1868 (in which year the last Turf Guide was issued), it gives a carefully condensed and revised account of the race meetings in the metropolis, and also in the provinces, up to date of issue, the principal two and three year-old events contested in Victoria, and also the prominent meetings in Queensland, South Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand. The publishers deserve every credit for placing within reach of the sporting public a large amount of valuable information in a concise and readable form. At the end of the publication will be found an "Index to Running Horses," by which the performances and victories of each horse may be easily ascertained; and, in addition to this, it contains the list of two and three year-old nominations, for the Australian Jockey Club Autumn Meetings of 1871 and 1872, the nominations for the two and three year-old races of the V. R. C. Spring meetings of 1870 and 1871, and the entries for the present Randwick Spring Meeting. The price of the Guide is five shillings.

THE GERMAN MEETING.—A meeting of German residents of Sydney was held at the Masonic Hall, on Thursday evening, for the purpose of raising funds for the benefit of German soldiers wounded in the present war with France, and also to assist the widows and orphans of the killed, a short notice of which appeared in yesterday's Herald. Mr. S. Franck, the Consul for the North-German Confederation, having been voted in the chair, read the advertisement convening the meeting, and, in an impressive speech, appealed to the patriotic feelings of all Germans, and others sympathising with their cause, to give their mite, in order to bring the praiseworthy object in view to a successful issue. Mr. Franck's speech was received with great enthusiasm, and the meeting at once proceeded to elect a numerous committee, consisting of gentlemen then present in the room, with power to add to their number. Mr. W. Bartels was appointed to act as honorary secretary, and Mr. John Hagen to act as honorary treasurer. Several letters, enclosing handsome subscriptions, were read to the meeting. A committee having been formed, it was resolved that, at their special meetings, seven members should form a quorum; also that the fund to be raised should be called "The German Patriotic Fund," and that the subscription lists be opened forthwith. About £150 was subscribed in the room, and the meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

ELECTROTYPING.—A correspondent calls attention to the medallion of W. C. Wentworth, in the Exhibition, and thinks the electrotype copy of it, executed by an employé of the Government Printing Office, though not mentioned in the catalogue, is worthy of commendation.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—A tea and public meeting was held in the Temperance Hall, yesterday evening, in connection with the New South Wales Alliance for the Suppression of Intemperance, for the object of raising funds for the liquidation of the debt upon this building. The attendance was small. Mr. J. Wearne, M.L.A. presided at the public meeting, and opened the proceedings with some general observations in approval of the Temperance cause. He was very glad indeed to know that the cause which had commenced twelve years ago had since progressed so favourably. They wanted to see drink driven from the land. He hoped that the friends of temperance would work manfully during the next few months. If they did so, he had no doubt they would obtain their wishes—that the people themselves should have the opportunity of stating whether or not they would have public-houses next door to them. The Rev. Dr. Steel said that he remembered very well some years ago that the people connected with and responsible for the Temperance Hall were rather dull in spirits owing to the heavy debt of £4000 on the building; nevertheless they had put their shoulders to the wheel, and it was now very gratifying to find that besides improving the building they had reduced their liability by some £1400. This was very encouraging. The hall itself had been very usefully employed for many important purposes, all of which had been connected with pure morals and the public welfare. He thought this was a point which would make it more and more to the advantage of public benevolent societies to hold their meetings there. Our Government had been in the habit of giving assistance to charitable and benevolent institutions. He thought this society was specially deserving of the support thus given, inasmuch as it diminished intemperance, crime, poverty, vice, and the number of neglected women and starving children—evils which cost the State so much pecuniarily in the matter of the assistance afforded to orphan asylums and similar institutions. The temperance movement might now be compared to a rising tide. It was spreading more and more throughout the land. Never before had there been a period when so many persons of good position had looked with favour upon the movement. This should encourage the friends of the Alliance. He thought it would be very desirable if it could be managed that there should be some great demonstration of the Sons of Temperance during the time of the present Exhibition; he believed it would have a powerful effect for good. He commended the claims of the Temperance halls to the generous support of the people at large. Mr. J. Mills spoke of the difficulties under which the Temperance Hall had been built, paying a high tribute to the perseverance of its founders. He stated that the special object of the meeting was to raise £200, so as to entitle the Alliance to an equal amount from the Government. Of the sum required he mentioned that between £30 and £40 had been already contributed. Messrs. J. P. Palser, J. Roseby, J. Creer, T. Brooks, and B. Mountcastle afterwards addressed the meeting. A collection was made in aid of the hall funds as the meeting separated.

GIGANTIC AUSTRALIAN FLOWER.—Mr. Walter Hill's latest addition to the natural products of Queensland has been a magnificent bloom of the Queensland rock lily, which is now on view in the Exhibition building, directly in front of the dais. It is the first flower of the kind raised in the Brisbane Botanic Gardens, where it was introduced by Mr. Hill after its discovery amongst the cliffs of the main range. The exhibit displays eighteen trusses of flowers on a single stem of about 20 inches in height. The petals are a rich crimson on the outer and variegated on the inner sides, changing from a crimson at the edge to a light pink, with a well-defined carmine streak up the centre. The stamens, six in number, are of crimson hue, and lie close to the petals. The wonders now wrought by scientific gardeners ought speedily to convert this interesting stranger into one of the choicest of floral gems. It has been named Doryanthes Palmeri, in honour of the present Colonial Secretary of Queensland.

ARRIVED.—Alexandra (s.), from Melbourne.

THE PRINCE OF WALES OPERA HOUSE.—The popular sensation drama, "After Dark," with its extraordinary stage effects and effective situations, has proved satisfactory to the treasury, and has given the company an opportunity of showing that they are worthy of the patronage of amusement-seekers. The immense applause which it invariably receives, whether the house is good or bad, proves that Boucicault knows his business as caterer for the playgoers. Mr. Young's Dicey Morris is of itself quite sufficient to make a name for a play, and yet it is only one of a series of impersonations of which it is difficult to select the best. The part of Eliza as played by Miss Colville, or Bellingham by Mr. Bartlett, and Mr. Hoskins's Old Tom would, amongst less critical audiences, be considered great performances. Miss Stevenson as Rose was hardly less successful than the more prominent characters. The crowded houses which the piece has drawn must be satisfactory to the management, and it will be continued. Messrs. Loyal and Verletti, the athletes, have given wonderful performances on the trapeze, &c., and Mr. Barlow's dogs have helped to sustain the popularity of the house.

THE VICTORIA THEATRE.—Large houses and extraordinary performances have been the rule since the Gregories' appearance at this place of amusement. If, as is believed, the members of the troupe are all one family, they can boast of having acquired greater popularity and its concomitants than any of their predecessors. But, apart from any merit of this kind, they have severally displayed great talent, and have been rewarded by immense applause. The new act introduced this week, the aerial ladders, is one of those recent inventions which send a shudder through the audience while it is in progress, and then suddenly causes a reaction when completed. The display of canine instinct, forming a part of the entertainment, is also a prominent feature of their entertainment.

HUSSEY AND HOLLY MINSTRELS.—The above troupe of minstrels still continue to gratify the public by their pleasing and mirth-provoking entertainments. On this day week Miss Annie Bramley made her first appearance and since then she has, by her vocal talents, gained for herself the unqualified approval of her hearers. She is the possessor of a voice of great compass and sweetness, and was last evening encored for her rendering of the "Casta Diva" and a selected ballad; singing, in response to the latter encore, "I cannot sing the old songs," a morceau in which her voice was heard to much advantage. The minstrels, in their choruses and refrains, were, as usual, applauded. The night's entertainment was wound up with a couple of nigger farces. Miss Blanche Clifton will shortly make her appearance in "Victimised," which is to be played in the hall of the School of Arts.

AMERICAN CIRCUS TROUPE.—The members of the American Circus, after a very successful run of fifty-five nights, give farewell entertainments this day and evening, prior to their departure for Queensland. The troupe includes a number of excellent gymnasts and riders, pre-eminent among the former being Mr. Bird; and among the latter George Gilham, the star rider of the colony excels. Mr. Taylor, as ringmaster, and Messrs. Cawdell and Murray as clowns, have also assisted in a marked manner to support the credit of the company. Throughout the week their performances, varied each night, were well attended; and that of last evening was brought to a close with the popular spectacle known as "Dick Turpin's Ride to York."

LAW REFORM.

No. V.

THE eleventh head of inquiry suggested by our Law Commission, if taken in connection with the rest, exhibits what the logicians term a false distribution. It embraces generally the laws relating to juries, after No. 8 has already proposed the important question of trial in Civil cases—whether by a Judge and jury, or by a Judge alone, with or without consent of parties. Practically, however, this will cause us no inconvenience. Our present article will not trench upon the field of inquiry contained in No. 8, but will be limited to the consideration of our jury system in criminal cases. There are certain faults in that system which are widely felt and easily corrected; so easily, that it would be a pity indeed if they were left for some general measure of legal reform to remedy, instead of being immediately dealt with by a special enactment. We may make the duty of serving on juries less burdensome to individuals, while, at the same time, we increase the efficiency of the service and diminish the cost to the country.

It is of course self-evident that the fewer jurors summoned the better, provided the number suffice for doing justice fairly and effectively between the Crown and the prisoners. Is it necessary, in the country districts especially, where the attendance of persons is most costly both to themselves and to the public, that forty-eight, or even thirty-six jurors should be summoned to attend at Assizes or Quarter Sessions? It is necessary on the present system; but surely only necessary by reason of what Mrs. Andy calls "our own goosetherum-foodle."

We must confess at the outset, though at the risk of frightening some ultra-conservative readers, that we do not idolize the mystic number twelve, nor see any reasonable analogy between jurors and Apostles. But though we have long considered the customary number excessive, and believe that nine would do the work better than twelve; yet, for the sake of old associations, we are content to see the latter number still maintained—at all events, till the dread of legal novelties shall have been abated by experience. It ought, however, to be sufficient for all practical purposes to have two full juries of "good men and true" available on each occasion. The demand for an excessive number of summonses arises—first, from the peremptory challenges permitted to the prisoner; and, secondly, though in a minor degree, from its being uncertain how many of those summoned will attend. Against the former of these evils we have repeatedly entered our protest already, but the repetition remains a standing duty till our legislators shall provide a remedy for a gross and notorious abuse. Twenty challenges, without cause shown, allowed to every prisoner charged with felony! Can anything more irrational, more mischievous, be conceived? Nobody, in fact, ever dreams of defending it; but somehow, though a statute of twenty lines might set it right, this abuse still clogs the course of justice. If only thirty-six jurors have been summoned, it enables a prisoner charged with felony actually to choose his own jury. Allowing for removal, absences, and illness, about thirty-one of the thirty-six may be expected to attend in an ordinary season; barely twenty-four, perhaps, in a winter like the present. The prisoner, therefore—or rather his legal adviser, for undefended prisoners, unless they are very old hands, seldom abuse their privilege—may actually select the twelve men by whom he will be tried. The jurors eliminated will almost invariably be the most intelligent and upright of the whole number; those retained will be selected for their demerits—for dullness, obstinacy, known or suspected sympathy with crime. Nor is this all. Should the Crown exercise its right of bidding some very objectionable juror or jurors "stand aside" without being prepared actually to show cause for their exclusion, the prisoner can by wholesale challenges so exhaust the panel as to replace the persons set aside—any sympathy with the accused which they may have before entertained being now strengthened by wrath against the Crown Prosecutor. Such is the result when thirty-six jurors only are summoned—the number to which an ill-judged economy has recently limited the summonses for our heaviest Courts of Quarter Sessions. When forty-eight jurors have been summoned, and forty or more of these are in attendance, the case, of course, is not so bad. The Crown can then get rid of notorious sympathisers whenever there is one prisoner only in the dock. Two or more prisoners may, however, by severing in their challenges, force the Crown to try them separately—a course which facilitates many sharp dodges in playing fast and loose with the evidence, and greatly impedes the course of justice. And whenever twelve good jurors out of the forty are actually locked up considering a doubtful case, the Crown has to choose between suspending the rest of the cases at the cost of an expensive delay and proceeding to try another prisoner who may possibly be sharp enough, or in sufficiently sharp hands, to insist on choosing his own jury. Any way, this power of wholesale challenge—though, thanks to the general honesty of jurors, it works less evil than might have been expected—is a mischievous absurdity. Originally granted in favorem vitæ, at a time when capital punishments were frightfully common, and an obnoxious person might easily be hung out of the way, it is now extended to all sorts of petty offences which happen to be styled felonies. Designed to secure a fair jury, it is "worked" by gentlemen of the Old Bailey school to get rid of worthy jurors, and secure the services of dishonest men if possible, and, failing that, of the timid and incapable. The cure for these abuses is simple and obvious. Do away with the senseless distinction between felonies and misdemeanours. Allow the Crown and the accused in every case some very small number of peremptory challenges—say three each—and an unlimited number (which will be practically nil) for good cause shown. This will render thirty jurors more effective for the ends of justice, than sixty would be under the present system.

Again, the plan on which jurors are summoned requires remodelling, especially in the country districts. In the first place, the Sheriff, when he issues the list, does not know how many of the jurors whom he orders to be summoned are actually available—deaths and removals, since the jury-book was last made up, have not been notified to him—actual illnesses and absences are of course unknown; and thus, without any wilful defaulters, one-fourth, or one-third, of the number may be missing. Again, the names are taken in alphabetical order. Half-a-dozen of the same family—partners very often in business—may thus have to attend at the same Court, perhaps to sit on the same jury. Or, there may be such a predominance of O's or Macs that, in spite of a mixed population, the juries on a certain occasion shall have, of necessity, a marked national or even sectarian character. These things can be easily set right. The alphabetical order may be modified by taking—let us say—every third name. The fifty first names in this order may be sent to the deputy-sheriff, who will know, and may be empowered to summon, the first thirty who are available. Some better means may very likely be suggested, only the end must not be lost sight of.

We would further suggest, that in the less populous districts, the thirty miles limit might with advantage be extended to forty. This would greatly increase the number of names on the list and prevent the repeated summoning of the same persons. We think, too, that a higher tone would be given to our juries, if the magistrates, who have no longer any duties to perform at Quarter Sessions, were made liable to serve on Criminal as well as on Civil juries. No doubt, there are individuals among them who would be no great acquisition. We lately heard of a J. P. coming drunk into a country Court-house to apply for a public-house license, and obtaining it! But such cases are rare. Generally speaking, our magistrates are men whose character stands high with their neighbours, and whose influence in the jury box would be both morally and intellectually useful.

A word more as to the treatment we give to our jurymen. The contrast is painful enough between the indulgence shown to the prisoner and the pitiless usage to which the Crown witnesses are exposed. This, however, belongs to another branch of our subject; but if we are to reform the laws relating to juries, we may surely claim that jurymen should be as well treated as prisoners. Yet, who ever heard of keeping a prisoner fasting for twelve mortal hours because a jury were locked up and engaged in considering his case? Were such a thing done, there would be indignation meetings outside the house, and badgering of officials within; the police would be kept on the alert, and the life of the Colonial Secretary would be made a burthen to him. But as it is, there is no outcry against the cruelty inflicted on twelve of her Majesty's subjects. The sufferers—the hungry and thirsty, to whom we deny food and drink—are not forgers, or highwaymen, or cattle-stealers; they are merely honest citizens, discharging a painful and laborious duty for the public benefit; so they may starve unregarded! Can anything be more outrageously absurd than the rule in this matter? You want twelve human beings to devote their best mental energies to a momentous public duty, and to this end you deny them not merely all comforts but even the bare amount of bodily support which is essential to the healthy working of the mind. You want them to maintain for hours a calm, candid, and temperate discussion of the evidence on which their verdict—if they are to arrive at one—must be founded, and accordingly you so irritate and worry them that they find their best resource in a surreptitious pipe and a sullen snoose. Can anything, we ask, be more absurd than this? Yes—absurd as the rule is—the method of enforcing it is even more absurd. We take no pains to see that individual jurors do not get supplies under the rose—that the combative man has not the incentive of a smuggled whisky flask, nor the determined "boot-eater" a cold tongue in his boot. We wink at all sorts of means by which the law of impartial exhaustion may be evaded. But let that which is so often done per obliquum be once done per directum—let a Judge with some loose ideas of common sense or Christian charity grant the faint and weary détenus of the jury-room, the indulgence of a sandwich and a cup of tea—and see how gloriously the law asserts itself! The collective wisdom of our highest legal tribunal is brought to bear on the case, and the result is to the lover of routine admirable—to the logician, simply portentous. It is agreed nem. con. that the Judge has acted illegally, and the jury have escaped part of their penance. It is agreed likewise that the verdict is a good verdict nevertheless. There is no suggestion that the finding was against evidence, and no one doubts that it was more likely to be conscientious than if it had been arrived at under the pressure of "fell thirst and famine." These things being so, whom does the law punish? Not the too-indulgent Judge—he has done the most natural thing in the world. Not the jury, refreshed contrary to precedent; they only took what was granted them, and did their duty none the worse. No—the great goddess Precedent has been outraged, and the whole land must expiate the offence! We recommend that the convict be discharged—let loose on the public. And the "gentle public" take no objection either to the law or the logic!

Truly it is high time that the "laws relating to juries" be amended.

WOOL AND PASTORAL ASSOCIATION.

AN adjourned meeting of bankers, merchants, and woolgrowers willing to join the Wool Association was held at the Exchange, yesterday afternoon. There were present, besides the chairman (Mr. J. B. Watt), the Hon. John Hay, Mr. W. H. Suttor, Mr. P. G. King, Mr. A. Stuart, Dr. Traill, Mr. W. B. Tooth, the Hon. S. D. Gordon, the Hon. W. Busby, Mr. G. A. Lloyd, Mr. R. Binnie, the Hon. A. Campbell, Mr. Shepherd Smith, Mr. S. Cowper, Mr. J. R. Cattell, Mr. J. S. Willis, Mr. Charles Smith, Mr. E. Hill, Mr. A. Brown, Mr. J. B. Suttor, Mr. H. Beit, Mr. T. Buckland, Mr. R. P. Raymond (hon. secretary), Mr. Hurst, and Mr. Haigh. Twenty-five gentlemen subscribed the roll, agreeing to become members of the Wool and Pastoral Association of New South Wales, and to pay a subscription of one guinea per annum in support of the association.

The CHAIRMAN explained that Sir Daniel Cooper and Mr. T. S. Mort were not able to be present, though both took a warm interest in the movement, and it was well known that Mr. Mort was always ready to co-operate in any project tending to promote the welfare of the colony. In the ten clauses of draught rules before the meeting the objects of the association were shadowed forth. They took a wide range, and almost any grievance under which a member of the pastoral community might suffer would come under some of the provisions. The Provisional Committee had been anxious to have in this matter the co-operation of gentlemen practically acquainted with wool-growing. With regard to the members of the committee, it was stipulated that one-half at least should be bona fide owners of sheep or cattle station property. The formation of this association had been a subject of discussion for months past, so that all must be pretty well informed as to its objects. He moved,—"That the Wool and Pastoral Association of New South Wales be considered as formed."

The resolution was passed unanimously.

The meeting then proceeded to consider the draught rules.

"1. The association shall be called the Wool and Pastoral Association of New South Wales, and its objects shall be the protection of the wool, sheep, and cattle interests, and the products of sheep and cattle."

This clause was agreed to; but, subsequently, Mr. W. B. TOOTH moved its reconsideration, in order to insert words that would render the title "The Wool and Pastoral Association of New South Wales and Queensland," as he thought the interests of pastoral proprietors in both these colonies were intimately related.

After some deliberation the proposed amendment was withdrawn, but the subject of relations with Queensland was, at another stage, brought under the attention of the meeting in a resolution moved by Mr. SHEPHERD SMITH.

The following clauses were agreed to without discussion:—

"2. All persons signing a written statement declaring their willingness to become members of the association, shall be members of the association, and take part at the general meeting.

"3. During the first twelve months thereafter all persons elected by the general committee and paying a subscription of one guinea shall be members of the association, but after the first twelve months candidates for admission shall be proposed at one meeting of committee but shall not be eligible for election until the next meeting.

"4. The management of the affairs of the association shall be entrusted to a committee consisting of eighteen members, who from their number shall elect a chairman and vice-chairman to hold office for twelve months. Three members of the committee shall retire annually by rotation, but shall be eligible for re-election. Not more than one partner of the same firm shall at any one time serve on the committee. One-half at least of the committee shall be bona fide owners of sheep or cattle station property."

The undermentioned gentlemen were unanimously appointed as committee under the above clause:—The Hon. John Hay, the Hon. T. Holt, Mr. P. G. King, Mr. B. Molineaux, Mr. C. Smith, Mr. T. Buckland, Dr. R. J. Traill, Mr. W. H. Suttor, Mr. W. B. Tooth, Mr. A. Stuart, the Hon. G. H. Cox, Mr. J. S. Willis, Mr. T. S. Mort, the Hon. W. Busby, Major Fanning, Mr. R. Binnie, the Hon. S. D. Gordon, and Mr. J. B. Watt.

Clauses 5 and 6 were agreed to as under:—

"5. The chairman for the time shall also act as treasurer for the association. The secretary shall be appointed by the members of the association, who shall fix the amount of his salary. The duties of the secretary shall be to give every information in his power to members of the association, to attend all general meetings and committee meetings when required, to keep minute books of all resolutions and transactions of the association, and to act generally as [illegible] directed by the committee of the association.

"6. The annual general meeting shall be held in the month of January of each year, and the committee shall give three weeks' notice of the same. At this meeting the result of the elections shall be announced, and the amount of annual subscriptions shall be fixed, and a report be submitted detailing proceedings of the past year."

On the next clause there was some discussion as to the time required for notice to country members relative to the holding of meetings. The clause as proposed was:—

"7. Special general meetings may be convened by the chairman or any three members of the committee, or by a written requisition to the chairman signed by ten members of the association, stating the objects of such meeting, and such meeting shall be held within seven days from the date of the requisition."

It was moved that the words "and such meeting shall be held within seven days from the date of the requisition" be omitted, with a view to insert in their place the words, "and the committee shall give ten days and not more than twenty days' notice thereof." This amendment was agreed to.

"8. The enactment, repeal, or alteration of any rule shall only be made at a general meeting, and the majority required shall be not less than two-thirds of the members present. The rules so enacted, repealed, or altered, shall be binding on all the members. Twelve members to form a quorum for any general meeting."

On the motion of the Hon. JOHN HAY, the clause was amended by the insertion of the word "special" before the words "general meeting," and the clause as so amended was passed.

The clauses subjoined were agreed to as put from the chair:—

"9. All questions before either general or committee meetings shall be decided by a majority of votes, except the subjects specified in the preceding rule; the chairman in each case to have the casting vote in the event of an equality.

"10. The committee shall have power to dispose of the funds for the ordinary purposes of the association, but not otherwise without the consent of a general meeting; to audit the treasurer's accounts, to manage and superintend the affairs of the association in conformity with the rules, to make by-laws, to decide and regulate all matters not provided for by the existing laws, to take cognisance in their discretion of all legislative or local Acts, or other matters affecting the objects of the association, to submit such matters to the general body as may be deemed necessary, and generally to manage the affairs of the association.

"11. Five members of the committee shall form a quorum for the transacting of business.

"12. All vacancies that may occur in the committee from resignation or any other cause during the current year shall be filled up at the committee meetings, subject to confirmation at the next general meeting, and any member so elected shall retain office so long only as the member in whose place he shall be elected was entitled to remain in office."

An additional clause, to stand 13 (moved by Mr. Hay), was agreed to in the following terms:—"Advertisement in any Sydney daily newspapers shall be held to be sufficient notice under the foregoing rules."

With regard to the proposed amendment to alter the first clause, so as to include Queensland in the title of the association, it was stated that there were gentlemen present so far identified with the pastoral interests of that colony as to render them eligible to represent it on the committee.

Mr. SHEPHERD SMITH, however, thought the amendment ought to be held in abeyance until the views of the woolgrowers of Queensland were ascertained.

The Hon. A. CAMPBELL suggested that they should be invited to join the association.

The Hon. JOHN HAY thought it necessary to pass some resolution empowering the committee to open communication with the Queensland woolgrowers on the matter.

Mr. SHEPHERD SMITH said he would be glad to see the people of Queensland establish an independent association of theirown; adding that if the meeting adopted the rules passed at the general meeting, it would enable the committee to communicate with both Queensland and Victoria.

The Hon. A. CAMPBELL thought it ought to be communicated to the woolgrowers of Queensland, that if they did not wish to form an independent association they could unite with this association in the common cause.

Mr. SHEPHERD SMITH said, in order to make the operations of the association continuous, by connecting the proceedings of to-day with those of the large public meeting held on the 27th June last, and at the same time to meet the views of those desirous of uniting Queensland in this movement, or inducing them to join in our action, he moved,—"That this association be requested to give effect to the resolutions passed at the public meeting of those interested in the wool question held in the Chamber of Commerce on the 27th June last."

The motion was agreed to.

Before the close of the meeting, the CHAIRMAN said it had been suggested that an acknowledgment of the services of Sir Daniel Cooper should be given in some general way. This had been done at Mudgee in a manner that must be grateful to Sir Daniel Cooper's feelings, and it was now proposed that a dinner be given to him in Sydney. Those willing to join in this movement were requested to give in their names before quitting the Chamber.

RANDWICK SPRING MEETING.

THIRD DAY, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9TH, 1870.

FRIDAY morning dawned with a bright sun, which gave promise of a very fine day for the races, and as mid-day approached the sporting community mustered in great strength, and wended their way towards the course. The general public, however, were not very numerous, as they seldom are on the third day of the Randwick Meetings, and at no time during the day were there more than about three thousand persons on the course. The saddling paddock and Grand Stand were, however, nearly as largely attended as on the previous two days, although few ladies graced the latter with their presence. During the intervals between the races, the gentry who amuse and victimise the greenhorns by the exhibition of their various delectable games of chance, plied their vocations with great industry, but somehow or other there was a great dearth of gulls, and their gains yesterday were not at all satisfactory to themselves. By-the-bye, we noticed an advertisement the other day purporting to emanate from the Jockey Club, which announced that no betting booths or stands would be permitted on the racecourse; but notwithstanding this notice, there seemed to be nearly as many petty betting establishments, with their tempting offers of great odds, as there were individuals to patronise them. The refreshment booths did not do nearly so much business yesterday as on the previous days; but host O'Brien appeared to be as busy as usual in the rooms beneath the grand stand, and the refreshments procured were, as usual, on the most liberal and extensive scale, and were done ample justice to by his patrons and customers.

The racing was quite equal if not superior to that of the Derby and Metropolitan days, and passed off exceedingly well. There was one accident, however, which at one time was thought to be of a very serious, if not of a fatal character. In the race for the Mares' Produce Stakes, Illumination, who was making the running at the start, fell suddenly at the end of the fence, between the grand stand and the rocks turn, throwing Joe Carter with considerable violence. He lay perfectly motionless, and at first it was thought that he was killed. He was carefully lifted up and carried off the course, and after a short time he returned to consciousness. It was found that no bones were broken, but he was very much shaken. We heard last evening that he was not likely to feel any permanent injury from his fall. Eleven horses started for the Free Handicap, in which Detective was the favourite, and not a little surprise was manifested when Kate Dalrymple dashed through her horses and carried away the prize. She showed herself a game little mare. The Craven Plate was considered a gift for Tim Whiffler, there being only four nags brought to the post, and the pick of the public proved they were right, and in this event he has showed himself to be the best weight for age horse in the colony. In the Prince of Wales Stakes there were five starters, in which Deceptive was the favourite at 3 to 2, while 2 to 1 were the odds against Duke of Athol and Kate Dalrymple. The race was a very exciting one, and was won from end to end by the Duke, Kate Dalrymple beating Deceptive at the post for second place; and it was believed by a good many that if Bryant had made his running earlier he would have added another to his victories. The Mares' Produce Stakes was believed to be a certainty for Florence notwithstanding her defeat in the Maiden Plate; the result, however, proved that she was unequal to the effort, and it was quite clear that the season was fatal to her after her Derby victory. It is a pity she started. The Sydney Handicap, on which there were eight starters, was an unexpected victory for Rawdon, beating a host of good nags. On leading the Judge's horse into the saddling-paddock he was loudly cheered by the bystanders, which may be considered a tribute of respect for a thorough but unfortunate sportsman.

The following is a detailed account of the day's running:—

First Race.—The Free Handicap of 4 sovereigns each, h ft or 1 sovereign only for non-acceptors, with 50 sovereigns added; for 3 years and upwards; the second horse to receive 10 sovereigns out of the prize. Weights to be declared at Tattersall's on the second day of the meeting, at or soon after 9 p.m., and non-acceptances within one hour after such declaration to the secretary in the A. J. Club-room, same place. 36 subscribers. One mile.

B. Richards' bl m Deceptive, 5 years 8 st 12 lbs (M'Cabe)
J. Canvin's b g Rinaldo, 6 years, 6 st 5 lbs (Brown).

Betting: 2 to 1 v. Deceptive, 4 to 1 against any of the rest.

When the flag fell the horses got away pretty well together with the exception of Rinaldo, who through fractiousness could not be got into line and was left some lengths behind. Detective took up the running with the lead, Australian Buck, and Lottery being close up, and the remainder in pretty close attendance, the favourite Deceptive being amongst the ruck. At the back of the course Detective was still leading, and the Buck had given place to Paradise, Kate Dalrymple, and Zelika. At the hill Kate Dalrymple seemed to slacken in her speed and on arriving at the Trainers' stand Detective continued to hold first position and Australian Buck again rushed up to second place, Ladylike, Kaiser, and Deceptive racing nearly about half a length in the rear of the Buck, Kate Dalrymple being sixth. On reaching the turn, Kaiser had passed Ladylike and Deceptive, and now Kate Dalrymple and Lottery were called upon, and the former showed a great dash of foot. In coming down the straight she took the inside running and surprised the public by the tremendous pace with which she passed the leading horses. Lottery likewise made a great effort and succeeded in securing second place by about a neck, Kate winning the race by at least two lengths in the easiest manner, Kaiser was third, beating Detective by about half a length. This was one of the best races of the meeting. Time 1 minute 48 6-10ths seconds.

Second Race.—The Craven Plate of 100 sovereigns, for 3 years and upwards; 1½ mile. Entrance, 2½ sovereigns.

J. Tait's b g Pearl, 4 years, 6 st 12 lbs (C. Stanley).

Betting: 5 to 2 on Tim Whiffler; 5 to 2 on Lady Clifden; 4 to 1 Moselle, 4 to 1 Pearl.

An excellent start was effected, when Pearl and Tim Whiffler took up the running together, Lady Clifden being neck and neck with Moselle about a length in the rear. At the Rocks Lady Clifden shot past Tim and the Pearl, and at Johnny Cutts's was leading by a length, while the other three horses were all abreast of each other. At the back of the course Lady Clifden was still leading, and the other three horses gradually parting company, Tim going up quickly, Moselle coming after him, and Pearl bringing up the rear. As they neared the hill there was not six yards between the first and last horses. At the Trainers' Stand Tim Whiffler was given his head, and he at once went to the front, and Lady Clifden made a rush at him, but although she passed Moselle she could not overtake the old favourite, who was sailing away with hands down quite at his ease. Whipcord and steel were brought into requisition by young Bryant on Lady Clifden, and she answered gamely at every stroke, but it was quite clear that Tim had it all his own way, and as they entered the straight he was leading by four or five lengths. The only question was as to second place, and a desperate race ensued between Lady Clifden and Moselle. When they were within half a distance of the finish, Moselle got her nose in front, and she took second position by about half a length, Tim winning with the greatest ease by five lengths; Pearl was about four lengths in the rear of Lady Clifden. Time, 2 minutes 17 3-10 seconds.

Third Race.—The Prince of Wales Stakes of 6 sovereigns each, with 60 sovereigns added, for 3 years and upwards; 1¼ mile. Second horse 12 sovereigns out of the prize. The winner to be sold by auction immediately after the race for £100; if for £80, allowed 7 lbs; £70, 12 lbs; £60, 19 lbs; £50, 28 lbs. The amount, if any, realised in excess of the entered selling price to go to the fund. Entrance, 1½ sovereign.

Betting—2 to 1 v. Duke and Athol, 2 to 1 v. Kate Dalrymple 3 to 2 v. Deceptive, 5 to 2 v. Lucy.

When the signal was given the horses got away almost simultaneously, the Duke taking the lead, Lucy, Slyboots, Deceptive, and Kate Dalrymple following in the order named. When they passed the Grand Stand they still held the same positions, only that the distances between the horses were increased, and when they arrived at the Rocks Kate Dalrymple was at least fifteen lengths behind the leading horse. They sailed away round the course until they came nearly opposite to the trainers' stand, when Deceptive made his running and passed Slyboots and Lucy: Kate Dalrymple here also was called upon, and she followed close upon the flank of the black mare, Lucy falling off beaten. On turning into the straight running Kate Dalrymple answered gamely to the whip, and lessened the gap at every stride. At the distance post she defeated Deceptive and struggled gamely for first honours, but was unable to dispossess the Duke, who had kept the lead from the jump. There was about a length between the winner and Kate, and about the same distance between her and Deceptive. Slyboots was a tolerable fourth, and Lucy last. Time, 3 minutes 18 seconds.

Fourth Race.—The A.J.C. Mares' Produce Stakes of 10 sovereigns each, h. ft., 2½ sovereigns only if declared on the 1st August, with 100 sovereigns from the A.J.C. added, for 3 years; colts, 8 st 10 lbs.; fillies, 8 st 5 lbs. The winner of the Australian Derby Stakes 7 lb., of the A.J.C. Sires' Produce Stakes or Champagne Stakes 4 lb., of both 6 lbs. extra. 1¼ mile. The second horse to receive 10, and the third 5 per cent. on the gross amount of the prize, to be deducted therefrom. Entries closed with 112 subscribers.

Florence carried 11 lbs. penalties, making her weight 9 st 2 lbs.

Betting—2 to 1 on Florence against the field, 25 to 10 v. Endeavour.

A splendid start was effected, in which Florence and Illumination went to the front, Recruit, Endeavour, and Challenger running together, about two lengths behind. In this order they passed the stand to the turn out of the straight running, when Illumination fell down and threw her rider heavily. At the Rocks Florence was still leading, Endeavour coming next, Challenger next, and Recruit all behind. In this way they continued to the back of the course, when Endeavour made a rush at Florence, and raced at her until the horses reached the trainers' stand, when, to the surprise of onlookers, the favourite gradually gave place to Endeavour, who took up the running. At the turn into the straight, Challenger made a splendid effort, and in his turn displaced Florence, and rushed alongside Endeavour. A most desperate race ensued, both Endeavour and Challenger receiving a liberal administration of whalebone all the way down the straight; and, after a game race, Endeavour won by a neck. Florence had been pulled up when her chance was gone, and was only kept going in order not to be deprived of third place by Recruit. Time, 2 minutes 20 5-10 seconds.

Fifth Race.—The Sydney Handicap of 10 sovereigns each, h. f., or entrance only if declared by 25th August, with 100 sovereigns added, for 3 years and upwards; 1½ mile. Second horse 20 sovereigns from the prize. Weights on the 13th August. A winner of any handicap thereafter to carry 5 lbs. extra. The winner of the Great Metropolitan Stakes 3 lbs. additional. Entrance, 2½ sovereigns.

Mr. Chaafe ns c h Rawdon 5 years, 6 st 5 lbs (A. White) ... 1
G. Adam's ch h Trump Card, 5 years, 7 st 10 lbs (S. Holmes) ... 2
A. Thompson's b h The Duke, 5 years, 7 st 10 lbs (S. Davis) 3
Winch's b g Little Dick, 4 years 8 st (J. Brown)
Town's b m Carnation, 6 years, 7 st 12 lbs (Green)
Driscoll's br f Juanita, 4 years, 7 st 5 lbs (Lewis)
Hogan's b c Eli, 3 years, 6 st 2 lbs (M. Bryan)
S. Bradbury's br m A 1, 5 years, 7 st 3 lbs (Roberts).

Betting: 2 to 1 v. Trump Card, 6 to 1 v. Juanita, 6 to 1 v. Duke.

After one unsuccessful attempt, the horses were got away well together, and Eli and Little Dick jumped off with the lead at a great pace, and all the others followed in a cluster. They came down the straight at a good bat, and went by the stand in the following order: Eli, Little Dick, Rawdon, A1, The Duke, and the remainder all together, slightly in the rear. On gaining the Rocks, Rawdon deprived Little Dick of second place, and Trump Card followed suit for the third position. Eli and Rawdon now commenced to race, and when they had reached the back of the course they were neck and neck, at least ten lengths in advance of the second division, of which Juanita and The Duke were last. As they neared the trainer's stand the horses got into close order, and on coming round into the straight Rawdon had a strong lead, and Eli fell off beaten. Trump Card and The Duke, who had separated themselves from the ruck, now made their effort, and passed Rawdon. A desperate and exciting race ensued between Trump Card and the Duke, both horses being brought to the whip, and to all appearances the victory lay between them; but when within half a distance of the post young White called upon Rawdon again, and the horse answering gamely, shot past and won the race by a good length, Trump Card beating the Duke for second place by about the same distance, Carnation being a bad fourth, and the remainder straggling in at various intervals. Time, 2 minutes 42 5-10 seconds.

THE INTERCOLONIAL EXHIBITION.

THE Exhibition still continues to be attractive. Several interesting objects have arrived during the last few days from Victoria. Messrs. Walch, Brothers, have forwarded a magnificent inkstand containing 57½ ounces of nearly pure gold, and valued at 350 guineas. Dr. Von Mueller has completed his collection of resins and oils distilled from Victorian woods, and has in addition exhibited some brown paper, apparently of good quality, manufactured at Ramsden's paper mills, Melbourne, from Caladium filum. A neat seat, constructed of the butt of a fern tree, has also been sent by the same gentleman. The long expected model of a vessel for raising auriferous earth from the beds of rivers has been at last received from Ballarat, and the inventor, Mr. Ermington, is in attendance near the dais to explain its qualities and uses. The Trustees of the Melbourne Public Library have forwarded a beautifully illuminated volume, giving statistics of the various cities and boroughs in Victoria, and three volumes of Prince Alfred's first visit to Australia.

Arrangements have been made for a ploughing match between Victoria and New South Wales, and the committee are desirous of practically testing some of the reaping machinery, if they can obtain the use of suitable ground and material.

The awards are not yet all made known. The Paper Company have obtained a medal for packing and blotting papers; Mr. Jackson has had a medal awarded to him for the organ; Messrs. Wilkie Kelner are to have a medal for their trichord piano. Mr. Marshall, of Adelaide, has received high commendation for his pianos, and so has Mr. Moss for his collection of musical instruments, including Chappell's English model pianoforte. Mr. Paling's harmonium (Alexandre) and Erard's pianos were specially commended. It has been recommended that a silver medal be given to Mr. Russell, of the Observatory, for the self-registering rain-gauge and hand anemometer.

In the report of the Exhibition which appeared in yesterday's Herald, the names of Messrs. Bradley and Perry, of Sussex-street, were misprinted Bradley and Bray.

LECTURE.—A lecture in connection with the Protestant Political Association of New South Wales, was delivered last night by the Rev. Dr. Beg, in the United Temperance Hall, Pitt-street. Mr. John Davies, president of the association took the chair, and introduced the rev. lecturer to the meeting. Dr. Beg chose for his subject "The Matrimonial Laws of the Romish Church and Dispensations granted by his Holiness," and delivered it in a manner showing that it had been well studied. The audience was large and the lecturer was frequently applauded in his remarks.

AN INDEPENDENT JOURNAL.—An English contemporary says the Latest Morning News was announced to appear as a non-political paper. How well the editor has kept faith with the public may be gained from the following paragraph which appeared in the second number:—"The Tory party have gained a victory in East Suffolk, and while we congratulate that Bœotian county upon a member who is more enlightened than the majority of Conservatives, we regret that Sir Shafto Adair was unsuccessful. The eastern counties are a perfect hotbed for the stupid party, and it is as difficult to get political truths into the brain of a Suffolk yokel, as to travel with punctuality on the railway which conveys to market his beans and bloaters."

THE GOVERNMENT GAZETTE.

DEFENCE BOARD.—The following gentlemen have been appointed Commissioners to advise the Government in matters connected with the defence of the colony from foreign aggression:—Lieutenant-Colonel Richardson, President; Captain Young, H.M. 18th Regiment; Messrs. William Macleay, James Barnet (Colonial Architect), Francis Hixson (Superintendent of Harbours), E. O. Moriarty (Engineer-in-Chief), and E. C. Cracknell (Superintendent of Telegraphs).

VOLUNTEERS.—His Excellency the Governor has made the following appointments in the Volunteer Force, viz.:—Second Lieutenant William Gore Beverley to be First Lieutenant in No. 5 Battery, Volunteer Artillery, vice Maclean, deceased; Quartermaster-Sergeant Arthur Bennett to be Second Lieutenant in No. 5 Battery Volunteer Artillery, vice Beverley, promoted; Quartermaster-Sergeant Walter D'Arrietta to be Ensign in No. 5 Company, Sydney Battalion, Volunteer Rifles, vice Johnston, promoted; Mr. John Pierse, L.R.C.S.I., to be Honorary Assistant Surgeon to the East Maitland Corps of Volunteer Rifles.

EXTENSION OF POLICE JURISDICTION.—With reference to the Government notice of the 28th June, 1864, the Metropolitan Police district of the colony is divided, for the police business of the city, as hereunder described. 2. By this revised arrangement the jurisdiction of the Court of Petty Sessions at the Water Police Office will be enlarged, and the Central Police Office further relieved of business now transacted there. 3. The Jury and Electoral lists will be prepared, revised, and corrected at the Central Police Office as at present. Description of that portion of the Metropolitan Police District, colony of New South Wales, which is to be within the special Jurisdiction of the Bench of Magistrates at the Central Police Office. That portion of the Metropolitan Police District within the following boundaries: Bounded on the north from Darling Harbour at the foot of King-street, by a line easterly along the centre of that street to Macquarie-street, along the centre of that street, and the road to the Domain Gate known as St Mary's gate near the Colonial Architect's Office, to the centre of College-street; thence bounded on the east by lines southerly along the centre of College-street to the Old South Head Road and along the centre of that road to the centre of Riley-street, along the centre of Riley-street southerly and a line in continuation thereof to the centre of Cleveland-street, along the centre of Cleveland-street easterly to the centre of Dowling-street; thence by the eastern boundaries of the Boroughs of Redfern and Waterloo southerly, and by a line south to Botany Bay; thence on the south, on the west, and on the north by Botany Bay and George's River, and the western boundaries of the parishes of St. George and Concord to the Parramatta River, and that river and Darling Harbour to the foot of King-street aforesaid, but exclusive of the borough of Balmain. Note.—The above description includes the boroughs of the Glebe, Marrickville, Camperdown, Newtown, Darlington, Redfern, and Waterloo. Description of that portion of the Metropolitan Police District, colony of New South Wales, which is to be within the special jurisdiction of the Bench of Magistrates at the Water Police Office: That portion of the Metropolitan Police District within the following boundaries: Bounded on the south, from Darling Harbour at the foot of King-street, by a line easterly along the centre of that street to Macquarie-street, along the centre of that street and the road to the Domain Gate known as St. Mary's Gate, near the Colonial Architect's Office, to the centre of College-street; thence bounded on the west by lines southerly along the centre of College street to the Old South Head Road, and along the centre of that road to the centre of Riley-street, along the centre of Riley-street southerly and of a line in continuation thereof to the centre of Cleveland-street, along the centre of that street easterly to the centre of Dowling-street; thence by the eastern boundaries of the boroughs of Redfern and Waterloo southerly, and by a line south to Botany Bay; thence on the south, on the east, on the north, and again on the west by Botany Bay, including that bay, to the sea; by the sea northerly to the entrance of Port Jackson; by the waters of Port Jackson and Darling Harbour to the foot of King-street aforesaid, and including the borough of Balmain: Also, all that portion of the Metropolitan Police District lying northerly of the southern shores of Port Jackson and the Parramatta River, including the islands in that port and in that river. Note.—The above description includes the boroughs of East St. Leonards, St. Leonards, and North Willoughby; and the boroughs of Paddington, Woollahra, Waverley, and Randwick.

PARISH ROADS.—The lines of Parish Roads mentioned in the annexed schedule have been formally marked and opened by the proper officer, and the same are now open for public use:—Road from the east boundary of T. O'Brien's 700 acres, near the south-west corner of John Campbell's 640 acres, to the Great Western Railway, near the south-west corner of W. Lee's 36 acres 1 rood; road from Parramatta and Windsor Road, near the Brokenback Bridge, to the Pennant Hills Road; road from Davistown to the Gosford and Kincumber Road, at a point within J. Dunlop's 50 acres, part of J. Spear's 60 acres; road known as the Bay Road, from the Lane Cove Road to the Crow's Nest Road, in the municipality of St. Leonards.

NEW PUBLIC SCHOOL.—An application has been received for the establishment of a Public School at Trunkey Creek.

REGISTRAR.—Mr. Michael Connatty has been appointed Registrar of the Small Debts Court at Moree.

FASHIONS FOR JULY.

WE have again arrived at the season of the year when preparations for country toilette form the principal business of our modistes. We will therefore endeavour to supply our readers with as much useful information as possible on that subject. At present the costume ecru (nankeen or straw-coloured material) seems the rage—we may say, the uniform of the moment, for it is so universally adopted. It is desirable to know the different styles in which it is made up—it may be more or less dressy. The woollen material is most suitable for travelling toilette, Batiste Mexican cloth, or foulard, &c., make pretty walking-dresses, if trimmed with several narrow rows of black velvet put between the flounces, or with one wide row of velvet. Sometimes the flounces and their headings are edged with very narrow black, white, or ecru lace, insertions of the same alternating with the flounces. This lace is replaced by a narrow band of mansouk worked in scallops, or plaited or fluted flounces of white muslin, plain or trimmed with lace, may be substituted. If a more dressy costume is required, it may be composed of plain or satin striped grenadine, of crepon or crepe de Chene, and trimmed in the following manner:—Under skirt with three or five plaited flounces, edged with white or ecru lace, each flounce having as a heading a ruche of pinked taffetas matching the lace in colour. Upper skirt looped up by bows of the same colour as the ruche, which also forms a heading to a lace flounce round the tunic; this flounce is from ten to twelve inches wide. This costume scarcely allows of a paletot, but the body is opened en cœur, or square, and trimmed with braces or en fichu, formed by ruches and lace. Half-open sleeves, with a frill of lace. When these costumes are not trimmed with a contrasting colour, they look effective if finished off by a sash matching the colour of the flower worn in the hat. If the hat is trimmed with a China crape scarf, the sash should be also of China crape, and the ends edged with a moss fringe. For picnics or country excursions nothing is more suitable than percale, which has a fresh and light appearance, and yet will not be damaged by being soiled or crumpled. Grenadine as a trimming upon foulard or taffetas is more fashionable than ever. It forms ruches, flounces (always with a heading), bouillonnes, &c. With bright colours, the grenadine should always match the dress; but with light grey, striped black and white crossway grenadine may be employed. Of course it is understood that plain black or white is good taste with almost any colour. A white or black tunic of gauze, crape, or any transparent material is most charming, over blue, pink, green, or grey silk, with a low body; or for mourning, a white China crape tunic, trimmed with a flounce edged with a light ruche of black lace, or a white gauze tunic, with white silk fringe and narrow black blond trimming, over a black silk low dress, forms a very elegant though simple dinner or fete dress. Printed muslin or organdi is now in demand. It is usually trimmed with several flounces but not made with a double skirt in consequence of the pattern of the under-skirt showing through the upper. The tunic, however, is imitated by one wide or several narrow flounces, ruches, or bouillonnes. The sash has two small basques very much trimmed, and made with a pouff bow. The body trimmed with braces or en fichu, square or pointed, must never be worn with a paletot of the material, for the same reason that the double skirt is not admissable—and, indeed, the remark is applicable to all transparent materials, even when plain—for a double thickness in some parts and not in others produces an unpleasing effect. The black lace bonnet still retains its place as the bonnet par excellence for use; the fact that it is made in every variety proves how general a favourite it is. We add a few of the newest models. Chapeau Capeline of Leghorn, the crown rather large, encircled by a scarf of maize gauze; at the side a bouquet of wheat-ears, and long trail of cornflower. A "Pamela" bonnet of brown straw, trimmed with brown China crape, falling as a scarf at the back. Strings of China crape are fastened under the chin, without any bow. Bouquets of tea-roses outside and under the brim. A bonnet, the front of white China crape; full crown of pale green gauze. Scarf of the gauze, trimmed with fringe, forming the strings; a wreath of white convolvulus and brown leaves, mixed with long grass, falling at the side. Chapeau "Princesse" of white tulle and Belgian lace, on which is gracefully laid one white and one pink feather, with tufts of brown leaves veined with pink. The strings of lace, fastened by a small pink feather. Chapeau "Louis XV.," of rice straw, edged with black velvet, bouquet of roses of several shades. This bonnet is raised at the back, and lined with black velvet. Scarf of [illegible] fastened at the side by a rose.

CANDID.—A worthy minister of Fintray had a farm-servant whose notions of asking special blessings were very limited. On one occasion he wanted some stones, and thought a number lying on a piece of fallow ground belonging to the glebe would suit him. Having got the minister's permission to take them, John yoked the cart; but the ground was too soft for man and beast. The minister, seeing the quandary John was in, advised him, "to offer up a prayer for frost." Next day, by chance, there was a severe frost and John was busy at work. The minister happened to pass, and observing his man actively engaged, said to him, "Well, John, your prayer has been heard." John's reply was at least candid. "Umph! Weel, sir, it was need; it's nae aften I seek a favour."

By Messrs. Mort and Co.: 153 hides at 19s. 6d. to 23s., 130 at 16s. to 16s. 6d., 18 at 14s. 3d. to 14s. 6d., 1 at 9s. 9d; T, 6 casks tallow at £33 5s.; P in circle, 15 at £35 5s.; H, 8 at £35; FWD, 49 mutton at £36 15s., 9 beef at £35, 2 at £34, 2 at £33 15s., 2 at £33 10s., 3 at £33 5s., 2 at £32 15s., 1 at £32 10s., 1 at £31 15s., £3 at £31 10s.

The Stock and Share market remains very inactive, with a tendency on the part of sellers to do business if buyers would come forward. City Bank are offered at 11; Joint Stock at 8 with buyers at 8½. There is no inquiry for insurance shares, except Sydney, which maintain their value; General remain at 38s. Debentures are not too plentiful, and prices are unchanged.

There is more business doing in the import markets, and quotations generally close more favourably to holders. The advanced rates recently noticed in candles, rum, brandies, geneva, cornsacks, sardines, and a few other articles have been maintained. Messrs. Stubbs and Co. offered a large quantity of goods at auction this morning, but withdrew the bulk at owners' limits. A line of 900 cases Otard's case brandy was placed privately on terms withheld. We have no change to report in breadstuffs; buyers are only operating for immediate wants, as it is thought that present stocks are so large that no great improvement in prices can take place for some time. Holders of Adelaide sorts know that there is not much more to come from that quarter, and are disposed to wait their market.

Mr. W. Hoscason's report of 16th July, says:—

The Tea Market: Purchasers for Australian account were compelled to operate about the end of June; vessels under charter coming on demurrage—prices have again ruled in favour of teamen, 1s 2d to 1s 6d per lb. having been paid for teas, the same class of which only realised 11d per lb. in the London market last season. Freights: To London via Suez Canal, £5 10s for 55 days; £5 for 65 days, and £4 10s if over that time. Clipper ships, circulated at £3 per ton of 50 feet. To Australia rates rule at £2 15s to £3 per ton. Dispatches: The Statesman (s.), sailed on the 12th, and the Achilles on the 14th, for London, via Suez Canal, and are the racers on this route, bets in favour of the latter. Of the clippers, the Thermopylæ, Eme, Wylo, and Norman Court, are likely to be competitors. Steamer Gleator, Australian ships, Vision, Eliza Firth, Naiad, Isabella Brown, Engelbert, Wild Wave, Rachel, Dashing Wave, and Miss Kilmansegg are in port. The foreign ships, Catharina, Taikun, Mikado, Boy Bendixen, Tekli, Randers, and Peter have been taken up for Australian freights. Colonial ships seeking will have to accept coast employment. Australian coals 4·50 to 5· dollars. Quotations—The cost at which teas laid down in London, freight £3 per ton:—Dust and siftings, 6 to 10 taels, or 7½d to 10d; broken leaf to ordinary., 10 to 14½ taels, or 10d to 1s 1d; fair to good common, 15 to 16½ taels, or 1s 1½d to 1s 2d; flavoury to medium, 17 to 23 taels, or 1s 2½d to 1s 6½d; good medium to fine, 24 to 30 taels, or 1s 7d to 1s 11d; fine to finest, 30 taels, nominal. Souchong: Settlements have been restricted to the fine and finest at 25 to 30 taels; the prices asked for the lower qualities preventing business. One chop of boxes has been settled at 42 taels. The supply is much in excess of last year. Oolong: Large purchases have been made for America of common to good cargo at 17½ to 22½ taels, equivalent to 60 to 63 cent. laid down in New York, at 4s 7½d per doz., and freight at 15 dol. per ton. Scented Teas: A moderate business has been done at former prices, viz.:—Medium to fine, 23 to 26 taels; fine to finest, 27 to [illegible]

MR. BUCHANAN VERSUS THE NEW TESTAMENT.

TO THE PROTESTANT WORKING MEN OF SYDNEY.
(PER FAVOUR OF THE HERALD.)

IN his letter of yesterday, Mr. Buchanan has said exactly what I expected he would say, but which is neither in [illegible] with the letter of the passages to which we both [illegible] the pure spirit of Gospel teaching.

In Mark x. and Matt. xix. our Lord is replying indirectly in the former, and directly in the latter, to certain questionings of the Jews, having reference to their own differences relative to the matter of divorce; these questionings had nothing to do with re-marriage, but simply with the putting away of a wife for every or any cause; and having stated that it was lawful to put her away for one cause [illegible] winds up with the unsought warning, or consequence of such putting away, that she who was so [illegible] the only grounds He recognised, might not [illegible] without committing adultery.

[illegible] Buchanan's remarks upon Rom. vii., 2-3, I [illegible] know how he can bring in the question of [illegible] any show of reason; there is a close connection [illegible] the first verse, which declares that the law [illegible] over a man as long as he liveth, and [illegible] second and third, which say that the law which [illegible] the husband has but the same limit; so [illegible] as fully as a man is bound to obey [illegible] is the wife bound by the law to her [illegible]

[illegible] teaching is plainer still in 1 Cor. vii., 10, [illegible] the believing husband or wife that even [illegible] of heathenism, as pictured in Rom. i., [illegible] his or her separating from their partners; [illegible] will it excuse their marrying again.

And now, in concluding this correspondence, let me speak to you, Protestant working men, among whom are some of my most valued friends, to guard you against signing petitions in favour of this bill, and to urge you to use your influence against it. This bill is designed to legislate for the most [illegible] part of the community, to make their degradation deeper still. Mr. Buchanan's bill would tend to pollute our Courts of justice, to create impure newspapers, to overlook the injury and injustice from which helpless children would suffer, and grievously to lower the religious tone of our community, as it has done of every other where such a law is in force.

LAW.

SUPREME COURT.—FRIDAY.

SITTINGS IN BANCO.

BEFORE their Honors Sir ALFRED STEPHEN, C.J., Mr. Justice CHEEKE, and Mr. Justice FAUCETT.

CROWN CASES.

THE QUEEN V. ROGERSON—SPECIAL CASE.

This was a special case from the Central Criminal Court. Prisoner had been convicted of bigamy before Mr. Justice Cheeke. Three points of law had been raised by prisoner's counsel (Mr. Buchanan) in the prisoner's favour, which points now came before their Honors for determination. The first of these was that evidence had been improperly admitted of statements made by prisoner in answer to questions by the apprehending constable. The second point was that a document purporting to be a certificate of marriage (to his first wife) had been improperly received in evidence. This document was admitted to be in prisoner's handwriting but was signed, or purported to be signed, by James S. Waugh—said to be a clergyman of the Church of England in Victoria. The third objection was that the marriage in Victoria being a foreign marriage, it was incumbent on the Crown to show that such marriage was a valid one according to the law of that country.

Mr. C. J. Manning appeared in support of the conviction. The prisoner was not represented.

Their HONORS decided the two first points in favour of the Crown without calling for argument. As to the document they held that it was clearly receivable as an admission, in prisoner's handwriting, of his marriage to the female called his first wife, which admission was properly sent to the jury with the other evidence of like character. After hearing argument upon the third point their HONORS further held (as had been contended by counsel) that there being (as here) prima facie evidence of a marriage de facto, it must be assumed to be also a marriage de jure, until the contrary was shown, and that the onus probandi was in that case cast upon the prisoner. In support of this decision the case of Regina v. Simmonsto 1 Car and K. 164; and two colonial cases (those of Packer and Siggerson) were relied upon.

Before their HONORS Sir ALFRED STEPHEN, C.J., Mr. Justice HARGRAVE, and Mr. Justice FAUCETT.

RE KILLEEN.—HABEAS CORPUS.

This was a proceeding on Habeas Corpus to set aside a conviction of Francis Killeen, at the Water Police Court, Sydney.

Mr. Butler appeared for the prisoner, and Mr. C. J. Manning in support of the conviction.

The prisoner appeared before the Court in custody on the writ of Habeas Corpus to await the result of the argument. He (prisoner) had been convicted and sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour, for a breach of the Vagrant Act by indecent exposure of his person. Having been thus convicted and sentenced, but being still in custody in the dock, or on the floor of the Court, he was charged with a second offence of like nature, and was again sentenced to six months' imprisonment, with hard labour,—the second term of punishment to commence at the expiration of the first. The warrants of commitment were both of the same date, and were both also, under the name and seal of the committing magistrate—Mr. W. Day. The fact that the second term of imprisonment was only to be computed from the end of the first was only shown by a marginal note on the second warrant, bearing the magistrate's signature. The questions were—first, whether a second and cumulative sentence could, under the 25th section of the Justices Act of 1850, 11 and 12 Vict. No. 43, be imposed upon a person who was still before the Court, and not actually in gaol under his first sentence; secondly, whether the marginal note under the magistrate's signature could be considered as a part of the warrant, or whether the warrant (under seal), being complete, the note must be regarded as something which did not affect it. Thirdly, whether the Court had power to amend by incorporating this marginal note, or its effect, with the warrant, and thus making the second sentence of six months' imprisonment commence only at the end of the first. The prisoner had served the first six months and something over.

Their HONORS were unanimous in holding that a cumulative sentence could be passed by Justices under such circumstances as that under which the second sentence had been awarded in this instance. When a first sentence had been passed, the person sentenced, although still on the floor of the Court, must be regarded as under imprisonment on such sentence. Upon the other points there was a difference of opinion on the Bench. A majority of the Court held that the marginal note was not a part of the warrant, and that although there was (as they also held) power to amend, the present case was not one in which such power should be exercised, as the prisoner had already suffered an imprisonment of between six and seven months. The dissentient Judge (Mr. Justice Hargrave) was of opinion that the marginal note ought to be considered as incorporated with the warrant and covered by the seal of that document, there being nothing to show that it had not been written before the signature and sealing of the same.

The prisoner was consequently discharged.

INSOLVENCY JURISDICTION.

EXPARTE TITTERTON.

Mr. DAVIS moved for the grant of a certificate under the rider to the Insolvent Act, to George Titterton, to whom a certificate had been refused about four years ago.

Their HONORS made the usual order for publication of notice, &c.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT.

FRIDAY.

BEFORE his Honor Mr. District Court Judge DOWLING.

PRELIMINARY BUSINESS.—Fourteen Ca. Sa. motions were called on and disposed of. There was also a case in which a rehearing was refused.

LEVEY V. COX.

This was an action brought by David Lawrence Levey against Annie Cox, to recover the sum of £20 11s. 10d. for rent and taxes. Plaintiff averred that part of the above sum was for rent due to him by defendant, in respect of one of plaintiff's houses, occupied by defendant as his tenant; and he further stated that plaintiff had been left by defendant liable for the taxes of the said house—the joint sums making the full amount claimed. The case having been heard, his Honor gave judgment for the plaintiff—£10 16s. 8d.—amount of rent shewn to be due by defendant. Mr. Darley, instructed by Mr. Levey, appeared for that gentleman as the plaintiff. Mr. W. J. Foster, instructed by Mr. Pennington, appeared for the defendant.

GRUBE AND ANOTHER V. JACOBSEN AND WIFE.

In this action a man and his wife sued for work done, and materials supplied, in respect of property held by the female defendant. It having been suggested that the female defendant had a Judge's order, and that she had thereunder made a contract, an application was made to the Court for the name of the male defendant to be struck out, which was done. The case having been heard, the plaintiff was nonsuited on the ground that the Judge's order could only protect personalty, and not real property. Mr. R. B. Smith appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. R. Forster for the defendant.

KEARY V. DEWAR.

In this action the plaintiff, John Keary, sued Ebenezer Dewar for two gold brooches and a gold ring, of the value of £12, pawned (as plaintiff alleged) to defendant. Defendant denied that they were so pawned with him, but admitted having seen them in his house. Defendant had placed them in his iron safe. Defendant's house had been broken open, and these things stolen with others. Upon proof of this fact being made in the Court, plaintiff consented to a nonsuit.

WILLIAMSON V. HANSON.

This was an action brought by plaintiff against defendant for slander. Plaintiff claimed £30; but she offered to accept nominal damages, if defendant would apologise for the slanderous imputation he had thrown upon her character. Defendant refused. It appeared that defendant had been staying at a lodging-house kept by the plaintiff. He quitted the house to get married, and left his box behind him. He left it with his landlady (the plaintiff), stating that it was locked, and so she then supposed it to be. It, however, turned out afterwards that it could not have been locked when so left. Defendant, after getting his box away, reported at the Detective Office that he had been robbed—that his box had been broken open in Mrs. Williamson's house, and that he had been robbed of £125. The detective officer went and examined the box, which he found unlocked. He found also that its lock did not appear to have been either broken or tampered with. Defendant also described certain clothing as having been, at the same time, stolen from him; but that clothing (or what was admitted to be what was missing) was afterwards found under the bed. The defendant stated to the officer that he "had drawn the money he had been robbed of (£100 in notes and twenty-five pounds in sovereigns) out of the Savings' Bank some time before, being afraid that the bank would break." The detective officer thought (after having inquired into the matter) that it was a doubtful case. The action was brought by the plaintiff because she considered that what defendant had said and done herein was an imputation on the respectable character of her house. The defendant was a respectable-looking seafaring man, apparently the mate of a vessel, and a foreigner. The defence was that there had been no intentional slander; that defendant had been robbed by somebody, and that he had done and said no more than he was warranted to do, in the hope of getting back his money. The defendant had not been actuated by any ill-feeling whatever against Mrs. Williamson, and had made no direct imputations against her. Mr. Innes, for the plaintiff, urged that the story told by the defendant was highly improbable, and that there was every reason to believe that defendant never had had this money at all, and, consequently, had never been robbed. It was a story of a sham robbery, by which he had endeavoured to make it appear, to the relatives of the young woman whom he had married, that he was possessed of money, when in reality he had none. The whole story of his keeping this £125 in a chest, and rolled up in a rag, was a very improbable one. Its falsehood appeared to him to be presumable from the whole evidence, and especially the reluctance with which the defendant took the step of going to the Detective Office. The falsehood of the story was the key to all this man's conduct—duplicity which he was now obliged to justify upon oath. His Honor said he thought it highly improbable that the defendant ever had this money at all. Verdict for the plaintiff £10 10s. Mr. Innes, instructed by Mr. J. F. Fawl, appeared for the plaintiff. Mr. Sly (for Mr. Forster) appeared for the defendant.

INSOLVENCY COURT.

FRIDAY.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY.

BEFORE their Worships the Police Magistrate, Messrs. Levey, Oatley, Hordern, E. Campbell, G. Hill, and Smith.

Six persons were fined 5s. each, and two were fined 10s. each for drunkenness or for riotous behaviour.

Michael Innes, taken into custody for protection on the ground of insanity, was forwarded to the Receiving House at Darlinghurst to be dealt with according to law.

Michael Taylor was found guilty of having assaulted Maria Loder, and Maria Loder was found guilty of having assaulted Michael Taylor. Each was fined 20s., or in default of payment to be imprisoned seven days.

William Pearce, alias Joyce, alias Davis, was charged with larceny. Peter Gandon, an assistant in the service of Joseph Turner, of George-street, clothier, deposed that at a few minutes after 2 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, when returning to his employer's establishment, he saw the prisoner crossing George-street, having under his arm the roll of tweed before the Court, and, knowing it to be the property of Mr. Turner, he took it from him and gave him into custody; it was stolen from the pavement in front of the shop window; it is worth about £7. Prisoner offered no defence. Committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions.

William B. Clifton was charged with unlawfully woundng, with intent to do grievous bodily harm to Bridget Edwards, aged about 8 months. Constable Wilmot deposed that about 4 o'clock yesterday p.m. he heard screams in Castlereagh-street, and soon afterwards saw the prisoner running, followed by two women named Edwards and Morris, the former carried an infant, whose face and head was covered with blood; she called out "For God's sake, constable, do not let that man go, he has murdered my child;" witness apprehended the prisoner on this complaint, who said that he was assaulted by three women, and that the child must have fallen; witness heard prisoner say, as he was pursued by women, "I told you that I would have revenge;" the woman Morris gave witness a spade without a handle and a child's hat; there is no mark of blood upon the spade, but the child's hat is cut through, and is stained with blood; cannot say that prisoner was drunk, but he was certainly to some extent under the influence of drink; the child is in the Infirmary in a very bad state, her brain protruding through the skull, and her mother is there in attendance upon her. No other evidence being in readiness, the prisoner was remanded until Monday. Bail—refused at present—will be allowed on production of a medical certificate that the child is out of danger.

Four prisoners were remanded.

On the summons paper were ten cases, of which two were not prosecuted. Hill v. Forbes was a proceeding under the Tenants' Act, to recover possession of land and dwelling situated at Waterloo, and in which the complainant obtained a warrant. In Kisky v. Hertzhauser, for wages, plaintiff obtained an order. Five persons were fined 5s. for offences under the Police Act, placing goods upon the footway, riotous behaviour, or conveying newly-slaughtered meat without a covering.

WATER POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY.

BEFORE their Worships the Water Police Magistrate, Messrs. Kettle and Spence.

Two drunkards were fined—one, 5s., the other 20s., with the alternative of two and seven days' imprisonment respectively.

William Downes was brought before the Court in custody charged with violently assaulting Richard Mansell. It appears that prosecutor was sitting in the verandah of the Greenwich Pier Hotel, Watson's Bay, when prisoner came in and began abusing some men to whom he was speaking. He remonstrated with prisoner, who immediately turned round and put himself in a fighting attitude. Prosecutor laid hold of him to throw him down in self-defence, and while on the ground the prisoner bit a piece off the outer edge of his left ear. His ear bled profusely, and the piece was afterwards found on the floor of the verandah. Prisoner, who was intoxicated at the time he committed the offence, was sentenced to pay a penalty of 60s.; in default, two months' incarceration.

Edward Cunningham, apprehended for conducting himself in a riotous manner, was ordered to pay a fine of 40s., with the alternative of seven days in gaol.

The summons sheet comprised the following cases, in each of which the defendants were fined 5s., and 5s. costs. Way Key and William Hodgkinson, for allowing water to run to waste; Charles Everson, for causing sand and water to remain on the footway in Liverpool-street; Joseph Walker, for commencing a building without putting up a platform and handrail; Thomas Murphy, Robert Stewart, and Frederick Young, 'bus drivers, for various breaches of the bye-laws.

LICENSING BUSINESS.—The application of Charles Everson for the transfer of the Eight-hour League Hotel, Woollahra, to a house at the corner of Liverpool and Riley streets was granted. George Pile, jun., was supplied with an auctioneer's license.

SYDNEY MUNICIPAL COUNCIL.

THE fifty-fourth quarterly meeting of the Municipal Council of Sydney was held at the Town-hall, yesterday, at noon. There were present—His Worship the Mayor in the chair, and aldermen Steel, Macintosh, Hordern, Andrews, Bradford, Oatley, Green, Woods, Day, Bown, and Caraher.

HEALTH OFFICER'S REPORT.

The following is the report of the City Health Officer for the past quarter:—

"Town-hall, Sydney, September 9th, 1870.

"To the Right Worshipful the Mayor and Aldermen of the city of Sydney.

"Gentlemen,—I have the honour to submit the usual quarterly report.

"During the past quarter there have been registered 776 births, as shown by the Registrar-General's monthly reports. During June the numbers were:—Males, 128; females, 115—total, 243. During July: Males, 124; females, 137—total, 261. During August: Males, 139; females, 133—total, 272.

"During the same period 339 deaths were registered. During June: Males, 55; females, 39—total, 94. During July: Males, 81; females, 53—total, 134. During August: Males, 59; females, 52—total, 111. Showing 437 births in excess of the deaths for the quarter.

"The sudden changes of temperature shown by the range of 17·3 on the 15th of June, and 22·6 on the 11th of July, with strong westerly winds during the past three months, have been most injurious to infants and aged persons, proved by the returns of deaths caused by diseases of the respiratory system. In June, bronchitis, pneumonia, and lung diseases number 12, and consumption 12. In July, the former number 31, and the latter, again, 12. In August, the former number 9, and the latter 10, forming a total of 52 to the former, and 34 to the latter. Typhoid fever numbers 13, and diphtheria 5.

"The change of climate tells severely on some constitutions arriving here from colder climes. It is therefore necessary for all newcomers to combat the change by carefully regulating their mode of life, manners, and customs, so as to suit the climate. Food, clothing, and habits should be regulated accordingly.

"The inhabitants of large cities or towns are subject to injurious effects arising from decomposition of animal and vegetable substances; also, from the constant dust in the streets caused by the immense traffic. To obviate this, all landlords should be compelled to connect their premises with the public sewer, where available, house rubbish frequently removed, and the streets kept well watered.

"After this cold and wet winter we may expect a hot and dry summer. Let not the inhabitants of this city forget that their health depends on their attending to the cleansing of their premises, and quickly removing anything offensive. It would be well for landlords, who value the lives of the community, to visit occasionally, instead of the agent (whose duty, it appears, is to turn a deaf ear to all complaints, and take the weekly rent), the residences they let at high, I might say, exorbitant rents, considering the accommodation. I believe many householders are ignorant of the state of repair their houses are in, and the drainage leading from them, which is of vital importance in this latitude and thickly populated city.

"The overcrowding in some parts of the city compels me to repeat a suggestion of the desirability of forming model lodging-houses, having every convenience.

"I have the honour to be, Gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

"G. F. DANSEY, Health Officer."

REPORT OF ENGINEER OF WATER WORKS.

The following report of the engineer of water works at Botany was laid on the table:—

"Sydney Waterworks, Botany, September 9th, 1870.

"To the Right Worshipful the Mayor and Aldermen.

"Gentlemen,—I have the honour to forward my report for the quarter, ending to date, in connection with those works.

"The repairs to the boilers, 3 and 6, viz., new front plates and bottom bearing places, have been carried out satisfactorily under the contract of Mr. W. Grant, and the boilers are now re-set and will be ready for work shortly. All the valves, &c., in connection with them have been thoroughly examined and repairs effected where necessary.

"The spare new clack valve box, has been put in place for the middle engine, and two new valves and boxes are being made by the contractors, T. S. Mort and Co.

"The old clack valve of M engine has been thoroughly repaired, new gun metal centre fitted and feathers, and patent metal valve fans also. New metallic ring has been fitted to main bucket, the air pump taken out and new valves fitted, piston taken out and fitted with new springs, and new wrought iron hanging links fitted to stop-back valve of same engine.

"The eastern engine will shortly be stopped, as a new crank pin will be required, and the eye bored out, and in all probability the crank taken off, also as from the objectionable arrangement of the east and middle engines being connected and working off one crank shaft, to bore the eye of the eastern branch in its place would necessitate stopping two engines to repair one, and as one engine would be almost useless in supplying the city, I fear the crank must be taken off to be bored out.

"The repairs to the other engines have only been of an ordinary character, as the repairs to them have been delayed in consequence of the clack-valve, now at work, having been required longer in Sydney than was expected.

"The floodgates have been opened at various times, as recorded in my daily returns.

"The whole of the engines have been at work at various periods, and alternately changed as circumstances have necessitated; and during the present quarter two engines have been required to be constantly at work, day and night, and Sundays also, without any intermission, except on one or two occasions for a few hours. This shows that the increased consumption, to which I have referred in several former reports, is still taking place, and to a very great extent, as until the present year we have been always enabled through the winter season to stop altogether on Sundays, and during the week also, for five or six hours on every alternate day, thus affording facilities for carrying out any repairs during those cessations from working the engines; but we have been deprived of that opportunity now, the increased demand not admitting of any stop, even in this winter season, when the consumption would be anticipated to be much reduced; but it is not, as the consumption for the present quarter ending—

"September, 1870, is, 28,374,513 gallons weekly, while in corresponding quarter ending

"September, 1869, was 25,793,873 gallons weekly, compared with

"September, 1864, was 10,559,284 gallons weekly. It would, therefore, appear too self-evident on the face of these figures to require any remarks more convincing, than by contrasting the consumption of the weekly supply for the years 1864 and the present year, showing an increase of nearly three to one—and yet, notwithstanding this immense increase, there has been an abundance of water escape in the sea—the dams being even now, quite full, and a surplus of water still running away, a circumstance that has not occurred since the dams were constructed, that is, to carry us so far in the season with so much water retained, and this fact alone should convince the most sceptical, of the quantity of water that falls upon the water shed—and which, if carefully stored, would give an abundant supply for the city, for many years to come, with the assistance of increased steam-power, at a higher elevation than the present works, and as this increased present supply has been carried out through the retaining capacity afforded by three dams, it does not require a moment's consideration to at once see what a vast supply of water may be obtained by introducing other dams—and additional steam-power at the most advantageous position, as regards elevation, and this must be done and without delay, as there are no means of augmenting our present water supply, but by so doing, as whatever other plans may be discussed for the future supply, a great time must elapse in first settling the locality, and then the financial portion of the difficulty; and during that time, in all probability, the demand will be still increasing, though not perhaps to such an extent as has been the case for the past six years; but if so, without making some preparations for increasing our capabilities—the result will be simply that the demand will increase, but the supply very inadequate for the requirements of the city, either for sanitary or commercial purposes.

"In conclusion I would most respectfully point out, that it behoves all concerned to exercise the most judicious care in husbanding the supply, and in not so extravagantly and wilfully wasting the water as has been of late so frequently proved.

"I have the honour to be, gentlemen, yours most obediently,

"H. WESTCOTT, Mechanical Engineer Sydney Waterworks."

LAND AT THE HAYMARKET.

Alderman OATLEY asked,—"Whether anything had been done with reference to the piece of land at the corner of George and Hay streets, which was granted by the Government to the Corporation for market purposes. A deputation was appointed to wait upon the Government some time ago, but he had not yet heard the result."

The MAYOR said that a letter was received from the Lands Department, at half-past 11 o'clock on Monday morning, in which it was stated that 12 o'clock of the same day had been appointed by the Minister for Lands to receive the deputation. As half an hour was not sufficient time for summoning the aldermen together, the deputation did not wait upon the Minister. Nothing had since been done in reference to the matter.

MOORE PARK.

Alderman OATLEY drew attention to the fact that a large number of sheep were now depasturing upon Moore Park, and were destroying the young grass. As the Corporation intended to make something by the sale of the grass next year, he thought the sheep should now be removed.

The MAYOR said he would see that the sheep were removed.

NEW TOWN HALL.

Alderman OATLEY asked if any other stone than Pyrmont stone was being used in the erection of the new Town-hall: if so, he should like to know from what quarries it was being obtained? He was informed that some of the stone that was being used was bad, and would be liable to shrink and swell with the weather. They were quite sure that the Pyrmont stone was good, and by the specifications the contractors were bound to use nothing else.

The MAYOR said that a very large stone, which was obtained from somewhere near Randwick, had been used but not until it had been certified to by the City Engineer as being in all respects suitable.

Alderman DAY understood that the last contractors applied for permission to use stone from the Glebe Island, which was quite equal to the Pyrmont stone, and that they received permission to use it.

Alderman MACINTOSH thought, as the matter had been broached, it would be well to set it at rest; and, in order that that might be done, he suggested that the City Engineer should be instructed to report upon the matter.

The MAYOR said he had already instructed the City Engineer to inquire into the matter.

GULLY SHAFT.

Alderman MACINTOSH moved,—"That a gully shaft be constructed at the corner of King and George streets, in order that a great nuisance, which now existed, might be done away with."

The motion was agreed to.

STREET GAS-LIGHTS.

Alderman BOWN asked,—"What was the number of gas-lights chargeable upon the city revenue, and whether any application had been made to the Gas Company for a reduction of the rate?"

The MAYOR said the number of gas-lights chargeable upon the city revenue was about 900. No further application had been made to the Gas Company for a reduction of the rates, because on the last reduction the Corporation entered into a contract with the Company for the supply of gas for three years. About twelve months of this time had expired.

Alderman DAY said he had often noticed that the taps of the street lamps were not turned full on. He thought that was a matter that should be inquired into.

The MAYOR promised to make the necessary inquiry.

MILITARY BARRACKS.

Alderman MACINTOSH called the Mayor's attention to the fact that the Military barracks at Paddington were now unoccupied. He thought, as the Corporation had a claim on the land, it would be well that such claim was kept under the notice of the Government, in order that it might be used as a set-off against any claims which the Government might have upon the Corporation. The land was granted by Governor Macquarie for the benefit of the citizens of Sydney. The Corporation ought not to give up their claim to it, although there could be no objection to our own Volunteers using the land and buildings.

EXHIBITION BUILDING.

The TOWN CLERK read a letter from the Secretary of the Agricultural Society, which stated that the society would require the use of the Exhibition building from the 1st to the 15th of October, inclusive.

Alderman MACINTOSH saw no objection to granting the request, upon certain terms.

The MAYOR pointed out that the Agricultural Society had agreed to take the building for two months in the year.

Alderman OATLEY said he was afraid, unless the Council was very careful, and injustice would be done to the citizens. The Corporation were desirous of letting the building for that portion of the year during which it would not be occupied by the Agricultural Society, and any one who took it would of course want to know precisely what portions of the year the society would want it. The society ought either to take it for the two months right off, or take it for a month now, and a month during a later period of the year; but they ought to state what months of the year they would have it.

Alderman BOWN pointed out that it would be impossible to draw up regulations for the letting of the building, unless they knew exactly what months in the year the Agricultural Society would require it.

Alderman BRADFORD said he understood that the Agricultural Society took the building for two consecutive months in the year.

Alderman DAY said he understood that the society were to take the building for two months in the year, but that they were not bound to two consecutive months—they might have it a month now, and another month at another period of the year. He did not think that the granting of another fortnight to the society would interfere much with the letting of the building, as it would take a month to draw up a lease and advertise for tenders. At the same time, he thought the society should inform the Corporation when they required the other fortnight.

Alderman STEEL thought that, before the fortnight asked for was granted, the Corporation ought to be made aware when the other fortnight would be wanted by the society. It would not do to let the society have the building for a day or a week at a time.

Alderman MACINTOSH said that, from the wording of the letter before the Council, one might suppose that the society could occupy the building for a day at a time. If the society were to take it for sixty different days in the years, it would be a dead loss to the Corporation. He thought it would be well for the City Solicitor to explain to the Council what were the terms of the lease.

Alderman OATLEY moved that the matter be referred to the Committee, which would sit next Thursday. He would like to do all he could to further the interests of the Agricultural Society, at the same time keeping in view the interests of the citizens. If the society wanted the building for an extra fortnight, they ought to pay the £250 for it.

Alderman WOODS said that, in dealing with this matter, care must be taken that the lease was not vitiated. He had no objection to give the Agricultural Society a fortnight extra, provided they paid for it. He thought it would be well to have the City Solicitor's opinion. As far as his vote went, the society would not have the building for another fortnight for less than £250. The Corporation had assisted the society as far as it could possibly do, and he would be no party to letting them have the building for less than £250 for the fortnight.

Alderman OATLEY said that as his resolution, if agreed to, would be likely to place the society in a difficulty, he would withdraw it. He moved instead, "That the Town Clerk be instructed ... to write to the Agricultural Society stating that ... they may have the building for another fortnight for £250, such arrangement to be made irrespective altogether of their lease."

Alderman GREEN thought the Agricultural Society ought to have stated whether they considered the fortnight asked for a part of their contract time, or an extra fortnight in the year. He thought some understanding ought to be come to as to the precise periods of the year that the Agricultural Society would require the building.

Mr. DRIVER, in answer to a question by the Mayor, said that Alderman Oatley's motion would not affect the lease in any way.

The motion was then agreed to.

THE STREET ROLLER.

Alderman DAY asked how it was the street roller was not more used than it was. The road through Prince Alfred Park required rolling; the stones were kicked about in all directions.

Mr. Bell (who was called in to answer the question) said the roller had frequently been used on the road in the Park, and had been found very serviceable. Of course it did not bind the metal, and would not do so, unless a quantity of debris was thrown on the surface of the road. The roller did not answer so well on places that had been patched; but when a new road had been formed the roller was found invaluable.

Alderman WOODS said it was a mistake to suppose that the roller could macadamise a road by merely passing over it a few times; it was not expected to do that.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY'S PLANT.

The Town Clerk read a letter from the Exhibition Committee, inquiring whether the Corporation would cause a secure building to be erected at the extreme northern end of Prince Alfred Park, in which flower stands, tables, and other property of the Agricultural Society might be stored. The letter stated that, should the Corporation determine to erect the building, it would be necessary to have it erected within fifteen days from this date.

The MAYOR pointed out that by Act of Parliament the Corporation had only power to build upon a certain portion of the Park, and they had already taken that up.

Alderman WOODS suggested that the Agricultural Society should rent the Exhibition building for the whole year, and make what use of it they liked.

On the motion of Alderman OATLEY it was resolved that a letter be sent to the Exhibition Committee, declining to entertain the proposal.

The Council then rose.

BOROUGH COUNCILS.

WAVERLEY.—This Council held its usual monthly meeting on Tuesday evening, the 6th instant. Present—The Mayor (Mr. R. Yeend), and Aldermen Walter Smith, W. Cary, J. Birrell, J. Macpherson, Dr. Fletcher, S. Dickson, and L. Baglin. The minutes of last monthly meeting were read and confirmed. Correspondence read:—1. From the Colonial Secretary's office, intimating that the new by-laws passed by this Council had been confirmed and duly laid before Parliament, as provided by the Municipalities Act of 1867. 2. From Mr. Charles Logue, requesting the Council to grant permission to erect upon Victoria-street fencing, to be removed whenever required. After some discussion, it was resolved that the subject be referred to the Committee of Works for their report at next meeting. 3. From the Borough Council of Randwick, giving notice of their intention to form and make a portion of Fern-street, and requesting this Council to make or pay to them its proportion of the expense of said work. Upon the motion of Alderman Smith, ordered,—"That the Council clerk be instructed to reply, that inasmuch as the street alluded to was entirely within the proclaimed boundary line of the Randwick Municipality, this Council had no claim or jurisdiction whatever over the road in question. Reports from committees: Alderman Baglin, the chairman of the Improvement Committee, brought up a report recommending that certain repairs be effected to Birrell-street near Cooper-street; and also repairs to other made roads, estimating cost at £30 (thirty pounds). Ordered that report be received. Alderman Macpherson moved the adoption of a report from Finance Committee, recommending payments for labour and other items amounting to £31 10s. 10d. Report adopted. The Treasurer, Alderman Macpherson brought up a report upon the present financial state of the borough, and submitted a plan having for its object the gradual reduction of the Council's liabilities. Upon the motion of Alderman Macpherson, seconded by Alderman Birrell, resolved,—"That the treasurer's report be now received, and that its further consideration stand an order of the day for the next meeting of the Council. Notices of motion: Alderman Birrell moved, seconded by Alderman Fletcher,—"That a call of this Council be made of all the aldermen to meet on Tuesday, the 4th day of October, 1870, at 7 p.m., to take into consideration the repealing of Nos. 25, 28, 29, and 45 of the by-laws published in the Government Gazette of the 28th September, 1868." Question put and negatived. Motion No. 2. Alderman Macpherson moved, seconded by Alderman Cary, —"That the amount estimated by the Improvement Committee for making Smithers-street, viz £25 (twenty-five pounds), be hereby voted by this Council." Question put and carried. Motion No. 3. Upon the motion of Alderman Cary, it was carried unanimously,—"That Alderman William Henderson be elected by this Council a member of the Improvement Committee." No. 4. Resolved, upon the motion of Alderman Baglin,—"That, in accordance with the estimate of the Improvement Committee, the sum of £30 (thirty pounds) be voted for the repair of made roads.—W. MORTIMER, Council Clerk.

WOOLLAHRA.—A meeting of the Council was held on the 23rd August. Present—Aldermen Trickett, Thompson, Nott, Oatley, and Thomas. Alderman Nott was moved to the chair. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The statement of accounts was brought up and read. A petition from Mr. Manuel and a number of the residents of the Watson's Bay township was read. It was moved by Alderman Thomas, seconded by Alderman Tricket, and carried,—"That the petition be received and referred to the Improvement Committee." It was decided by the Committee that, provided a retaining wall is constructed along the beach, that the Council will make an open drain through Mr. Manuel's property, to the Bay. It was moved by Alderman Oatley, seconded by Alderman Thompson, and carried,—"That the report of the Finance Committee, under dates of the 2nd, 9th, 16th, and 23rd instant, be adopted." A letter was read from Mr. Charles T. Norton, with reference to the straying of horses and cows, attended sometimes by boys who amuse themselves by getting on fences and otherwise annoying residents. The Council gave instructions to the bailiff to prevent a continuance of the annoyance. A letter was read from Alderman Ireland, and the request therein contained granted. A letter from Mr. W. H. Cuff, applying for kerbing and guttering on the Old South Head Road, on the usual terms, was read and the request acceded to. A letter was read from the Council Clerk of the Borough of Paddington, with reference to the drainage on the New South Head Road, between the Darling Point and Point Piper Roads. The Council Clerk was directed to reply that the Council are willing to assist in diverting the water, in conjunction with the Commissioners of the Road Trust. A letter was read from Mr. Alexander Dean, Mr. John Frazer's agent, calling the attention of the Council to a nuisance arising from the overflow of a cesspool in the back premises of Mr. Coveny. The Council Clerk was instructed to inform Mr. Coveny that the inspector of nuisances had reported to the Council that the nuisance exists, and that unless the same be removed, the Council will be compelled to take steps to insure its removal. A letter was read from Mr. George Thorne with reference to dangerous explosions in the quarries recently handed over to the control of the Council in conjunction with the Paddington Council, caused by large blasts being made in the rock by men not the servants of the Council, to the injury of the houses adjoining the quarry. The overseer was instructed to prevent the same being continued, and Aldermen Thompson and Nott were requested to wait on the Minister for Lands, to obtain the document necessary to enable the Council to deal with trespassers. A letter was read from Mr. F. O'Brien, asking for permission to land blue metal on the Double Bay jetty for the repair of the Old South Head Road. The Council directed the council clerk to inform Mr. O'Brien that they regret they cannot comply with his request. Alderman Nott gave notice that he would move at the next meeting that the following by-law be passed,—A By-law to Prevent the Obstruction of Traffic upon the Footpaths and Streets of the Borough of Woollahra: "It shall not be lawful for any person to stand or loiter in or upon any street, lane, or footpath within the Borough of Woollahra; and any person offending against this by-law, shall, upon conviction thereof before any two or more Justices of the Peace, forfeit and pay for every such offence any sum not exceeding pounds, or less than shillings." Pursuant to notice, the report of the Improvement Committee, of the 26th July, was brought up and adopted. The Council adjourned.—HENRY STERIKER KILLICK, Council Clerk.

PRODUCE CIRCULARS.

MORT AND CO.—Wool: No public sales were held this week. Sheepskins: At the sale held by us on Thursday, the demand was brisk, and our catalogue, comprising some 20,000 skins, was cleared at prices showing but a comparatively slight reduction on those ruling prior to the arrival of advices per Geelong. Hides were in moderate supply for this morning's sales, and all offered were readily quitted. Extra and medium weights are without much alteration, but light hides were in very bri[...]out decided improvement in price. We d[...] demand, at a catalogue, at from 14s 6d to 23[...]posed of the lots on our Leather: This market exhibits an upward tendency for all descriptions. We obtained 13¼d per lb. for a parcel of harness at [...]; sole, 8¼d to 9½d; calf, 36d to 29d. We have observed that some of the leather sent to this market is not properly dried before dispatch, and that shippers are thereby precluded from operating, as setting aside the loss in weight by the evaporation of moisture, the leather becomes deteriorated on the homeward voyage. Local dealers also complain of the loss in weight on parcels delivered to them in the condition named. Tallow: The improvement noted in our last circular was confirmed at the sales held this afternoon, and the quotations then given may be repeated, viz., £32 to £34; beef, £34 to £35 15s; mutton, £36 10s to £37 10s per ton. Produce Sale.—Leather: 3 rolls brown harness at 13½d, 3 at 13¼d, 2 black at 11d. Hides: 1 at 9s 9d; CL, 6 at 14s 6d; L, 21 at 16s 6d; H, 15 at 18s; Pink Tape, 12 at 14s 3d, 26 at 16s 9d, 21 at 20s 6d, 50 at 10s 6d; Pink Tape, 22 at 21s 9d; 11 at 23s; H, 25 at 21s, 21 at 19s 6d, 13 at 23s 3d, 21 at 20s 6d, 19 at 20s, 18 at 16s. 1 bag hair at 16½d. Tallow: C&L, 3 cases at £31 10s, 1 cask ditto £31 16s; T, 2 at £32 15s, 2 ditto £33 5s; LW over T, 4 at £35, 2 at £35; LA, 2 at £33 10s; T, 8 at £33 5s; C & L, 3 at £35; P in circle, 15 at £35 5s; H, 8 at £35; FWD, 49 (mutton) at £36 15s, 1 at £32 10s; C in diamond, 1 at £33 15s; H, 1 at £33 15s; WL, 2 at £34; 1 at £33 5s. Sheepskins: JL, 2 bags at 3¼d, 43 bundles at 1½d, 18 at 5d; WLS, 2 at 5¼d; C and Co, 8 at 5¼d, 1 lot at 5½d, 4 bundles at 5d, 2 at 4d, 4 at 5¾d, 25 at 5¼d, 1 lot at 5¼d, 1 at 2¼d, 28 bundles at 6d; C&Co, 3 at 2½d; OO, 1 at 4½d, 2 at 4½d, 2 at 5½d, 1 lot at 5¾d; GxB, 2 bundles at 5¼d; BB, 4 at 5¼d; JWL, 5 at 6¼d; BC, 5 at 5½d; Q.S.I.Co., 3 at 5d; WGT, 4 at 6d; HJ, 2 at 6d; WGT, 1 at 6d; CFK, 1 at 6d; EB, 8 at 6d; MMC, 1 at 4¼d, 1 at 5d, 1 lot at 5¼d; XB, 1 bundle at 4¾d, 2 at 5¼d; MOURA, 2 bales at 5¼d; W over G, 6 bundles at 5¼d; GIE, 4 at 5¼d, 9 at 5½d; NH, 8 at 6d; XX, 3 at 5¾d, 1 at 5¾d.—September 6.

IRWIN AND CO.—Wool: There having been no sales at auction during the present week, there is nothing to report. Sheepskins continue in good demand, subject to a reduction to meet decline in the wool market. Prices may be quoted as follows:—Sheepskins, 4d to 7d; pelts, 3d to 4d. Tallow is without alteration since last reported. Prices continue to rule in favour of the vendor. Quotations may be given as follows:—Mutton, 35s to 37s; beef, 32s to 35s; station, 28s to 33s. Hides are in good demand, well flayed and cured being readily taken for tanning on the spot. Quotations are—cured and heavy, 18s. to 24s; small and light, 8s to 12s; inferior, 7s to 10s. Leather: We had the usual attendance of buyers; there was a fair amount of business done. Kip prices are easier—sole and harness firm, bagsides in good request. Prices rule thus—calf, 2s 6d to 3s 3d; kip, 14d to 21d; harness, 10d to 13d, sole, 8d to 10d. Our sales resulted thus: Sheepskins, 1 lot FB, 4¾d; 1 lot RF, 5d; 3 bales, R, 5¾d; lot RF, 4¾d. Leather: 2 bales sole, damaged, 6d; 21 sides, damaged, 8¾d, 22 ditto ditto 8¾d; 116 ditto ditto, 9d, 18 ditto ditto 8½d; 20 ditto ditto, damaged, 7¼d, 1 bale kip 1s 4d, 3 ditto ditto 1s 2d, 4 ditto ditto 1s 2¾d, 4 ditto calf, 3s 0¼, 8 ditto kip 1s 9d, 4 ditto tweed 1s 10d, 1 ditto kangaroo 2s 6½d per lb.; 25 dozen basils, 5s 5d per dozen, 25 ditto ditto 5s 5½d; 1 bale yearling, 1s 5½d; 62 dozen Hobart Town kangaroo, 4s; 18 ditto kip, 1s 7½d, 40 ditto kangaroo, 21s; 24 ditto kip 1s 7½d, 72 ditto kip 1s 7½d. Tallow, 33s 6d.—September 10.

JOHN A. TURNER.—Tallow continues firm, and prices show a slight advance on last week's quotations. All shipping parcels were eagerly purchased for export, while the town trade operated freely on station and broken parcels. Beef, at 32s to 34s 9d; mutton, 35s to 37s; station, 29s to 34s. Hides were in short supply, and keen competition was the result, heavies being still taken for shipment at a shade over 3½d, light and medium going to the tanners at from 3¾d to 5d per lb.; for one lot, a shade under 6d was obtained. Leather: The attendance of buyers was large, and prices realised were highly satisfactory. I catalogued and offered 37 lots, all of which were sold, with the exception of five lots of kip and one of basils. Kip was slightly neglected, manufacturers appearing to be still well supplied. Harness was in good demand, realising 11½d to 12½d; also calf, at 2s 11d to 3s 1½d; sole, at 8½d to 9½d; and bag, at 11s 3d to 14s 6d. Tallow: MW, 1 cask beef at 33s 3d; GH, 2 at 32s 9d; H, 6 at 34s 3d; S, 8 at 32s 9d; W, 4 at 34s 6d; NS, 1 at 32s; A, 2 at 33s 3d; MD, 1 at 33s; JF, 1 ditto station at 31s; CB, 1 at 31s per cwt. Hides: 35 at 17s 9d, 61 at 15s 6d, 17 at 16s 6d, 35 at 15s 6d, 17 at 15s, 40 at 15s 6d, 37 at 15s 3d, 36 at 15s 3d, 8 at 18s 3d, 28 at 15s 3d, 38 at 14s 6d, 1 at 11s 6d, 27 at 14s 6d, 9 at 12s 3d, 23 at 15s 3d, 41 at 17s 6d, 29 at 15s 9d, 31 at 18s, 6 horse hides at 8s 9d, 2 at 5s, 8 at 4s 9d, 3 at 4s, 16 calfskins at 2s 6d, 15 at 2s 6d, 4 at 2s, 5 at 2s 9d, 1 yearling at 8s 3d, 2 at 5s 6d, 3 at 8s 3d each. Leather: 1 roll harness at 12d, 1 ditto ditto black at 11½d, 1 ditto ditto at 12½d, 2 bundles kip at 18½d, 1 ditto at 19¼d, 1 lot sole at 9½d, 2 bales ditto at 8¾d, 3 ditto ditto at 8¾d, 100 sides at 8¾d, 28 ditto ditto at 8¾d, 3 ditto ditto at 9d, 1 roll bridle at 10¾d, 3 bundles calf at 3s, 3 ditto ditto at 2s 11¾d, 4 ditto at 2s 8½d, 2 ditto at 3s 1½d, 1 bale horse butts at 13½d, 1 ditto tweed at 21¼d, 3 bales sole pieces at 5½d, 2 ditto ditto at 7¼d, 12 ditto ditto at 5½d, 2 bales sole at 7¼d, 1 lot bag at 14s 6d, 1 ditto ditto at 11s 6d, 1 bundle yearling at 21¼d, 2 ditto ditto kip, damaged, at 11½d, 1 ditto ditto at 13d per lb.—September 9.

STOCK AND STATION CIRCULARS.

G. M. PITT.—Fat Cattle: A short supply came forward this week, and prices have again advanced, best cattle bringing from £6 to £7, or about 20s a 100 lbs. I do not think present prices can be maintained, as the sheep market is so fully supplied, and this will, no doubt, have an effect on coming sales. The prize cattle offered on Monday did not sell as well as was expected, and owners must feel disappointed in not realising a price sufficient to pay them for the trouble and expense they had been put to. My sales have been—18 prize cattle, Sloper Cox's, at £10 10s per head; 167 head, E. Vickery's, at £6; 33 Buchanan's, at £5 13s 9d. Fat Sheep: Market fully supplied, and prices have given way from 6d to 1s a head. The quality of those offered has been very good, but still they are difficult to dispose of except at the reduction noted above; buyers preferring to purchase an inferior article at a less price. 56-lb. wethers are not worth more than 11s. My sales have been—1314 ewes, Lamb and Traill's, at 6s 10d; 243 wethers, at 12s; 451 ditto, at 11s 6d; 328 wethers, Lawson's, at 10s 10d; 937 ewes, ditto, at 8s.—September 9.

DAWSON AND CO.—Fat Cattle: The supply to hand this week is short of the demand, and prices may be quoted at fully 15s per head in advance of those quoted last week. Fat Sheep: Market is fully supplied, but there is a scarcity of really prime sheep, which sell at full rates. We quote 50 lb. to 56 lb. wethers as being worth from 10s to 11s 6d, and we have sold a small flock of fat ewes, for Mr. W. Graham, at an average of 7s 6d. Store Cattle are very much inquired for in all directions, and all those at present on our books are under offer. We shall be glad to receive advices of lots for sale, which we could place at top prices. Store Sheep: The shearing season prevents any sales being made. Stations: A good many inquiries have been made, for cattle stations more especially, but we have no sales to report this week. Horses: Market is good for first-class broken and unbroken colts, and we anticipate an increased demand shortly. General Business: Throughout the town all business transactions have been much impeded in consequence of the races and the Exhibition, and the most notable sales have been those of thoroughbred stock, of which full reports have been published.—September 9.

HARRISON, JONES, AND DEVLIN.—Stations: The past week has been very dull as regards station properties; but few inquiries, and no business done. Fat Cattle: A very short supply has caused prices to advance about 20s per head on the prime qualities, and a corresponding figure on the other descriptions. Only about 400 head were passed through the yards. 147 head prime averaged £5 11s 4d; 190 head, also prime, £6. Fat Sheep: These have been in rather heavy supply, causing a reduction in prices. Prime wethers, say 60 lbs., are worth 11s to 11s 6d; 50 lbs., 9s 6d to 10s. We sold 646 wethers on account of Mr. G. Loder, at 9s 6d to 10s; and on account of the same gentleman, from the Exhibition, 1 Southdown ewe at £2 1s, 6 ditto wethers at £1, 2 ditto ditto at £1 1s, 3 ditto ditto at 17s. Store Cattle: The demand is likely to continue unabated for some time to come, owing to the very limited number offering, and the abundance of feed on the fattening stations, most of which could take stores if procurable. We hope to report some sales in our next. We sold, on account of Mr. G. Loder, the bull "Orphan" 32 guineas, and the bull "Curley" 28 guineas. Store Sheep: None offering at this time of the year. Quotations are only nominal, as no sales are taking place by which to adjust them.—September 9.

GEORGE KISS.—A good deal of business has been done in thoroughbred stock this week. On the Exhibition ground, on Monday, the following lots were disposed of:—On account of Thomas Lee, Esq.: Baronet, a roan bull, for 41 guineas; Pippin, a roan bull, for 37 guineas; Hero, a roan bull, 58 guineas; Wildman, a roan bull, 41 guineas; Duke, a roan bull, 45 guineas; and Boss, a roan bull, 41 guineas. On account of W. Curtis, Esq.: A child's pony for £11 10s. At the Bazaar, on Wednesday, the following lots were sold:—Rioter, the property of B. Richards, Esq., for 106 guineas; Young Stirlingshire Jock, for 80 guineas; Young Draymam, for 75 guineas; a carriage pair, for 40 guineas. And, on account of T. Lee, Esq.: Warroo, a roan bull, for 34 guineas; Fop, a roan bull, for 24 guineas; Chieftain, a white bull, for 41 guineas; and Snowball, a white bull, for 84 guineas. A number of town hacks and harness horses were also quitted at prices ranging from £5 to £20. Unbroken Stock.—On Wednesday, at Camperdown, a mob of light horses sold at from £1 to £4 5s.—September 9.

WANT AND SIMPSON.—Stations: We have had several inquiries this week for good cattle stations, but holders of fattening runs are not disposed to sell unless at extreme rates. Sheep stations under fencing are also very salable, more especially where there is no grass seed to contend with. Fat Cattle: Short supply during the week, and prices have improved. We quote best pens worth £6 to £6 15s; fair to good, £5 5s to £5 10s. Fat Sheep are very scarce, any prime lots are eagerly sought after. We quote prime 60-lb. wedders, worth 13s; 56-lb., 11s; 48-lb., 9s. Store Cattle: Many inquiries for all bullocks, but they can only be obtained in small lots, and those from 3 to 6 years old delivered North are worth 60s; and South, say Dubbo, 70s to 75s; dry and speyed cows, 45s to 50s North, and 55s to 60s at Dubbo. Store Sheep: There are a good many buyers in the market for store wedders, but holders are not anxious to sell till after shearing, when we expect large numbers will be offered. We quote wedders, 3 to 4 years old, worth 6s 6d to 6s 9d North, and on Liverpool Plains 7s to 7s 3d; ewes for fattening, say from 4 to 5 years old, are worth, in wool, 5s 6d to 6s, but much depends on place of delivery.—September 9.

BEECHER ON THE DEATH OF DICKENS

HENRY Ward Beecher, in an address on the death of Dickens, pays this beautiful tribute to the memory of the great novelist:—

Compare him with such writers as Bulwer and Byron, men of that standing, and you feel just as much that he was not on that side. He was not a producer of morbid feeling. He did not generate selfishness or pride, and certainly not tendencies toward licence and dissipation. All his writings brace up manhood in truth and honour and purity and virtue, and throughout they are noble. There may be exaggerations of caricature, but the generic influence of his writings is to make manhood purer and truer. It is to make the intercourse of men with their fellow men more genial and more humane; it is to make the household purer, and brighter and sweeter. There can be no question that this is the general tendency of all his writings. I do not believe there is a line to be found which either by design, or in fact, will tend to produce licentiousness or laxity. On the single question of drink I should make an exception. Neither by preaching nor by practice did he stand on the advanced ground on that subject of many advanced men of the world. He represents the old school—and I hope the school is passing away—of moral men in England on that subject, who have treated it contemptuously and made it ridiculous by caricature. But in respect to the other good things I have mentioned there can be no question that he has been a benefactor of his race. And though he has not worked in the highest sphere in the spiritual element of the race, God has gifted him with no mean talent, and given him a success that has been seldom vouchsafed to any; not in my memory to any as to Charles Dickens. I doubt if his works that he has left behind him will be as much read in another generation as they have been now; but there can be no question that where ameliorations in the procedure of society are traced back to their sources it will be found that God raised him up and employed him in no mean degree to produce reformation and elevation in the middle elements of human welfare. I recollect his saying to me, in the rooms adjoining here, that those schools, such as Mr. Squeer's school, in which Nicholas Nickelby was not educated—speaking to me on the night that he was reading from that subject, he said in a modest way, that since this was written those schools had disappeared from England. The exposure was the means of awakening public attention to them, and that kind of secret, hidden institutions of torment for young people, as they might be called, were almost destroyed by the light he let upon them. His work "Bleak House" produced a powerful effect upon the whole English mind in regard to the perversions of justice in the English Courts. It produced much acrimonious feeling in England against him, but, after all, worked good. These are but instances. There are a great many things in his writings in which—we do not understand why—he takes hold with a powerful grasp. While the question of this spiritual work is a question that perhaps we must not decide—certainly are not authorised to decide it, and rank him among the highest nature—we cannot withhold from him, and cannot be too grateful to God for the fact, that he was raised up in a lower sphere to do a greatly needed work, which he did well. He has passed off the stage as one, I think, might wish to die. One moment in the full enjoyment of his faculties and in the next moment gone. I still cling to that heresy prayed against in the Episcopal prayer-book, "Deliver me from sudden death." I should never pray that God would keep me from sudden death. I don't want to be like an old harness tied up with tow strings and breaking—always up for repairs, and always good for nothing. He has gone at the full of life. Every year must have let down the tone of his mind and his work. He has died at the right time for himself, and died at the right time for the world. He had done his work, and such as he had done he had done well. For one, I thank God for the life and work of Charles Dickens, although I do not regard him of the highest. I do not think it necessary that a man should work at the highest in order to be ranked among the noblest and best of men. I will say that it will always be a pleasing thing to me to think that he spoke in our church, used it for his readings. I received a message from him referring to the talk about building a new church saying:—"Tell Mr. Beecher never to build another church. This is perfect; he will probably never get another one"—as a speaking room he meant. I received from him a most cordial reception. He invited me in a manner to be remembered whenever I came to England, to visit him, at his house, promising to entertain me as his guest. These things, now that he is gone, have assumed a pleasing aspect. The most gratifying circumstance in my life was the kiss that Louis Kossuth gave me in the old seat that used to be there (pointing to one side of the room), when, after the great meeting in our church, he put his arms around me and told me I had the love of a true man. Not long after that I saw the great English writer Landor, who said that no king could bestow any honour upon him now, for Kossuth had embraced him. He was at the top, he felt. But when Mr. Dickens received me with such kindness and cordiality, I felt that it was a pleasing passage in my life, and I look back to it, now that he has gone, as one that gathers interest, and I shall treasure it as a very pleasant remembrance.

NAVAL REPORTS ON WOLLONGONG COAL.
H.M.S. Challenger, At Sydney, 23rd May, 1868.
Sir,—In compliance with your request, I beg to inform you that, after various trials of the Osborne Wallsend coal, in her Majesty's ships, the Chief Engineers report favourably on it, and state that for small tubes with which the boilers are fitted it is much preferable to the northern coal.
I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,
ROWLEY LAMBERT,
Commodore and Senior Officer.
To Thomas Hale, Esq., Osborne Wallsend Coal Company.

H.M.S. Challenger, At Sydney, September 14th, 1868.
Sir,—With reference to your letter of the 27th March last, I beg to acquaint you that I have received from Captain H. R. H. the Duke of Edinburgh, K.G., H.M.S. Galatea, a report on the quality of the Illawarra coal received on board that ship, which is most satisfactory.
I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,
ROWLEY LAMBERT,
Commodore and Senior Officer.
To Thomas Hale, Esq., Osborne Wallsend Coal Company, Sydney.

Extracts from Reports on WOLLONGONG COAL.
CHALLENGER.—Wollongong coal requires more draught and more time to get up steam, but burns with a bright red heat, making little soot and smoke, and scarcely any clinker, but about 5 per cent. more ash than Newcastle coal, a fine white ash easily shaken through the bars. It does not burn the bars nor choke up the small tubes as soon as Newcastle coal, it is similar in nature and structure to Welsh coal.
BRISK.—The Illawarra coal appears decidedly to be the best suited for boilers with small tubes, although it makes a larger per-centage of ash.
CHARYBDIS.—Wollongong coal creates much less smoke, clinker, and soot, and the same speed is obtained with a saving of 10 per cent. in the consumption.
GALATEA.—I am of opinion that when not required to burn over 8·5 lbs. per nominal horse-power per hour, this coal is little inferior to ordinary Welsh coal, and most decidedly superior to the Newcastle N. S. W. coal, in all respects but one, that of generating steam quickly for a few hours.
VIRAGO.—The Osborne Wallsend coal possesses the following advantages over that of other coal received, viz., about one half the deposit of soot in the tubes, much less smoke, and a greater distance obtained per ton of coal. No clinker is formed, which is a great saving of labour, and the ship can be kept under steam without sweeping tubes for a longer period by one-third than with any other coal received. With slow combustion the per-centage of ash is about 5.
True extracts,
FRED. W. PONSONBY, Naval Secretary.
15th October, 1868.
To Thomas Hale, Esq., Osborne Wallsend and Illawarra Coal Companies, 3, Exchange, Sydney.

FOR POSITIVELY UNRESERVED SALE.

THE MORUYA SILVER MINE.

114 Acres 37 Perches of
FREEHOLD LAND,
situated on the Moruya River, and 160 Acres of LEASEHOLD LAND,
situated one mile from the Wauban Creek, 3 miles from the township of Moruya, and within 1 mile from water carriage; together with all the Mining Plant, Buildings, Machinery, Tools, Gear, and requisites for carrying on the mine.

Title unquestionable; for particulars of which apply to Messrs. WANT, SON, and JOHNSON, Solicitors, Pitt-street.

Terms at Sale.

WANT and SIMPSON have received instructions from the Directors of the Moruya Silver Mining Company to sell by public auction, at their Sale Rooms, The Pastoral Exchange, No. 271, George-street, at 11 o'clock, on MONDAY, the 24th October,
That valuable and extensive mineral property known as THE MORUYA MINE,
situated as above, being only ABOUT 3 MILES from the township of MORUYA, and having the advantage of close proximity to WATER CARRIAGE,
at a very moderate cost, to Sydney, for all ores that may be raised for shipment to England or elsewhere.
The land presents peculiar advantages for the ERECTION of FURNACES, which would thus enable the purchaser to reduce the ores on the spot, and at VERY MODERATE COST,
from the fact that abundance of timber is upon the Company's land.
With the MORUYA SILVER MINE will be sold all the MACHINERY and PLANT now upon the ground, consisting of a first-class WINDING and PUMPING ENGINE of 20-horse power, made by Messrs. P. N. RUSSELL and CO., with boiler and all fittings complete, and in the most perfect order; and PUMP WORK, MINING, and BLACKSMITHS' TOOLS, FORGES, and every requisite for carrying on the operations without delay, and with only such outlay as may be necessary to start the works; together with the BUILDINGS, HUTS, WORKSHOPS, &c., &c.
The ASSAYS OF THE ORES, made by the Branch of the Royal Mint here, and other assayists, have shown that they contain precious metals as follows, varying thus:
GOLD, from ¾ths to 2 ounces to the ton of ore
SILVER, from 9 to 142 ounces to the ton of ore; besides
LEAD, from 3 to 33 per cent.
THREE SHIPMENTS of ores, consigned to Messrs. Johnson, Matthey, and Co., of London, gave the following returns:—
SILVER, from 9 to 29 ounces to the ton of ore
GOLD, from ¾ths to 2 ounces to the ton of ore.
THE LODE has been traced and opened in several places along its course. It is known to extend from north to south of the Company's Leasehold Land, and according to the report last received from the Mining Captain, its extent in width is from 1 to 3 feet.
A large portion of the open ground is ready for stoping, and a very large quantity of ores can be raised at very trifling cost.
SEVERAL RICH REEFS are known to exist upon the land, but have not yet been properly tested.
A GOOD FIELD now presents itself for investment by any company possessed of MODERATE CAPITAL to carry on the works already commenced, the chief difficulties having been overcome, and there is a FINE PLANT and MACHINERY on the ground to recommence the working of the Mine.
☞ The Auctioneers particularly invite the attention of SPECULATORS, CAPITALISTS, and OTHERS who may be desirous of investing in this kind of property, and acquiring a MOST VALUABLE MINE, to the amount that has been expended in opening it up, and bringing the whole into thorough working order, so that operations may be resumed forthwith.
The sole object in selling is the insufficiency of capital to continue working, that subscribed by the shareholders having been exhausted.
AN INVENTORY of the whole of the MACHINERY, PLANT, TOOLS, &c., may be seen at the Rooms of the Auctioneers.

POSITIVE SALE.

SNUG CITY FREEHOLD,
GORDON-STREET, OFF BURTON-STREET,
WOOLLOOMOOLOO.

also,
A Shop and Dwelling House at the corner of James and Washington streets, built of brick on stone foundations, containing on the ground floor, shop and 2 rooms, with 2 rooms above, and kitchen attached, now let at 14s week.

☞ In offering these truly valuable city freeholds for public competition, RAYNES, TREEVE, and CO. desire to point out a few of the advantages which this sale offers. The proximity of the property to the harbour, and to several of the leading manufactories, ensuring constant tenancy of the best character.
The faithful construction of the buildings—evidenced by the state of repair in which they now are, and the good drainage and well-made street to which the houses front.
THE PROPERTY is in the market for POSITIVE SALE, the mortgagees having determined to realise. To those who are in quest of REALLY GOOD CITY FREEHOLDS, the present opportunity offers a chance not likely to recur. Personal inspection is courted, as the auctioneers are convinced that the better this property is known the more it will be appreciated.

FOR POSITIVE SALE.

BY ORDER OF THE MORTGAGEES,
with the consent of the Executors of the late Mrs. Louisa Hanslow.

LOT 2.—That choice allotment adjoining the above, having 27 feet frontage, more or less, to Cleveland-street, by a depth of 90 feet, more or less, to a reserved lane.

 This really sterling property is now in the market for POSITIVE SALE, in consequence of the death of the owner, and the Auctioneers would particularly direct the attention of those in search of a really paying investment to this sale, feeling sure that it will fully equal the description given by them when inspected by intending purchasers.

Preliminary Notice.

SPLENDID CITY PROPERTY.

MARGARET-PLACE, SUSSEX-STREET.

THAT SUBSTANTIAL and WELL-BUILT BRICK and STONE DWELLING-HOUSE, No. 13, now in the occupation of Mrs. RUSSELL; and THAT LARGE BLOCK of LAND adjoining, with the sheds thereon, now in the occupation of Mr. SMITH, as subdivided into 5 ALLOTMENTS.

TITLE—Apply to Messrs. FITZHARDINGE and SON, Solicitors, King-street.
Terms at Sale.

RAYNES, TREEVE, and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at MORT'S ROOMS, Pitt-street, on WEDNESDAY, 28th September,
That very valuable block of city freehold property situate in MARGARET-PLACE, SUSSEX-STREET,
close to the A. S. N. Co.'s Wharf, comprising,
LOT 1. An allotment of land having 36 feet, more or less, frontage to Margaret-place by a depth of about 97 feet, on which is erected that substantial and compact dwelling-house, No. 13, built of stone basement, with brick superstructure, and containing—on the basement, kitchen, bedroom, and cellar; on the first floor, four good rooms and two attic rooms above, with side entrance to a large yard at the rear.
 This house is now in the occupation of Mrs. Russell.
LOT 2.—All that block of land adjoining Lot 1, having a frontage of 90 FEET, more or less, to MARGARET-PLACE, by a depth of 97 feet 6 inches, more or less, as subdivided into FIVE CHOICE CITY ALLOTMENTS, each having a frontage of about 17 feet, more or less, with a back entrance.
 This property is bounded by the properties of Messrs. Raphael, Day, &c., and is within a few feet of Sussex-street, and close to the entrance of the A. S. N. Co.'s Wharf.

☞ In bringing this property under the notice of the public, the auctioneers desire to impress their conviction on intending purchasers of its sterling character. In the heart of the busiest part of the city, a better position cannot be found for business purposes; whilst the great depth of the allotments affords opportunity for extensive storage or yard accommodation.
The property being in the market for BONA FIDE SALE, the public may with confidence inspect it prior to the sale, and select the lots which may be most suitable to their respective requirements.
PLANS on view at Mort's Rooms.

CHOICE FREEHOLD PROPERTY.

DOWNSHIRE-PLACE, PADDINGTON.
THREE 2-STORY HOUSES, with verandahs and balconies.

TITLE unquestionable. TERMS at sale.

RAYNES, TREEVE, and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at Mort's Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 21st September,
That choice freehold property, situate in the best part of Paddington, and known as DOWNSHIRE-PLACE,
comprising a block of three 2-story brick houses, on stone foundations, with slated roofs, containing each passage, and 6 rooms, with balcony and verandah, and garden in front; at the rear are convenient out-offices and yard.

☞ This is a really compact and substantially built freehold, in an excellent position, the omnibuses passing every seven minutes. It is well worth the attention of those who, desiring to obtain a sure investment for the present, look beyond this for prospective profit. The rapid increase of buildings in the neighbourhood must inevitably give a value to properties situated as this—on the MAIN THOROUGHFARE, and it is not difficult to foresee that the position of this property commands all the advantages which are certain to accrue from the large increase of population and traffic so noticeable in this locality.

PEREMPTORY SALE.

SPLENDID CORNER BLOCKS.

TITLE—Lands Title Act.

TERMS—Liberal.

RAYNES, TREEVE, and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at Mort's Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 14th September,
The residue of the unsold portion of
THE SOUTH SYDNEY ESTATE.

☞ The limits of an advertisement preclude the possibility of placing before the public the important advantages which are offered in this most attractive sale. The auctioneers can only direct attention to a few of the salient points, and urge upon the attention of the public the opportunity now offered of securing fine building sites.
SOUTH SYDNEY adjoins the city, commencing at the corner of the Newtown Road with Cleveland-street, close to the omnibus stand, in Parramatta-street, and is surrounded by the reserves which form
THE PUBLIC RECREATION GROUND.
From its elevation, commanding views of the city and surrounding country are obtained, and the position is not to be surpassed by any in the city.

Adjoining the above, a 2-story House, containing passage, 2 rooms on ground floor, 2 rooms on first floor, and 2 attics, with 2 kitchens on basement. These houses have verandah and balconies.

TITLE.—Apply to Messrs. Norton and Barker, Solicitors, Elizabeth-street.
Terms at sale.

RAYNES, TREEVE, and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at MORT'S ROOMS, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 14th September.
LOT 1.—Those 2 choice cottage residences, situated at the north side of Harnett-street, Woolloomooloo, between Duke and Brougham streets, built most substantially of stone, with shingled roofs.
LOT 2.—2 two-story houses adjoining lot 1, built in a most substantial manner of stone, with slated roofs, and containing each passage, 4 rooms and 2 attics, with kitchen and servant's rooms.
☞ This is a really well-built property, and being now in the market for POSITIVE SALE, should command the attention of any one on the look out for a PERMANENT and SAFE INVESTMENT, whilst its proximity to the Circular Quay, in Woolloomooloo Bay, cannot fail to enhance its value.

BY ORDER OF THE MORTGAGEES.

BATHURST-STREET, near the Wharf, immediately in the proximity of the Messrs. P. N. Russell and Co., Mather and Co., and Seamer and Robertson's Manufactories, THAT LARGE BLOCK OF LAND, well known as WHITTELL'S COAL YARD, having a frontage of 182 FEET, more or less, to Bathurst-street, and now subdivided into 11 BUILDING ALLOTMENTS.

Title.—Apply to Messrs. Norton and Barker, Solicitors, Elizabeth-street.

Terms at sale.

RAYNES, TREEVE, and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at MORT'S ROOMS, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 14th SEPTEMBER,
All that valuable block of land situate in BATHURST-STREET,
having a frontage of 182 FEET, more or less, to that street, and subdivided into 11 CHOICE ALLOTMENTS, each having a frontage of 16 feet, more or less, by a depth of 52 feet, more or less, to a lane.

☞ These are capital building sites, in a first-rate position, and being in the market for POSITIVE SALE, are well worth the attention of the public. Their proximity to the harbour and to the large manufactories in the immediate vicinity, as also the prospective value from the formation of the new Circular Wharf, are features which should be regarded favourably by intending purchasers.
PLAN on view at the Rooms.

POSITIVE SALE.

VALUABLE CITY PROPERTY,
situate in
ELIZABETH-STREET, opposite Randle-street, close to THE EXHIBITION, ALFRED PARK, and BELMORE GARDENS.

LOT 1. THE RISING SUN INN, with the RACQUET COURT and Dwelling-house adjoining, situate in ELIZABETH-STREET, immediately opposite Randle-street.
LOT 2. The adjoining Property, comprising SHOP and DWELLING-HOUSE, fronting ELIZABETH-STREET, and TWO THREE-ROOM HOUSES at the rear.

TITLES unquestionable. TERMS at sale.

RAYNES, TREEVE, and CO. have received instructions from the Proprietor, Mr. SHINE, to sell by public auction, at MORT'S ROOMS, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 21st September,
The following valuable City Properties,
LOT 1.—The residue of 99 years' lease, having about 94 years to run (subject to a ground rent of £15 per annum), of all that block of land, situate in Elizabeth-street, opposite Randle-street, having a frontage of 30 feet to Elizabeth-street by a depth of 120 feet, on which are erected those substantial and faithfully built premises,
THE RISING SUN INN,
built of brick on stone foundations, with shingled roof, containing bar, with engine, counter, and fittings; bar parlour, sitting-room, and 4 bedrooms; with kitchen attached. The yard is enclosed by brick wall, and the premises throughout are in good order.
The Rising Sun is now licensed to Mr. Shine, is in full trade, and is weekly increasing in importance. Adjoining, on the south side, is a very SUBSTANTIAL 2-STORY HOUSE, built of brick on stone foundations, containing 4 rooms and kitchen, now in the occupation of Mr. Denlan.
At the rear of these is
THE BALL AND RACQUET COURT, which of its kind is unique, and
THE ONLY ONE IN THE CITY,
in length 57 feet, in breadth 30 feet, enclosed by a substantial brick wall of 24 feet in height, strengthened by buttresses. The floor has been laid with the greatest care (by those who had the fullest knowledge of what was required) with tiling, and is well covered with cement; at one end is the gallery with accommodation for 200 visitors.
☞ No care nor expense has been spared to render this property complete; its position close to the RAILWAY WORKS and to the EXHIBITION, situate between the ALFRED PARK and BELMORE GARDENS, command for it at all times a large trade, and which at such a season as this, from its proximity to the Exhibition, is increased to an overflowing business. In addition to this is the established fact that the success of the Racquet Court is so complete a matter of fact as to justify the statement of those well qualified to judge, that a rapid fortune may be acquired by any one able to manage the business. The house adjoining is so constructed as to be readily connected with the Inn, thus providing accommodation for travellers.
LOT 2.—The residue of 99 years' lease, having about 95 years to run (subject to a ground rent of £15 per annum) of all that block of land situate in ELIZABETH-STREET, ADJOINING LOT 1, having a frontage of 30 feet to Elizabeth-street, by a depth of 120 feet, on which are erected, fronting Elizabeth-street, the substantial premises adjoining the Rising Sun, built of brick, on stone foundations, with shingled roof, containing shop, 6 rooms, and kitchen, now in the occupation of Mr. M. Hodgekiss; adjoining this is a 2-story house, built of brick, on stone foundations, with shingled roof, containing 4 rooms and kitchen. At the rear of this allotment are 2 Brick Cottages, each containing 3 rooms.

☞ In bringing these properties into the market, for bona fide sale, the Auctioneers desire to impress the public with the conviction, that in the present dearth of securities available for investment, an opportunity is now offered which should not be lost. The properties are all in good order and well situated; they command constant tenancy, and as the proprietor has determined to realise, without doubt they will be found REMUNERATIVE INVESTMENTS.

TWO 60-Acre Farms, in the beautiful District of the KURRYJONG.

TITLE unquestionable. TERMS at Sale.

RAYNES, TREEVE, and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at MORT'S ROOMS, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 28th September,
Those 2 CHOICE FARMS, each containing 60 acres, more or less, situate at the KURRYJONG, and well known as the early selection of Messrs. John and James Prendergast.
☞ The auctioneers would direct the especial attention of those in search of a retreat from the enervating heat of the city to the sale of these really valuable farms, situate in the midst of the grand and romantic scenery of the famed district of the KURRYJONG; they combine all the essentials for restoring health to the invalid, whilst their proximity to Sydney, with the easy access now existing, places them within reach of the business-man, who, by a small outlay, might secure a summer retreat for himself and family at a very small cost. The land is of excellent quality, and has an abundance of the finest timber growing on it, and the instructions are POSITIVE to effect a sale, in order to close a trust estate.

PEREMPTORY SALE.

BUCKLAND-STREET, WATERLOO.

LOT 1.—Brick Shop and Dwelling-house, corner of Garden and Buckland streets
LOT 2.—Three Brick Cottages, each containing two rooms and kitchen.
TITLE—99 years' Lease. TERMS at Sale.

RAYNES, TREEVE, and CO. have received instructions from Mr. PENELUMA to sell by public auction, at MORT'S ROOMS, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 28th September, the following leasehold properties:—
LOT 1.—All that allotment of land, situate at the junction of Garden and Buckland streets, Waterloo, having a frontage of 23 feet, more or less, on which is erected a new and substantially-built shop and dwelling-house, of brick on stone foundations, with shingled roof, cemented, containing shop, 3 rooms, and kitchen, now in the occupation of Mr. Peneluma.
LOT 2.—All that allotment of land adjoining Lot 1, having a frontage of 38 feet, more or less, on which are erected three cottages, built of brick, with shingled roofs, each containing 2 rooms and kitchen, with flagged verandah, and GOOD WELL OF WATER.
☞ These are remarkably well-built snug properties; they are quite new, and can be confidently recommended as good investments. The terms of payment, if required, may be made very easy.

Valuable Cattle Property.

MORT and CO. are favoured with instructions to sell by public auction, at their Sale Rooms, Circular Quay, on TUESDAY, 13th September, at half-past 11 o'clock,
That VALUABLE STATION PROPERTY IN QUEENSLAND, known as DOTSWOOD AND ERIDGE, comprising an estimated area of over 600 square miles, with a frontage to the Burdekin, Star, and Oxabar Rivers (both sides) of over 230 miles, all being permanent streams.
The stations are situated about 30 miles from the seaport of Townsville, Cleveland Bay, one of the depots for the Sydney steamers, where there are also a telegraph office, bank, numerous stores and hotels, and an extensive boiling-down establishment.
The estimated capabilities of these runs are from 35,000 to 40,000 head of cattle in all seasons, but the stock now on them consists only of from 6000 to 7000 head of cattle, mixed ages and sexes
80 horses, broken
30 ditto, unbroken,
Cart and thoroughbred entires, from Melbourne
20 pure bulls, from Melbourne
50 pure bulls, bred by Bundock and Barnes, more or less; the whole being well-bred and quiet, especially the bulls from Melbourne, which are the progeny of Lord Sale and Butterfly.
The stations are abundantly grassed and watered, and composed of beautiful undulating country, with great quantity of salt bush, and rich herbage extending over nearly two-thirds of the whole property.
The improvements are very substantial and complete, comprising good cottages with verandahs, good stores, kitchens, log huts, horse yards, milking yards, cultivation paddocks, large horse paddocks, one of the best stockyards in the colony, well put up and complete in every way, having several gates, a speying bale, and all modern improvements, capable of working 15,000 head of cattle, with the use of the out-station, tailing paddocks, &c., garden, well, and a set of pots sufficiently large to boil down all outsiders brought home from neighbouring stations, with every convenience for refining and packing the tallow.
These stations are admirably adapted for fattening cattle, for curing or boiling-down, the distance from a shipping port, where steamers ply regularly, being so trifling that carriage is an item of no importance whatever. The last lot of cattle boiled down, consisting of over 200 head, realised an average price of £6; and a second lot, comprising all stags and stragglers, 88s., so that there are no useless old cattle on the station. There is also a local consumption for fat stock at fair prices.
Independent of the licensed country, there is a great quantity of back country on some of the runs that is nearly useless to any one except the owners of the above-mentioned runs.
These stations are in every respect worth the attention of persons in search of a valuable station property. Any further information required may be ascertained on application to
MORT and CO.

North Kennedy District.
QUEENSLAND.

MORT and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at their Sale Rooms, Circular Quay, on TUESDAY, the 13th September, at half-past 11 o'clock,
THAT REALLY FIRST-CLASS CATTLE STATION, "HILLGROVE," together with 500 head, more or less, QUIET WELL-BRED CATTLE.
Hillgrove, situate on the west bank of the Burdekin River and distant say 90 miles from the shipping port Townsville, Cleveland Bay, consists of 194 square miles of excellent cattle country, beautifully watered by small creeks, leading into the larger or main creeks and waterholes, and capable of carrying from eight to ten thousand head of cattle. The leading features of the run are rich black soil plains, belts of scrub abounding in SALT BUSH, and open forest, of which the timber is principally bloodwood, ironbark, and box.
Adjoining the well known Dotswood Cattle Station, now in the market for sale, it offers unusual facilities for fattening or stocking-up to small or large capitalists. The IMPROVEMENTS consist of a six-roomed Cottage, with verandah, floored and shingled; a kitchen and laundry; milking and killing yard; a large woolshed and lever wool press; a paddock securely fenced in of 130 acres; stockyard, tailing yard, and stockmen's hut; 13 sheep-station huts, and yards, and a good supply of hurdles for lambing.
For further particulars apply to
MORT and CO.

SOUTH KENNEDY DISTRICT, QUEENSLAND.

MORT and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at their Sale Rooms, Circular Quay, on TUESDAY, the 13th September, at half-past 11 o'clock,
That superior cattle station, known as ST. ANN'S, comprising an area of about 500 square miles, with a frontage of over 75 miles to the Suttor River, both sides, and considered capable of carrying about 15,600 head of cattle, the stock now on it consisting of about 4000 to 5000 head of well-bred quiet CATTLE, mixed sexes and ages, and 45 HORSES.
The improvements comprise a first-class homestead, huts, paddocks, new stockyards, and all necessary working plant.
The run is 127 miles south-west from Port Denison, on the road to the Cape River Diggings, where a ready sale is found for fat stock, and where there is every probability of a large population assembling before long in consequence of the rich yields from the quartz.
The numerous advantages offered to squatters in Queensland render it at present the most desirable colony for investing in station property, and the auctioneers, therefore, with confidence recommend this valuable station to intending purchasers.
All further information can be obtained by applying to

PICTURESQUE HANDSOME VILLA
WITH GROUNDS,
DOUBLE BAY,
the residence and property of
F. B. MILLER, Esq.,

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from F. B. Miller, Esq., in consequence of his immediate removal to Melbourne, to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 16th September,
at 11 o'clock,
A remarkably handsome
GOTHIC VILLA AND GROUNDS,
the latter containing an area of upwards of 1 acre, extending to high water frontage to Double Bay.
The RESIDENCE is built of stone, and contains 8 rooms, kitchen, laundry, &c., with stables, coachhouse, &c.
The GROUNDS, upwards of 1 acre in extent, are laid out in shrubbery, flower-garden, and lawn, extending to the beach of Double Bay. They are very beautiful, considerable taste being displayed in their formation. No expense has been spared in planting with choice trees and shrubs, and the general design is remarkably pretty and attractive.
The residence is approached by an avenue and drive, and in front is a smooth lawn interspersed with lovely parterres, and gradually sloping to the white sandy beach of the placid bay, where it is protected by a substantial sea wall, securely piled.
The premises are well finished throughout, and fitted with every convenience and comfort required by a small family. The site occupies the centre of Double Bay, has a northern aspect, and commands magnificent harbour scenery.
☞ The proprietor's removal to Melbourne necessitates an absolute sale, and the auctioneers therefore specially direct attention to the favourable opportunity afforded for securing one of the most picturesque waterside residences in Double Bay.
PLAN and LITHOGRAPHIC VIEWS can be inspected at the Rooms, where also CARDS TO VIEW may be obtained.
TITLE.—Point Piper Estate, leasehold. Full particulars can be obtained on application to Messrs. Pigott and Trickett, solicitors, King-street.

UNRESERVED SALE.

FRIDAY, 16th SEPTEMBER.

IMPORTANT CITY INVESTMENT,
HUNTER-STREET.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from George Sharp, Esq., to sell by public auction, without reserve, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 16th September, at 11 o'clock,
All that valuable block of city land, having an area of about ONE QUARTER OF AN ACRE and a frontage of 68 FEET TO HUNTER-STREET, together with those EXTENSIVE FIRST-CLASS PREMISES erected thereon, comprising the SHOP and COMMODIOUS RESIDENCE, formerly occupied by the late W. SHARP., Esq., and the spacious stabling and other ranges of substantial buildings in the large court-yard at the rear.
The house is one of the most substantial buildings in the city, and finished in good style throughout. It is erected of brick on massive stone foundations, wide flagged verandah in front. It contains on the ground floor, hall, 7 feet wide; drawing-room, 24 x 20, now temporarily converted into a shop; dining room, 17 x 17; breakfast room, 17 x 13; kitchen, 20 feet in length; pantry, scullery, &c.
ON THE UPPER FLOOR, six fine bedrooms.
ON THE BASEMENT are spacious, dry, perfectly drained, flagged cellars, entered from a good flagged yard at the back of the house. At the rear of the whole is a large court yard, having upwards of 100 feet frontage to a right-of-way, and on which are ranges of most substantial premises, formerly used by the late Mr. Sharp, including first-class four-stall stable, coach-house, harness room, store, laundry, and numerous well-finished outbuildings.
☞ This property occupies a very valuable position in the city, extending from Hunter-street to the grounds surrounding the Union Club, a depth of about 200 feet. The premises are wellknown, and not to be excelled in regard to expensive elaborate finish and durability by any in the city of Sydney. Their extent and value can only be ascertained from personal inspection; and as the proprietor's instructions are unreservedly to sell, capitalists are invited specially to closely examine the whole prior to the sale.
Plan on view at the Rooms.

FOR POSITIVE SALE.

NEWTOWN ROAD.

TWO COTTAGES at the corner of WELLS-STREET, next to the RESIDENCE of Mrs. DICKSON, and a few yards beyond CAMDEN COLLEGE.

TO CAPITALISTS.

EXTENSIVE VALUABLE COAL ESTATE.

By Order of the Mortgagees.

BALGOWNIE ESTATE, WOLLONGONG.

The whole of that portion of the above Estate, containing 1047 ACRES 2 ROODS and 16 PERCHES, including the VALUABLE COAL and RICH DAIRY PASTURE LANDS, well-known as the property of WILLIAM SPEER, Esq., M.L.A.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from the Mortgagees to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, Sydney, on FRIDAY, 30th September, at 11 o'clock,
1. The following 18 lots, portions of the Balgownie estate—

	a.	r.	p.
Lots 15 to 18	71	3	27
Lots 24, 25, 26	146	0	33
Lots 41 to 44	163	1	25
Lots 45, 46, 47	151	2	2
Lots 48, 51	150	3	3
Lots 49 and 50	155	2	17
Total	839	1	27

2. Three Crown Grants divided by a Government road from the north-west corner of the above lots of the Balgownie subdivision, comprising—

	a.	r.	p.
Armstrong's grant	36	2	0
T. Hale's ditto	26	1	0
O'Brien's ditto	108	1	0

3. 37 acres and 29 perches, part of Bolan's 200-acre grant, situated between Para Creek and the sea beach, about half a mile from the harbour of Wollongong.
☞ The above lots comprise an aggregate of 1047 ACRES 2 ROODS and 16 PERCHES, distant about 2 miles and a half from the wharf and dock at the harbour of Wollongong. A large proportion is cleared, cultivated, or laid down in grasses; the other improvements comprising fencing, farm homesteads, &c. The rental derivable from the portion used for farming and dairying purposes is about £300 per annum. The unimproved land includes a considerable area of brush and fine standing timber.
The paramount importance and value of this estate, however, exists in the nearly INEXHAUSTIBLE COAL SEAMS
which immediately underlie the surface. It is estimated that there are on the property 500 to 550 ACRES OF RICH COAL LAND, with a
SEVEN FEET SEAM RUNNING THROUGH, a continuation of the Mount Keera and Mount Pleasant seams, the latter mine with tramway to the harbour, being on the edge of one of the boundaries.
Mining and coal engineers estimate, after allowing one-tenth for waste, &c., that an area of one acre of the seven-feet seam will yield OVER 7000 TONS of SALEABLE COAL, which rate, taking the minimum area and minimum estimated yield, will give the enormous return of
3,500,000 TONS OF MARKETABLE COAL obtainable from this seam alone.
In addition to the seven feet seam, there are OTHER RICH SEAMS
workable, some of them nearly equal in thickness, so that it is NO EXAGGERATION TO STATE that the COAL ON THE PROPERTY IS INEXHAUSTABLE.
The royalty paid by the coal companies in the locality is one shilling per ton. This is considered by competent authorities, and from actual experience, a reasonable and fair charge, as the coal, from the natural advantages of the position and its proximity to a good harbour, can be advantageously and economically worked, contrasting favourably with the more difficult and expensive nature of the works at the Newcastle mines.
A trial mine has been opened, and the coal found quite equal to that produced from the mines now at work in the district.
The Belmore Dock, at Wollongong, can be reached by a tramway about three miles in length. This from one position on the property could be formed, at a comparatively small expense, over a nearly level road, neither cuttings or bridges of any extent being required. Every facility for loading vessels is obtainable at the dock, the present coal staiths being capable of shipping fully 2000 tons per day.
Portion 3, 37 acres, on the coast, described above, is situated about half-a-mile from the harbour, and in the direct course of a tramway from Balgownie. This piece of land would form an admirable depot for storing coal in the waggons waiting shipment.
But a very faint outline can be given within the limits of an advertisement of the great value and importance of this extensive valuable estate. It is only necessary to add the instructions of the mortgagees, which are peremptory, to effect an absolute sale. That an immense fortune must be realised out of the property by the purchaser, no one at all acquainted with its value will for a moment doubt; and if at present it is not thought desirable to work the nearly unlimited coal-beds, a considerable return on the investment is obtainable from tenants of the agricultural and dairy farms, which always, from their position, secure good and permanent tenants.
Further particulars may be obtained, and plans of the property inspected at the Rooms, Pitt-street, Sydney.
Title unquestionable.—All information respecting the same can be obtained on application to W. W. BILLYARD, Esq., Solicitor, Hunter-street.
Terms at sale.
